Detroit, Mich., Jan. 20 [Wednesday]. —[Special.]—Alfred P. Sloan Jr., president of the General Motors corporation, will confer at 2 p. m. today with Secretary Perkins and Gov. Frank Murphy of Michigan in Washington in an effort to arrange for a joint conference between the Automobile Workers' union and General Motors officials to end the strike which has crippled the automobile production of that corporation.

If Gov. Murphy and Secretary Perkins succeed in winning Sloan to their view they probably will arrange for a direct conference between him and John L. Lewis, chairman of the Committee for Industrial organization, with which the Automobile Workers' union is affiliated.

Pave Way for Conference.

Mr. Lewis conferred for eight hours yesterday with Secretary Perkins, Gov. Murphy, Assistant Secretary of Labor Edward F. McGrady, and Conciliator James F. Dewey in Washington. The federal officials attempted to pave the way for a joint conference between automobile union officials and spokesmen for General Motors corporation.

Following the conference Gov. Murphy said he was confident the strike would be settled peacefully. He said then that he had a specific plan he had prepared and "I believe it will work."

Knudsen Departs for New York.

It is believed that his plan was to draw Mr. Sloan into the conference with Secretary Perkins, the governor and Mr. Dewey. Having succeeded in doing that, it is believed he hoped to arrange a meeting between Mr. Sloan and Lewis.

W. S. Knudsen, vice president of General Motors, left Detroit last night by train for New York accompanied by Donaldson Brown, chairman of the finance committee of General Motors corporation, and John Thomas Smith, general counsel. They will confer with Mr. Sloan in New York before he leaves for Washington. It is possible that they will accompany him to Washington.

RELIEF COSTS SOAR

BY WILLIAM O'NEIL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Flint, Mich., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—Relief costs, up 1,000 per cent as a result of the automobile strike here, today became the chief problem in the widespread struggle between General Motors and the United Automobile Workers.

Applicants increased from an average of twenty or thirty a day to 247 yesterday, with a new record in sight as the county relief office closed tonight.

From Lansing came word that resources of the state emergency relief commission are being rapidly depleted. Of the 9 million dollars voted for the fiscal year of 1936-'37, only 454,700 remained tonight.

May Not Last the Month.

It was estimated that this cash will last only until the first week in February, and perhaps not that long if the number of applications continues to increase at so alarming a rate.

Officials say they will make no change in relief policies, however. Gov. Frank Murphy repeatedly has assured the strikers they will be fed and cared for.

Dr. William Haber, state relief director, was in Flint last Saturday and passed on Gov. Murphy's instructions to give relief "on the basis of need, whether the needy be strikers or nonstrikers." Officials at the Flint office said they were going along on that rule, making no effort to determine the status of the applicant on any other basis.

But the Money's Short.

"We haven't received any additional money from the state to carry out the governors' order, though," said a local relief official today. "I don't know what we are going to do if we don't get some pretty soon."

There are an estimated 23,000 workers idle in Flint and the pinch of missing incomes is being felt more acutely each day.

Homer Martin, president of the union, said in Detroit last Saturday that the union could not and did not plan to care for its own members. The state commission met today in

Fights Off Paralysis at 20,000 Feet.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 19.—[Special.]—One of the most amazing speed flights of all time was made today by Howard Hughes, young and daring millionaire manufacturer, motion picture producer, and pilot, who sped through the substratosphere from Los Angeles to this city in 7 hours 28 minutes 25 seconds.

Hughes' average speed for 2,490 miles over what he calls a "modified great circle course" was 332 miles per hour. This achievement is the greatest sustained speed flight ever made. It also sets a new west-east transcontinental speed record, bettering the old mark—also held by Hughes—by approximately two hours [1:56:45, to be exact]. The former record was 9 hours 25 minutes 10 seconds, an average speed of 265 miles per hour.

Speed Nears Land Record.

One of the most extraordinary features of Hughes' flight today was the fact that his average speed was within 20 miles per hour of the world's landplane speed record of 352 miles per hour, which he set in September, 1935, at Santa Ana, Cal. The landplane speed record was flown over a three kilometer course—an extremely short flight during which, presumably, the airplane's engine could [illegible] allowed to operate at full throttle.

Today's flight was made without a stop and the motor of the plane naturally could not be allowed to operate at full throttle for more than a fraction of the time the ship was in the air. Indeed, Hughes asserted that once he reached his cruising altitude, which was about 14,000 feet, the engine did not deliver more than 40 per cent of its total available horse power.

Top Speed 380 Miles an Hour.

Even with this reduction in power, the ship at times reached ground speeds of 380 miles per hour, Hughes said. These extraordinary speeds were obtained with the help of westerly winds, which amounted to approximately 60 miles per hour between Los Angeles and Albuquerque, N. M.; died away to 40 miles per hour between Albuquerque and Kansas City, and then rose again to 50 miles per hour east of the Mississippi river.

Although seemingly the flight was accomplished with the utmost precision, Hughes, who is laconic, shy—almost diffident in his manner, finally revealed that he had experienced "some trouble" at various stages. The worst of his difficulties occurred at 20,000 feet, over Winslow, Ariz., when his oxygen apparatus jammed.

"We'd fixed up this gadget ourselves," Hughes said. "Tubes leading to my face from oxygen tanks culminated in a rubber mask which left my mouth clear. The idea was to inhale through my nose and exhale through the mouth.

Homemade Gadget Jams.

"I'd expected to be able to regulate the mixture of oxygen and outside air at this rubber mask through two valves. Both valves stuck and I found I was getting neither oxygen nor air.

"I began to feel numb. I was cold, the cockpit heater failing to work. I put up one hand and took hold of the hose line and then found I couldn't let go.

"I'd been told that when in such a condition it was a good idea to 'holler.' I dragged away the oxygen mask and 'hollered' my head off. I tried to flap my arms and legs, moving them just a little.

"Then I began to feel a little better. I tore the rubber tubes away from the mask and stuck them into my mouth to breathe the oxygen straight, and that seemed to work okay."

Goal: 20 Minutes Off Mark.

Hughes was asked why he made the flight.

"I'd heard somebody was going to try to beat my speed record," he replied. "I had this ship and I was certain that my old record could be beaten, so I decided to set up a mark that would be worth shooting at.

"You know, in making a new record you have to beat the old mark by at least 3 per cent or your time is not counted. That meant that my

POPE WEAKENS AFTER 'BAD DAY'; PHYSICIAN STAYS AT BEDSIDE

VATICAN CITY, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Pope Pius XI. had "a bad day" and was weaker tonight, a reliable source aid.

For the first time since the pope's illness scores of citizens lingered late tonight in St. Peter's square gazing toward the Vatican. They noted lights were burning in rooms usually dark.

The holy father's physician, Dr. Amanti Milani, was still in the Vatican as midnight approached and was expected to remain all night.

Stricken Dec. 5 with partial paralysis of the legs and ailing from other old age troubles, the 79 year old pontiff was said in a semi-official report to have been in less favorable condition than at any time in a week.

The holy father's right arm pained severely, Vatican sources declared, and it was believed this indicated he had angina pectoris.

Roughhouse in Court Over Eddie Guerin

In a bitter exchange of verbal animosities in the Probate court yesterday between lawyers wrangling over an estate claim of Eddie Guerin, international criminal of a former generation, the following extra legal terms became court record:

"Sandbagger."

"Hijack."

"Scurilous."

Also "skunk," according to some listeners, but the use of this word was denied by one of the lawyers.

Strangely enough [if you recall his past], Mr. Guerin took no part in this byplay. He is the man who gained notoriety thirty-one years ago as the first person to escape from the French penal colony of Devil's Island, off the coast of Guiana. He was serving a sentence there for holding up the American Express company in Paris.

Enter Chicago May Churchill.

According to one account—the version of Chicago May Churchill—it was in her chartered yacht that Guerin escaped. Chicago May, known as Guerin's associate, died in 1929.

Guerin, now 76 years old, has lived for many years in London where, because he is a British subject, he is immune from extradition to France. Last week he came here secretly to look after his interest in an estate, but he became fearful lest "certain influences" might seek his return to a French prison. Accordingly he fled by plane last Saturday to Canada.

Eddie's Current Difficulties.

The day's commotion arose from Eddie's claim to a one-fifth share of the $67,000 estate left by his halfsister, Mrs. Harriet A. Mitchell, widow of a stock broker. She died May 18.

Guerin originally made a contract with Attorney William Kleinman to represent him in the matter, but on his recent flying visit he engaged Attorneys John H. Johntry and John O'C. Fitzgerald. Yesterday they presented a petition for permission to replace Kleinman as counsel.

In the absence of Judge John F. O'Connell, who is ill, Judge Edgar F. Thoma of Du Page county was sitting as the acting probate judge.

"This petition is scurrilous," de-

PASS THE PRETZELS! HARVARD YARD PUMP STARTS SPOUTING BEER

Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 19.—(AP)—The pump in Harvard yard was operated today by thirsty students—and they got beer.

The report spread like last year's March flood and the amber brew was quickly consumed. The last few drafts were slightly diluted.

The pump was installed during the tercentenary celebration last fall to replace one erected in the 19th century, before the Harvard buildings were piped. The original pump was dynamited by students in 1901.

The new pump is piped. Investigation showed that pranksters had deposited beer in the reservoir beneath the pump.

CLAIMS TAVERN AFTER 3 GUNMEN RAID THE PLACE

Three gunmen entered the Pines tavern on Sheridan road, half a mile north of the Waukegan city limits, early today, accompanied by Ralph Petit, 36 years old, of Half Day, who was unarmed. While the gunmen flourished their weapons Petit addressed the bartender, Ralph King.

"Get out," he said. "I'm in charge here. Take the money and the liquor and the cigars and cigarets with you."

The bartender obeyed and left the tavern, followed by the three gunmen. Outside the place, he said, the trio took $60 from him. Then he drove half a mile south to the Little Fort tavern, which is also operated by his employer, Chauncey Shanyfelt, and reported the robbery to the sherif.

When deputies reached the Pines tavern they found Petit and Shanyfelt engaged in heated argument over who had a right to the tavern. Petit claimed he had leased the place from an F. Pavlik of Kenilworth. Shanyfelt claimed he had subleased the tavern from a Mrs. Grace Karstars. Pending investigation Petit was locked up in the county jail at Waukegan.

Jim Forgives Democrats for 'Taking Walk'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—After reaching great heights in his praise of Franklin D. Roosevelt, "the most gallant crusader of Jeffersonian democracy that this land ever has known," Postmaster General James A. Farley tonight pulled out the tremolo stops when in the course of a speech before members of the electoral college, he referred to those "sadly misguided Democrats" who wandered off the reservation in the last campaign.

FARLEY AND DEMOCRACY'S MASCOT.

The electoral college gathering is a unique occasion, suggested originally by Mr. Roosevelt before his first inauguration. Most of the 531 members of the college, who theoretically elect the President by their votes at the mandate of the people, were present. Usually they never see each other, their votes being forwarded to Washington in the shape of affidavits from the various states.

Even Republicans Applaud.

They whooped and yelled their appreciation of Mr. Farley's oration. 523 of the 531 votes having been Democratic by vote of the people, and even the lonely little group of Republicans present applauded, so benevolent was Big Jim in his utterance of good will toward all.

The boss of the Democratic party grinned meaningly and put a throb in his voice as he came, late in his speech, to a paragraph which none doubted referred to the "walks" taken last summer by such prominent Jeffersonians as Alfred E. Smith, John W. Davis, Bainbridge Colby, and many others.

"We shall go ahead with charity for all and with malice toward none," declared Big Jim. "The majority was too tremendous to justify any bitterness on our part toward those who sought to turn us back to black reaction. Their punishment is in their own humiliation.

"No Hates to Cherish."

"We have no hates to cherish. We have no enemies to punish. We have no grievances to redress. And no man or element of good will and honest intent need fear the next administration of Franklin D. Roosevelt. There is room in the old homestead of Americanism for any of the wanderers of the night who wish to come back home."

That got them. The electors, who had wined and dined in sumptuous fashion, put on a demonstration that could be heard throughout the Mayflower hotel.

The postmaster general spoke seriously of the responsibilities which the Democratic party has incurred by its victory. He expressed a hope that "petty obstructive opposition" to the Roosevelt administration would cease.

Recognizes Responsibilities.

"The victory is so great that the responsibilities it carries are all the greater, and these responsibilities, while to the party, are to a greater extent to the country," he said.

"We must not forget that there have been times in our history when a political party has won a sweeping victory only to be overwhelmingly swept from power in the next election.

"But that invariably has been due to the fact that in its jubilation it has overlooked its solemn responsibilities. That, I pledge you, we shall not do. Our enemies confidently count upon the enormity of our majority to sow the seed of dissension within our ranks.

Pledges "No Divisions."

"They hope to restore government to privilege by marching to future victory through our divided columns. And the answer is—there will be no divided columns.

"There is not a man in America with a knowledge of politics who does not know that the American people are demanding that our forces shall continue to follow the enlightened leadership of vision that is Roosevelt's. Wherever he goes we follow; we know the voice of but one commander.

"And so it is with a feeling of solemnity that we dedicate ourselves, on the eve of the new administration, to proving ourselves worthy of the brilliant leadership that is ours and of the awe-inspiring confidence of the nation."

Inauguration on W-G-N

W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system will carry the inauguration ceremonies in their entirety, starting at 10:15 this morning and continuing until approximately 1 p. m.

MBS microphones will be set up on the east steps of the capitol, atop the Archives building, and in the official reviewing stand on Pennsylvania avenue in front of the White House, among other places.

The tentative broadcasting schedule:

10:15 a. m.—Pre-inauguration scene.

10:30 a. m.—Description as the presidential party proceeds along Pennsylvania avenue.

10:40 a. m.—Swearing in of Vice President Garner.

11 to 11:45 a. m.—Swearing in of President Roosevelt, to be immediately followed by his inaugural address.

11:45 a. m.—Description of President's departure from capitol and return to the White House.

12:30 p. m.—Description of the inaugural parade.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—With congress and the nation anxiously awaiting his inaugural address as the keynote of the next four years of the New Deal, President Roosevelt will begin his second term shortly after noon tomorrow when he takes the oath of office before a vast multitude on the east plaza of the capitol.

The 75th congress, first to meet in advance of a presidential inauguration as a result of the Norris "lame duck" amendment to the constitution, has been marking time for two weeks with all major legislative action deferred pending disclosure of the President's objectives for the next quadrennium.

Whether Mr. Roosevelt will project the country further on the road to a collectivist state, or evince a more conciliatory attitude toward commerce and industry as he seeks to consolidate the innovations already effected by the New Deal, is the foremost question which congress and the public at large expect him to answer.

Weather Forecast Unfavorable.

Preparations for the inaugural ceremonials and festivities, which by tomorrow morning will add upwards of 150,000 to Washington's population, were completed today, down to the hanging of artificial blossoms on the transplanted magnolia trees flanking the court of honor from which Mr. Roosevelt will review the parade. But the magnolia blooms were droopy in a drizzling rain, symbolic of a worse doom to come tomorrow if the weather forecaster proves accurate.

The forecast calls for "rain, possibly mixed with sleet or snow," but the party faithful were counting upon the celebrated Roosevelt weather luck to confound the meteorologists. Admiral Cary T. Grayson, inaugural chairman, passed the day perusing household almanacs, which promised fair weather both for today and tomorrow, while Speaker of the House William B. Bankhead fortified himself with a rabbit's foot.

From all parts of the country the faithful poured in today, by train, plane, bus, and automobile. State delegations, headed by their governors and in many cases their entire legislatures, came on special trains. Every hotel is jammed.

Expect 250,000 Spectators.

It is estimated that 250,000 persons will witness the inauguration ceremony at the capitol and the parade along the historic mile of Pennsylvania avenue to the White House. The avenue is lined with grand stands, gayly decorated with bunting and standards, from which the spectators will watch the procession at a maximum of $10 a seat.

In deference to Mr. Roosevelt's devotion to history, which he hopes will honor him with a place among the "great Presidents," according to his biographer, the inaugural architects have achieved historical effects in the specially constructed ceremonial stands.

The court of honor in front of the White House, from which Mr. Roosevelt, his family and official household will witness the parade, is an inclosed and heated house, a replica of the Hermitage, Tennessee home of Andrew Jackson. The stand for the oath taking ceremony and inaugural address is a beautiful portico on the east steps of the capitol, with white Corinthian columns supporting its roof, suggesting the portico of the ancient Roman senate, where the emperors from the time of Augustus were invested with the purple.

Will Attend Church Service.

In keeping with a precedent set four years ago, President Roosevelt, accompanied by his family and Vice President and Mrs. Garner, will begin his second inaugural day by attending services in St. John's Episcopal church across Lafayette square from the White House.

Afterward, preceded by an escort of motorcycle policemen with sirens screeching and by four army scout cars fitted with machine guns, the presidential party will proceed up Pennsylvania and Constitution avenues to the capitol. At the same time, about 10 minutes before noon, the senate and house representatives will adjourn and their members will move out onto the platforms reserved for them. Senators Joseph T. Robinson [Dem., Ark.], Matthew M. Neely [Dem., W. Va.], and Representative John J. O'Connor [Dem., N. Y.], will ride to the capitol with the President.

On the portico before the vast expanse of spectators' seats Senate Majority Leader Robinson will first administer the oath of office to Vice President Garner. Heretofore the Vice President always has taken the oath in the senate chamber with the expiration of the old and the inception of the new congress, but this, too, was changed by the "lame duck" amendment.

Justice Hughes Administers Oath.

With this over, the main event will begin when solemn, bearded Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes pronounces and Mr. Roosevelt, his right hand on a Bible, repeats after him the oath faithfully to execute the office of President and to "preserve, protect, and defend the constitution of the United States."

After taking the oath, the President will deliver his second inaugural address and then return to the White House to be host, with Mrs. Roosevelt, at a luncheon for 600 invited party dignitaries.

Shortly after 2 o'clock the presidential party will move out to the front porch of the "Hermitage," and review the parade, which will require about 2½ hours to pass a given point. There will be no civilian marching units or floats, but there will be detachments from the United States army, navy, and marine corps, from the West Point, Annapolis, and New London [coast guard], academies, from the Civilian Conservation corps, and from the projects of the National Youth administration. The governors and their entourages of some 32 states will participate in the parade.

Post-Inaugural Dinner.

After the parade, the festivities will be resumed in the White House with a tea for some 3,000. A concert by the National Symphony orchestra in Constitutional hall tomorrow night will close the official program, but some two dozen state societies will have dances and buffet suppers afterward. The President canceled the usual inaugural ball at the White House this year because of the proximity of his birthday ball celebrations on Jan. 30.

The round of festivities began tonight with a dinner at the White House for a select group of 60, including the White House staf and the board of strategy of the Democratic national committee, which managed the campaign.

The President's inaugural oration, on which he was still working today, is intended, according to intimations from the White House, to be a monumental state paper, one which will go down in history with Lincoln's second inaugural and Washington's farewell address.

On Eve of Roosevelt Inaugural

Reunion in Washington for Vice President and Mrs. Garner, who welcomed their son, Tully, of Texas. Garner will follow in the footsteps of his chief as a tradition breaker when he takes the oath today on the capitol plaza instead of the senate chamber.

ROOSEVELT MUST RENAME FARLEY; OTHERS SERVE ON

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—Postmaster General James A. Farley, alone of President Roosevelt's cabinet, will be reappointed, it was learned today. The President, it was said, will send Mr. Farley's name to the senate for confirmation within the next few days.

Other members of the cabinet, in accordance with custom, will submit their resignations, but it will not be necessary for the President formally to reappoint them. If he does not accept their resignations they will continue in office.

The reason reappointment is required in the case of Mr. Farley is that the term of the postmaster general is fixed by law, creation of that office in the early days of the nation having preceded that of the President's cabinet.

Mr. Farley is not expected to continue as postmaster general indefinitly, but will resign within the next few months to go into private business.

SENATOR GLASS DUBS GOLD FORT ASININE, COSTLY

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Senator Glass [D., Va.] characterized today the movement of the government's gold to newly constructed vaults at Fort Knox, Ky., as "an idiotic transaction."

"We have the greatest vaults in the world in New York," Glass told reporters. "I suppose they expect Switzerland or Costa Rica to come up here and take it away from them.

"It's asinine, $600,000 of the taxpayers' money just thrown away."

That was the amount he estimated it would cost to ship the bullion.

SENTENCE YOUTHS FOR HOLDUP.

Judge J. M. Braude of the Boys' court yesterday sentenced John Calabrese, 18 years old, 2219 North Natchez avenue, to 30 days in the Bridewell, and Ernest Saubert, 20 years old, 3408 Oketo avenue, to four months, for robbing a filling station.

DEPUTY SEALER'S RED FACE FREES HIM OF CONTEMPT

Stands Mute After His Laughter in Court.

Frank Lanser, chief deputy city sealer, was freed of a contempt charge yesterday by Judge Eugene J. Holland of Municipal court. Mr. Lanser didn't exactly apologize in so many words, but he looked sorry and this was accepted as contrition.

FRANK LANSER.

The sealer's court appearance was the result of a remark he made before Judge Holland Dec. 29, describing the proceedings in a short weight case as "very humerous."

This snicker was provoked, he said, when Judge Holland asked a salesgirl witness at last December's trial what she was selling. The very loud answer was: "Nuts!"

Counsel with Him.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Milton Smith appeared with the official when the contempt case was called.

"Mr. Lanser did talk out of turn," he said, "but he meant no harm by it. He is here today to apologize. Go ahead, Mr. Lanser, and tell the court how sorry you are."

Lanser looked at the judge. He jingled some change in his pocket. He shifted from one foot to the other. His face became very red. But he said nothing.

Again Smith turned and implored him to give some sign of contrition. But again Lanser was mute.

"See, Mr. Lanser means to apologize," said Smith to Judge Holland, "but he just can't find the proper words at the moment."

"Yes, I see," said the judge. "He just can't find the words with which to purge himself. Maybe he doesn't want to be purged."

When Lanser finally did talk, he had nothing to say about being sorry.

"I was here in the interest of the people of Chicago," he said. "When the attorney for the defendant asked me what I thought was so humorous, I remarked I thought the entire case was humorous, but I meant no disrespect for the court."

Wins Judge's Pardon.

"All right," intoned Judge Holland, "you stand purged."

City Sealer James O'Keefe promptly thanked the court, but Lanser hurried out of the room without another word.

PARLEY TO CURB COURT IS DENIED AT WHITE HOUSE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt does not plan to call a conference with congressional leaders to consider possible legislation dealing with the Supreme court, it was revealed at the White House today.

Senator Minton [D., Ind.], after a call at the White House yesterday, announced that the President would call such a conference.

At the White House today it was stated that at yesterday's conference Senator Minton had sought President Roosevelt's indorsement of proposed legislation by him designed to limit the powers of the Supreme court by requiring the concurrence of at least seven judges of the court before an act of congress would be declared unconstitutional.

Cites Study of Outlawed Acts.

The President was represented as not having given his indorsement to the proposed legislation, and that, instead of doing so, he told the senator of studies made by the attorney general's office concerning legislation, including the NRA and the AAA, which have been invalidated by the Supreme court.

President Roosevelt was represented further as having asked Senator Minton to call at the White House later on, after the inaugural, at which time Attorney General Homer Cummings would be called in to give him the benefit of such studies.

Way Around Sought in Vain.

The conference was described further as a general discussion over these studies which would be placed at the disposal of Senator Minton or any other member of the senate or house who might desire the advantage of such studies.

The studies were said to have been undertaken long since in an effort to find some way to attain the objectives of the New Deal program under the law. So far, however, no way has been found, it was stated at the White House.

Yesterday's conference with President Roosevelt was at the request of the Indiana senator, it was said.

URGE NEW LAWS AS SOLE HOPE OF CURBING MORONS

Experts See No Lasting Good in Police Drive.

A plan proposed yesterday by State's Attorney Courtney for a special Municipal court to handle sex offenses was called, at best, only a temporary expedient by psychiatrists last night. They pointed out the difficulties in handling the problem, and the need for legislative action which will provide for confinement of such offenders—so-called border line morons.

Courtney proposed the new special branch court in a letter to Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby of the Municipal court after he had announced the creation of a special sex offense department in his own office.

Police Told to Act.

The prosecutor also sent a letter to Police Commissioner Allman to instruct his men to bring any prisoner arrested for a sex offense to the new department in Courtney's office. Coöperation among courts, police, and the prosecutor, he said, would insure an effective campaign against outrages against women and children.

Dr. David B. Rotman, Municipal court psychiatrist, praised Courtney's plan as a temporary expedient, but declared:

"Our laws now recognize the feeble-minded and the insane, and we are able to confine these persons to institutions. So far, however, no legislative notice has been taken of the so-called border line moron. Yet this class constitutes our greatest social danger.

"Not feeble-minded or insane, yet definitly below normal, its members walk the streets at will. Often they seem innocent enough, but they are responsible for a large percentage of our sex crimes. We will have no real solution of the moron problem until our legislators recognize the potential peril of these individuals."

Neymann Gives Views.

Dr. Clarence A. Neymann, professor of psychiatry at Northwestern university, was frankly pessimistic about the plan for a sex offenses court.

"You can't cure a moron by setting up a moron's court any more than you can impose a moral code through a morals court," he said. "A threat to his personal liberty will deter a pervert for only a very short time."

"And if there were 500 of these perverts in Chicago, you could not make 250 of them behave by throwing the other 250 into jail. There simply is no general formula that will solve this problem. Solutions vary with individual cases."

Both psychiatrists protested against the use of the word "moron" in this connection. Dr. Neymann insisted that they be described as "sex perverts," which they really are.

"A moron," he said, "simply means a feeble-minded person with the mentality of a child from 8 to 12 years old."

Dr. Rotman was more resigned to the meaning that the word has acquired, but he declared that there are several classifications of so-called morons.

The Classes of Morons.

"Of these, three groups constitute a sexual threat. These are the insane, the feeble-minded, and the border-line cases, he said. Probably 50 per cent of our morons are not subject to sexual aberrations, but they may have other criminal tendencies. And then there are the benign morons who perform most of the world's hard labor and are quite useful citizens."

It is almost impossible to estimate the number of sexual delinquents in Chicago, he said. However, since 1929 the Municipal court has sent an average of 2,000 morons to institutions each year. Of these 2,000, about 300 were sexually delinquent, according to Dr. Rotman.

Concerted Action Demanded.

In his letters to Commissioner Allman and Judge Sonsteby, Courtney said:

"The increased outrages against women and children and the increased numbers of sex complaints in this city during the past few months call for a concentrated and effective action on the part of all law enforcing agencies and the judiciary."

Mr. Courtney assigned Assistant State's Attorney Samuel Papanek and five policemen to the sex offense department. Papanek said a file of all known sex offenders in the county would be speedily compiled from the records of Dr. Harry R. Hoffman, head of the Criminal court behavior clinic; of Dr. Rotman, and of the captains of all police districts.

The records, Mr. Courtney said, will be kept in much the same manner as those of the automobile detail of the state's attorney's office, which now has the histories of thousands of automobile thieves.

"We started our campaign against automobile thievery the same way," said Mr. Courtney.

AL E. SMITH JR. TELLS OF PAYING $8,500 EXTORTION

Exonerated of Attack by Woman in Case.

New York, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Alfred E. Smith Jr., son of the former New York governor, testified today in the extortion trial of Max D. Krone and A. Harry Ross that it cost him $8,500 to "get general releases" from the accused blackmailers to avoid being smeared with scandal.

The indictment specifically accused Krone and Ross of extorting only $1,500—but that, Smith said as his estranged wife sat in the courtroom, was only part of the story.

Tells of Receiving $1,000.

Miss Pavlick, described by the state as the unwitting instrument of a shakedown, testified she got only $1,000 of the $8,500 Smith said he had to pay out.

Furthermore, the blonde young woman, identified by a statement brought into the trial as a former clerical worker for the Boy Scouts of America, repudiated a written statement attributed to her to the effect that Smith had "attacked" her.

Both she and Smith have testified to an unconventional meeting in a hotel in 1933. She conceded having signed a letter on July 30, 1933, in which she told Krone that unless Ross made a settlement with Smith she would employ another lawyer, but said she wrote it under Krone's compulsion.

Wants $25,000 to Keep Quiet.

Smith, after telling of the hotel affair, went on:

"After receiving a letter from Ross I met him on June 2, 1933, and he said Miss Pavlick was in trouble and that she wanted $25,000 to keep quiet."

"I said I did not have $25,000. Ross said, 'That's too bad for you, for Miss Pavlick has a private detective named Krone that is handling the case for her and he is a ——.'

"Two days' later I went to Ross' office and met Krone there. Krone said, 'An action is being started against you.' Later Krone said, 'It's too bad that such a thing is being started against you, your father and your family.'

"I gave Krone $250 when he said that amount was needed for a trip to Bermuda for Miss Pavlick, who was in ill health and needed a doctor to accompany her.

Refers to Accused Blackmailer.

"I gave Krone some notes and the notes were paid monthly. In August, 1933, I obtained a general release from Krone after I had paid him a total of $7,000. One of the notes I gave him was a blank note.

"On May 29, 1934, Krone told me that Ross wanted $2,500 as counsel fees or he would sue me. I gave Krone $1,500 as a legal fee for Ross, and obtained a general release from Ross."

Miss Pavlick said Ernest Behagen, accused blackmailer, now serving a two and one-half year sentence for larceny, probably was the source of some of the assertions attributed to her in the statement whose most essential feature she repudiated.

DENHARDT IS INDICTED AS SLAYER OF COMELY WIDOW, HIS FIANCEE

New Castle, Ky., Jan. 19.—(AP)—The death of comely Mrs. Verna Garr Taylor was charged to her fiancé, Henry H. Denhardt, Kentucky's former adjutant general, in an indictment returned by the Henry county grand jury late today.

"Willful murder" read the indictment which Price Watkins, grand jury foreman, presented to Circuit Judge Charles C. Marshall. It came during a brief respite at the trial of two young men charged with a hold-up murder on the same lonely road where last Nov. 6 the 40 year old widow was found dead of pistol shot wounds.

Brig. Gen. Denhardt, portly 61 year old veteran of three wars and former lieutenant governor, was across the street drinking a glass of beer with a woman companion when informed the jury had indicted him. "O, they have?" he commented. "Well, see my attorneys." Then he resumed sipping his beer.

Denhardt has been at liberty on bond. He was ordered to come into court tomorrow for arraignment, at which time the matter of continuing his bond and a change of venue are expected to be decided. W. Clark Otte, his chief counsel, indicated he would move for trial in another county.

THREE INSULLS WIN APPEAL ON $200,000 TAXES

Choir Boy Takes Rector's View: 'Terrible!'

He was young. He was blond. He was nervous. But the choir boy they called to the witness stand yesterday knew what he thought of the music in St. Barnabas Episcopal church. It was terrible; worse, indeed, than the Rev. Walter Shoemaker Pond had said, and all because the musicians wanted it that way.

The choir boy, Glen Marquard, told about it in Circuit court, where Thomas Bouchier is suing the rector for $50,000 on a charge of slander. Bouchier, former treasurer of the church, asserts that Dr. Pond accused him of joyriding with the most prominent widow of the parish, Mrs. Maude Lavery, and that the rector hinted that his treasurer had a romance with the widow and that there were irregularities in the handling of the church funds.

Glen Agrees with Rector.

Glen was inclined to agree with the view Dr. Pond expressed from the witness stand during the day: that the rector was thinking of the music when he rebuked Bouchier, Mrs. Lavery, and Miss Mabel Oberhart, the organist. And if it cost $50,000 to say how bad the music was, well, Glen seemed to think it was worth it.

Called back to the witness stand by Judge Cornelius J. Harrington when the attorneys had finished their questioning, Glen, who lives at 210 North Kolin avenue, appeared to be a better defense witness than Dr. Pond himself.

They might have asked Glen if he were 21 yet. But when he blushed and said that he had sung in the choir for eleven years, except for the time his voice was changing, they didn't press him for his age.

Judge Wants Details.

Like other witnesses for Dr. Pond, Glen had just testified that he didn't believe Dr. Pond used the term "joyriding," when Judge Harrington asked:

"What was the matter with the music?"

Glen gave his sweater another tug. He said:

"O, it was terrible!" Then he explained why.

"Is that all?" asked the judge.

Soloists on the Run.

"Well," said Glen cheerfully, "whenever they brought a soloist in it seemed that they all hatched it up to throw her off. The organ would go sour."

"And the soloist," he reflected, "wouldn't come back."

The judge wanted to know what happened the morning of March 11, 1934, when the rector said what he thought of the music, Bouchier, Mrs. Lavery, and Miss Oberhart.

"The music was off key," said Glen. "We were singing all right, but the organ tempo was off."

Even the judge couldn't keep back a chuckle when Glen explained:

Puts In Some Basketball.

With things getting so delightfully informal, Ernest L. Duck, one of Dr. Pond's former parishioners and now attorney for Bouchier, beamed upon Glen and inquired:

"Weren't you on my basketball team at the church then?"

"What has that to do with the case?" demanded the rector's attorney, George Christensen.

"Well, I just want to show that he's a regular he-guy," explained Duck. "Now, Glen, tell about the organ."

"It was always having to be fixed," said Glen in a loud voice befitting his rank of he-guy. "But the organ's all right if it's played right."

Admits Charging Joy Rides.

While most of Dr. Pond's witnesses yesterday testified that they did not understand he was accusing Bouchier of joy riding, the rector frankly admitted that he did. But he explained that he hadn't meant to slander anyone, and that he didn't mean there had been anything particularly wrong with joy riding.

He testified that the morning of the rebuke he saw Bouchier, Mrs. Lavery, and Miss Oberhart whispering before the service.

"Did they say anything to you?" asked the rector's attorney.

"They were in a sort of a group when I came in," Dr. Pond replied. "Mrs. Lavery turned toward me and mumbled something in a very petulent mood."

Sees Duty; Does It.

When he got to what he actually said in his rebuke the rector was most explicit.

"I told the parishioners I was ill and had a very unpleasant duty to perform," he said. "But I wanted to do it because they were there to witness how the music was disrupted by the musicians and the organ.

"I reminded them that the choir could sing, but when they should go ahead, they stopped, and when they should go up, they went down.

"Before the service, Mr. Bouchier seemed to be sleeping in his seat. At the point where Mrs. Lavery and the organist reached the climax in the wrecking of the music, Mr. Bouchier came out of his slumbers and laughed.

"I said my belief was that the most popular bachelor went out joyriding with the most eligible widow of the parish and stayed out too late to participate in worship the next morning."

The hearing will be resumed today.

RUTH ROLAND'S MATE CALLED BIGAMIST; 1ST WIFE ASKS ALIMONY

RUTH ROLAND.

The charge was made, between sobs, before Supreme Court Referee John Ford by Martha Pryor, once famous dramatic actress and singer, who declared that Bard—although she hasn't seen him since 1924—still is her lawful husband.

Miss Pryor's current action is for a degree of separation and $500 a month alimony. Her attorney also asked the court to rule that a divorce obtained by Bard in San Francisco in 1926 was fraudulent. Referee Ford reserved decision on both applications.

Highway Sign Painters Charge Lockout by State

Nine men who look after the 35,000 highway signs in Cook county charged last night that they have been locked out of the state highway department garage at 7310 Central avenue, River Forest, since last Friday. The nine, who are members of the Union Sign and Bulletin Board Hangers' union, local 159, say they protested when two nonunion men were added to their force. Last Thursday night they received telegrams of dismissal from Kendrick Hargen, district engineer. Since then they have been barred from the garage.

Frank Lloyd Wright's 1st Wife Awarded a Divorce

Mrs. Catherine Page, Frank Lloyd Wright's first wife, won a divorce yesterday from her second husband, Benjamin E. Page, who was once wealthy. Judge Joseph B. David of the Superior court ordered attorneys to draft a decree on the ground of desertion. She was married in 1930 to Page, who was then secretary of Frank Lloyd Wright, Inc. Page was represented by his attorney, Sidney Stavins.

PACES SHORE 3 HOURS; LEAPS IN LAKE AND DROWNS

Frank C. Weber, 62 years old, 8705 South Morgan street, a former wholesale grocer, paced the lake shore at 51st street for three hours yesterday. Then, as WPA workers on a nearby project looked on, he leaped into the water.

One of the workers, Joseph La Mantia, 345 West 23d place, lay on a large rock, reached down, grasped Weber's collar and held his head out of the water until Park Policeman James E. Gorman arrived. The policeman used a dip net to reach the unconscious man, who weighed 250 pounds, and helped lift him from the water. Weber was pronounced dead when taken to Illinois Central hospital.

Weber's sister-in-law, Mrs. Mollie Lumpp, with whom he lived, said that since he lost his wholesale grocery business six years ago, Weber had been selling coffee to a few old customers. His wife died two years ago. Recently he had suffered from a nervous ailment, Mrs. Lumpp said.

SON OF SCULPTOR BREAKS FAMILY 'CURSE'; THEN DIES

LONDON, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Clare Consuelo Sheridan, sculptor, writer, and traveler, disclosed today her son, Richard Brinsley Sheridan, had died in Algeria on Sunday after breaking a legendary 400 year "curse of the Sheridans." Sheridan, who recently became 21 years old, died following an operation for appendicitis.

RICHARD B. SHERIDAN.

His mother said her husband, who was killed in France in 1915, had warned her that no first born Sheridan son had inherited family lands near Dorchester for 400 years because of the "curse." When her son came of age she said: "For twenty-one years I have lived in fear of this curse. Now, thank God, it is over."

Seek Indictment Today for Vicious Killer.

LUIGI GARARDO.

An indictment charging him with the murder last Thursday of Policeman Arthur Sullivan will be sought today against Joseph Schuster, paroled convict, Assistant State's Attorney Malachi Coghlan said yesterday.

Schuster was put through a series of "showups" at the detective bureau yesterday, at which victims of recent robberies viewed him as he stood in a line with other prisoners. It was thought he might be identified in connection with other slayings.

Ordeal in Show-up Room.

One of these appearances beneath the glaring lights of the "showup" room was a real ordeal for the prisoner. The incident came when he was handcuffed to Steve Ondack, another parolee who is being held on suspicion of burglary. Ondack was arrested Monday night, along with his parole sponsor, Elmer Hardin, 1112 West 69th street, who is also held on suspicion.

As the two ex-convicts were being manacled together in a room behind the "showup" chamber, policemen saw Ondack draw back from Schuster and look him over from head to foot.

Then, as the irons linked them together, Ondack was heard to curse Schuster bitterly.

Cursed by Fellow Prisoner.

"You dirty ——," Ondack snarled. "I wish I was in a cell alone with you and had these cuffs off. You're the guy that killed the copper, huh? Yes, and you're the guy that turned 'the heat' on all us paroled convicts."

"Here, you, be quiet," a policeman commanded.

"I wish I had you alone, with these cuffs off," Ondack repeated before he was silenced. Schuster said nothing. His stoical calm has broken only once since his arrest early Friday. This was on Sunday night when he wept in the office of Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan.

Robbery Victims Present.

About 25 men and women were present in the theaterlike "showup" room when Schuster, Ondack, and seven other prisoners walked on to the stage. Most of the spectators had been victims of a lone robber who has committed a number of stick-ups in recent months. Police had believed that Schuster might have been operating alone but no new identifications were made at the session.

While the "show-up" was proceeding, police noticed a weeping woman in the front row who glanced often and sadly at Schuster, as he stood in the line, silent and expressionless. Sergt. John Hanrahan crossed over to her.

"What are you down here for, lady?" he asked.

Woman's Sad Ordeal.

"I was told to come," the woman replied, still weeping. "My home was robbed a few months ago. I'm, I'm Joe Schuster's sister."

Later the woman, Mrs. Harriett Kielczynski, 2245 South Sawyer avenue, and her husband, Theodore, who had accompanied her, were questioned by police. Mrs. Kielczynski said that she had sworn out a warrant charging Schuster with the burglary, during which two guns and a few dollars were taken.

"But I can't believe he killed this policeman," she said. "Joe was always so good when he was little. Mother was sick a lot and he even took care of the house for her. He even washed the dishes."

Parole Sponsor Is Seized.

Another case of a parole sponsor who appeared for an ex-convict was disclosed last night when the sponsor, Luigi Garardo, 54 years old, 4359 Congress street, was questioned by the Maxwell street police. In December, 1932, David Flynn, 32 years old, 1255 West 14th street, was paroled from Joliet prison to Garardo after Garardo promised to give him a job in his printing shop.

Flynn and a companion were arrested Sunday night after they had robbed Joseph Mancal, 1517 West 17th street, and his wife as they were putting their car into a garage at 1413 West 17th street. Garardo admitted to the police that not only had he never employed Flynn but that he has not seen him for the last eight months. Earlier, he said, he signed four of Flynn's monthly parole reports at the same time.

Asked why he had helped Flynn violate his parole Garardo replied:

"Because I was a fool."

His statement was sent to the state's attorney's office.

Second Parolee Is Held.

Police suspect Ondack, the other parolee held, of burglary, but no charge had been placed against him last night, nor against Hardin, with whom Ondack lives.

Kenneth Butler, another parolee released from Joliet only eight months ago, was held to the grand jury in $30,000 bonds yesterday on three charges of robbery with a gun.

The bond was fixed in the Felony court. Butler was arrested in his home, 3023 Washington boulevard, a week ago and was identified in 25 robberies. He was paroled from prison June 8, 1936, after serving four and one-half years of a one to ten year sentence for larceny.

Assistant State's Attorney Samuel Papnek said that the state would seek to indict Butler under the habitual criminal act so that he may be sentenced to life imprisonment.

Robbery Victims Study Suspects for Familiar Faces

These spectators in a grim "theater" are watching drama unfold on a police stage. As suspects arrested in a police roundup are questioned under the glare of bright lights at the detective bureau, these people, all victims of robberies, attempt to identify the holdup men standing before them in the lineup.

TWO SURRENDER IN OPERA HOUSE SLAYING INQUIRY

New York, Jan. 19.—[Special.]—Still wearing the solemn black evening dress in which they fled the scene of Manhattan's mysterious opera house slaying, two men surrendered to police today for questioning in the melodramatic crime.

The men, Gabriel Klahr and Joseph Berger, had been sought since the Sunday night killing of Frank Cicero who was stabbed amid a fictional atmosphere of unreality before nearly 700 formally dressed men and women at a gay banquet.

Almost immediately upon their appearance at a police station, through a prearrangement with their attorney, the two disclaimed any connection with the strange slaying.

"They say they didn't see any knives," said their lawyer.

GOV. LEHMAN SAVES ANOTHER MAN FROM CHAIR

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—Gov. Herbert Lehman, for the eighth time within a few weeks, today granted executive clemency to a condemned murderer.

The governor commuted to life imprisonment the death sentence of Herbert Russell, 35 years old, of New York City, convicted of killing Martin L. Harris in 1933 in a Harlem policy dispute.

Criticized yesterday by County Judge Franklin Taylor in Brooklyn for his leniency toward convicted murderers, Gov. Lehman set forth the motives for his latest commutation.

The governor pointed out that Russell, indicted in 1934, had three trials. He was convicted at the first, the Court of Appeals reversing the verdict. The second ended in mistrial, the third in conviction.

REPORT 6 NAMED BY GRAND JURY IN AMBULANCE RING

Lawyer Involved; More True Bills Expected.

GEORGE L. WEST.

Attorney Leo M. Tarpey, 10 South La Salle street, and five other persons were reported named yesterday in a true bill by the grand jury in its investigation of ambulance chasing and fake injury claims. Their true bill, according to investigators, is the first of a number that will be sought during the next few weeks.

The others reported named in the bill are George L. West, 55 years old, a rotund confessed ambulance chaser; Edward Feeley, 36 years old, and his wife, Frances, 33 years old, of 2213 West 71st street, and James Valentine, 52 years old, and his wife, Catherine, of 7253 South Rockwell street.

The true bill charges conspiracy to obtain signatures to a written instrument by false pretenses. West was taken before the grand jury by Assistant State's Attorney James A. Brown and he was questioned for two hours on an immunity waiver. He broken down and wept several times as he repeated the long confession of ambulance chasing methods which he made to investigators following his arrest in a Kalmazoo, Mich., hotel, Dec. 26.

Valentine and his wife also went before the grand jury on immunity waivers.

According to Prosecutor Brown the charge against the six grew out of a street car accident at Kedzie avenue and Fillmore street last Aug. 31. After the accident, it was charged, Feeley went to West and suggested that he could get the Valentines to claim that they had been injured. West said he agreed to the plan and filed claims for Freeley and the Valentines through Attorney Tarpey. The three collected $75 each.

Mrs. Feeley did not file a claim, but was said to have been involved in the conspiracy. Attorney Tarpey could not be reached yesterday for a statement.

Besides the investigation being conducted by the grand jury, the Chicago Bar association is scrutinizing the ambulance chasing activities of six or seven attorneys.

The grievance committee, acting as commissioners of the Illinois Supreme court, have summoned the attorneys for an explanation.

NORTHWESTERN GIVEN A $30,000 STIMULANT FOR DEAD LANGUAGES

Long life for dead languages was assured at Northwestern university yesterday. University officials announced they had received a bequest of $30,000 to be used entirely for scholarships in the classical languages—the ones often referred to as dead.

The gift was received from the estate of Frank A. Reynolds of New York, who died in 1922. The scholarships will be known as the Maud Gerald Reynolds scholarships, in memory of Mr. Reynolds' wife, whose recent death released the bequest, which had been held in trust. Mr. Reynolds was a classmate of Walter Dill Scott, president of the university.

If You Have "Acid Indigestion"

ALKALIZE STOMACH ALMOST INSTANTLY THIS AMAZING "PHILLIPS" WAY

SIGNS WHICH OFTEN INDICATE "ACID STOMACH"
Pain after Eating, Feeling of Weakness, Indigestion, Sleeplessness, Nausea, Mouth Acidity, Loss of Appetite, Sour Stomach, Frequent Headaches.

On every side today people are being urged to alkalize their stomach. And thus to ease the symptoms of "acid indigestion," nausea and stomach upsets. For perhaps the vast majority of stomach upsets come from an excess of acidity.

To gain quick alkalization, just do this: Take two teaspoons of PHILLIPS' MILK OF MAGNESIA 30 minutes after eating. OR—take two Phillips' Milk of Magnesia tablets, which have the same antacid effect.

Relief comes almost at once—usually in a few minutes. Nausea, "gas"—fullness after eating and "acid indigestion" pains leave. You feel like a new person.

Try this way. You'll be surprised at results. And try it particularly if you've been using some less natural and less effective way of overcoming acids. Get either the liquid "Phillips" or the remarkable, new Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets. Each one equals a teaspoon of the liquid, and they're delightful to take and easy to carry with you. Only 25¢ for a large box at all drug stores.

ALSO IN TABLET FORM:

NAZIS TO BLAME IF SPANISH WAR SPREADS—EDEN

Declares Britain Pledged to Halt Peril.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 19.—Declaring "the risk of the Spanish civil war involving Europe in conflict, though not wholly removed, has been definitly diminished," Capt. Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary today made a long explanation of British diplomacy before the house of commons, just reassembled after the Christmas vacation.

ANTHONY EDEN.

However, speaking with unusual gravity Eden announced that in Germany's hands rested the fate of Europe.

Outstanding in Eden's speech was what seemed to be anxiety over finding some way to appease Germany in its demands for economic expansion. In what was interpreted as an open invitation to Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler to lay his cards on the table, Eden pledged British assistance if Germany decided on a policy of full and equal coöperation with other nations in a European settlement.

Hits Nazi Doctrins.

Whether Germany, with a population of 65,000,000, "which has exalted race and nationalism into a creed," would plunge the world into a new turmoil was the "main preoccupation of all Europe," said the foreign secretary.

He appealed to the Germans to abandon the doctrin of national exclusiveness and to coöperate with other nations through the league of nations in negotiating a new economic settlement and a reduction in armaments.

"Germany has it in her power to influence the choice which will decide not only her own fate but that of Europe," asserted Eden. "Europe cannot go on to a more and more uncertain future."

Eden bluntly told the Germans that "economic collaboration and political appeasement must go hand in hand," and that no support would be forthcoming for economic coöperation or financial accommodation which would merely result in more armaments and a greater risk of war.

Doubts Foreign Control of Spain.

The possibility of foreign control in Spain, Eden argued, had been exaggerated and the British government's view of it, he said, was that a "most unlikely" outcome of the war would be domination by any outside power or pair of powers.

This hint to Russia, Germany, and Italy was followed by a declaration that Great Britain strongly would oppose any such development and "so would 24,000,000 Spanish people."

Noninterference in Spain and the localization of the conflict there are cardinal points of British policy, according to Eden.

The recent Anglo-Italian Mediterranean declaration, Eden added, contained "no word, no line, no comma," giving Italy or any other foreign power the right to intervene in Spain. The Mediterranean agreement, he said, improved Anglo-Italian relations which were strained during the Ethiopian war.

Continues to Watch Morocco.

Dealing with the French scare over the situation in Morocco, Eden revealed that reports from British naval officers invited to inspect the country were generally reassuring with regard to the reported landing or preparations for landing of German troops. The British government will continue to watch the situation, however, since it is closely interested in maintaining the Spanish zone in Morocco as laid down in treaties.

Eden reviewed the position of the negotiations to stop the influx of volunteers to Spain, and indicated he expected replies from Rome and Berlin to the latest British note within two days.

Eden emphasized that Great Britain would not accept a position of inferiority in Europe and would continue to arm as long as necessity demanded.

The British government, he said, refused to accept the contention that democracy is dead and that the alternative for Europe is dictatorship of the right or left, nor would it stand by and see Europe arm feverishly for rival ideologies.

MADRID TROOPS SILENCE GUNS ON REBEL HILLTOP

Forced to Fall Back After Sudden Raid.

MADRID, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Government militiamen retreated tonight after recapturing the strategic top of El Cerro de los Angeles [Hill of the Angels] in a surprise action.

They evacuated their hard won possession for another position which their officers said would be less of a target for Fascist insurgents' artillery.

From the hill eight and one-half miles south of Madrid, the geographical center of Spain, rebel artillery had been pouring shells into the southeastern quarters of Madrid.

Despite the retreat, government officers said they had achieved their objective, as "the main object of the attack was to demoralize the rebels in that sector."

Take 200 Prisoners.

Earlier the militiamen battled to dislodge the rebels from the church and hotel in the town of El Cerro de los Angeles. The battle raged near the Ermita [hermitage] de los Angeles containing a celebrated image of the Madonna.

During the day militiamen captured more than 200 rebel prisoners and brought them to the war ministry here for questioning. One cannon, twelve machine guns, two mortars, and ammunition were captured.

Strong contingents of militia approached the fortified rock in the mist before dawn. Rebel sentinels were quickly overcome. Destroying barbed wire entanglements the militiamen rushed toward the Fascist garrison where two companies of men were sleeping. Overwhelmed by the suddenness of the attack the rebels surrendered.

Renamed "Red Hill."

In attacking the hill militiamen took advantage of numerous subterranean passages which government workmen dug at the start of the civil war when Madrid's fortifications were being prepared.

Once they gained the top they hoisted the flag of the republic and renamed the hill "Cerro Rojo"—Red hill.

Government troops held their positions in University City, northwestern Madrid, where a strong force of rebels was cut off on the upper floors of the Clinic hospital building. The government declared 1,000 rebels have been killed in the University City fighting.

Ships, Planes Aid Malaga Drive.

GIBRALTAR, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Spanish insurgents, marching on Malaga with assistance from planes and warships, engaged government defenders in fierce battles near Marbella today with each side losing more than 1,000 men, reliable reports stated. The Fascist cruiser Canarias and four armed trawlers patroled the coastline, keeping pace with the marching infantry. Airplanes from the interior bombarded the government positions.

Spanish Rebels Offered $3.55 to Desert to Madrid

VALENCIA, Spain, Jan. 19.—(AP)—The Spanish government today sought by money—as well as bullets—to reduce its Fascist insurgent enemy in the civil war. A decree published in the Official Gazette authorized the payment of 50 pesetas [$3.55] as a reward to each deserter from the insurgent ranks.

FIRE ON PLANES ATTACKING SHIPS, FRANCE ORDERS

PARIS, Jan. 19.—(AP)—France, irked by the bombing of the destroyer Maille Breze by an unidentified airplane off the Spanish coast, ordered her warships tonight to fire on any attacking craft.

Following the lead of Britain, who some weeks ago similarly warned that shell fire would meet any interference with British shipping, the naval ministry issued the order after receiving details of the unsuccessful attack on Maille Breze yesterday.

The destroyer was attacked twice, but was not damaged. The airship was a tri-motored bomber without markings, officers of the ship said. The pilot circled at 3,000 feet and dropped five bombs.

CALLS PRIMATE'S BLAST AT EX-KING 'CHURCH SPLEEN'

Remark Stirs Uproar in House of Commons.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 19.—An uproar in the house of commons succeeded a reference today to the archbishop of Canterbury's "episcopal spleen" as voiced in the prelate's radio attack on friends of Edward, duke of Windsor, after he had renounced the British throne for the love of Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson.

Ernest Thurtle, Laborite for Shoreditch, used the phrase when he demanded to know whether the archbishop's speech was submitted for approval to officials of the British Broadcasting corporation before it was delivered on Dec. 13.

"No, sir," replied Maj. G. C. Tryon, postmaster general, who speaks for the British Broadcasting corporation in the house.

Capt. E. A. Fitz Roy, speaker of the house of commons, interrupted Thurtle, declaring the member was expressing his own opinions. The speaker also stopped James Maxton, Laborite, who attempted to support Thurtle, by saying that "the member from Shoreditch is making use of epithets which are never allowed."

"May I ask if the postmaster general does not think the archbishop's criticism might have been expressed while the former king was on the throne?" asked Maxton.

The speaker silenced him again.

"The archbishop has enhanced his reputation in this country by the expression of his view," said Sir John Haslam.

In his radio address the archbishop lamented that former King Edward "should have disappointed hopes so high and abandoned a trust so great." His speech was seen as a sally against the group which enjoyed Edward's friendship. The archbishop said it was "sad" that the ex-king "should have sought his happiness in a manner inconsistent with the Christian principles of marriage and within a social circle whose standards and ways of life are alien to all the best instincts and traditions of his people."

BRITAIN HIDING TRUE STORY OF ABDICATION, CANADIAN M. P. SAYS

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 19.—Special.]—Belief that there had been more behind the abdication of King Edward VIII. than his affair with Mrs. Wallis Simpson was expressed in the Dominion parliament today by J. S. Woodsworth, leader of Canada's Socialistic Coöperative Commonwealth party.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King's refusal to publish the correspondence between the Canadian and British governments in connection with the abdication was scored by Woodsworth. Voicing a belief entertained by a section of the Canadian public and supported prominently by an Ottawa newspaper, he declared: "I do say that the affair of Mrs. Simpson was not sufficient to cause Prime Minister Baldwin to take the action he took."

Submarine Fires Two Torpedoes at Spanish Ship

MADRID, Jan. 19.—(AP)—The Febus [Spanish] news agency reported tonight from Tarragona an unidentified submarine fired two torpedoes in the direction of a Spanish vessel near that Mediterranean coastal city. The torpedoes missed the ship and exploded on rocks below the port while the ship ran for shelter at Tarragona, the dispatch said.

old record had to be beaten by about twenty minutes. I thought I could do this.

"Besides I was genuinly interested in showing the public what can be done in high altitude flying."

Draw Out Story of Flight.

The story of the entire flight, as it finally was wormed out of Hughes by reporters who gathered around him in the Manhattan apartment of a friend four hours after he landed at Newark, was dramatic.

He said he had been testing his ship, which is a rebuilt version of the plane he used in 1935 to set the world's land plane speed record, and had flown it for five hours on Monday. It had performed perfectly with its new wings and a brand new Pratt & Whitney Twin Wasp Jr. engine, normally rated at 825 horse power but supercharged for his purposes so it can deliver 1,100 horse power at sea level.

Then at 11 o'clock on Monday evening he had been informed that he would have strong helping winds all the way across the continent on Tuesday.

Snap Decision: Midnight Takeoff.

Hughes made a snap decision to try the flight and ordered his crew of mechanics to fill the gasoline tanks and have the ship ready for flight at midnight.

Hughes waited then for other weather reports and found that these confirmed the earlier predictions. The engine was warmed up and at 2:14 this morning [Pacific time] he opened the throttle on a runway at the Union Air depot at Burbank.

The night was pitch dark, with lowering clouds shutting off the light of the stars and billowing close to the nearby mountain peaks. The light little racer shivered as the power was applied; rolled with rapidly accelerating speed. The tail lifted and then it literally leaped into the air.

Soars to 20,000 Feet.

A few seconds later Hughes had retracted his wheels and was climbing through the mist. He is familiar with the Los Angeles area—indeed, with the entire transcontinental route as flown today—and immediately headed eastward, climbing steadily at an indicated speed of approximately 200 miles per hour. At that time he planned to fly the entire distance at 20,000 feet.

Hughes reached this height when over Winslow, and there fought out his difficulty with the oxygen. Then, believing that it would be safer to come to a lower level, he let down to the 14,000 foot level, which he held throughout the remaining distance.

Hughes said he planned at first to try to reach Chicago when he left Los Angeles. This plan was based upon his belief that the fuel he carried would not see him through the entire crossing. But very soon he discovered that his engine was drinking about 27 gallons an hour while his ground speed remained very high and decided to "shoot the works" and try for New York.

Flies "Blind" Three Hours.

At 14,000 feet, he said, he was flying above cloud layers which obscured the ground. The first place he was able to identify positively was Winslow. Then he continued to fly blind for approximately three hours until he crossed the Mississippi river. He believes this crossing was a short distance north of St. Louis, Mo.

Aboard the racer, Hughes had an air line type radio receiving set, but he did not attempt to fly the radio range beacons—the radio "beam"—which guides commercial air line pilots. He said he had decided to shorten the distance as much as possible by cutting across the regular airways, since he was high above all other trafic. He did use his radio to obtain weather reports from Wichita and St. Louis.

Soon afterward, as his ship consumed the distance toward New York at the rate of 5⅛ miles a minute, he began to find great holes in the cloud floor and was able to fly contact the remainder of the way. Near Indianapolis he found the wind was drifting him southward and he angled the ship in a crabbing position to stay on his course.

Gravity Aids on Last Lap.

When he passed high above the army field at Middletown, Pa., near Harrisburg, he began the long dive toward Newark, still 120 miles away. With the nose of his ship pointed earthward, his speed became still greater with gravity aiding the winds and the engine. At times during his descent, he said, the speed reached 380 miles per hour.

Hughes had been unreported from the ground during the entire crossing and his arrival at Newark, after his announced intention of landing at Chicago, came as a complete surprise. But he let his presence be known by flashing low across the field, the vibrations of his motor and propeller causing the very buildings to shake.

William Zint of the Longines Watch company, official timer for the National Aeronautics association, caught Hughes' arrival at 42 minutes 25 seconds past noon, eastern time.

Dodges Away to Safety.

The hurtling racer zoomed to a safe altitude, the pilot throttled back the engine and with landing gear and flaps lowered, began his landing approach.

At that moment a United Air Lines transport plane was given the signal to take off from the field control tower and began its run down the landing strip.

Hughes saw the ship ahead of him and, gunned his powerful engine and went round once more. It was not until 10 minutes later that he brought the little racer down to a gentle contact with the ground and taxied to a hangar.

Tired and cold, even inside his fur lined flying suit, Hughes merely grunted as he clambered out of the cramped cockpit. Around him field mechanics and officials and a few newspaper men offered enthusiastic congratulations. He was faint with hunger, having had no food for nearly 24 hours.

SHIP COMPLETELY REBUILT

The airplane used in the flight is a low midwing monoplane with a silver fuselage and light blue wings. The engine is one of the latest manufactured by Pratt & Whitney and is of the type now being supplied to the army and navy.

The plane was built in a shed on the Glendale airport at Los Angeles to designs of Richard Palmer, an independent engineer, during the spring and summer of 1936. When completed it had a wing spread of 25 feet and a length of 27 feet. The wing loading was 39.8 pounds per square inch and the landing speed approximately 90 miles an hour. It had tanks for 250 gallons of gasoline.

Motor "Quits" in Flight.

In this form Hughes flew the ship to the 352 miles per hour record at Santa Ana. After the speed trials, however, the motor quit and Hughes landed the plane with wheels retracted in a plowed field, escaping without injury.

It was taken back to his hangar at Glendale and completely rebuilt. The wing spread was increased to 32 feet and the fuselage cut to 26 feet in length. The fuel tanks were enlarged until the ship had a total capacity of 280 gallons. The wing loading is 37 pounds per square foot.

The wings are built around a single spruce spar with plywood ribs and a plywood covering. The fuselage is of duralium, with flush welding. The cockpit is arranged with a movable seat and wind screen. For landing, the seat can be screwed up so the pilot is able to see well. In the air the seat is lowered. The wind screen also comes down so it does not project into the air stream. The cockpit is not, however, completely closed.

Automatic Mixer Control.

The engine swings a constant speed propeller with a wide pitch range to grip the air at high altitudes. There is an automatic mixture control in the carburetor which maintains the proper mixture of gasoline and air so the motor is economical in its operation.

Within the cockpit are fitted a complete set of engine instruments and navigating instruments, including a Sperry Giro compass and artificial horizon. These were the instruments Hughes used today in his dead reckoning. The radio is of a standard air line type.

The landing gear of the ship is entirely retractible. The long, stalky struts and the wheels can be pulled up into wells in the lower surface of the wing. There they are covered by facing strips so the surface is perfectly smooth. The tail wheel also can be pulled within a well in the fuselage. Brakes are fitted to the wheels and a flap to decrease the landing speed is built into the wing.

Newest Type Fuel Used.

During today's flight Hughes used 100 octane fuel—the newest type of high performance gasoline. He found that he still had eighty gallons in his tanks after landing, so that the fuel consumption worked out to 27⅝ gallons per hour for an average. Once he began to cruise at 14,000 feet he sped along at only 40 per cent throttle, taking only 350 horse power from the motor. This partially explains the low gasoline consumption. Transport planes with 750 horse power engines burn 45 gallons per hour on an average.

Hughes insisted that flying at 380 miles an hour at 14,000 feet felt no different than riding in an air transport plane at 150 miles per hour.

He said his flight merely proved that technical developments in flying have been very great in recent years. Transport operators, he said, already are aware that greater speeds can be made with modern ships by flying high, but that there are many minor but difficult problems which must be solved before passenger operations can be carried out at great heights.

Hughes is to stay in New York for several weeks and will open the aviation show here on Jan. 28 with city officials.

Chelan, Wash, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Chelan watched the "kitty" grow tonight as "Pensioner" C. C. Fleming, who must spend $200 in a month as a test of the Townsend plan, went happily on his way—buying toothpaste and cordwood and talking of a movie career for himself.

"Mother" Fleming definitely stopped that movie business, however.

"We've still got $118 of that money to spend here in Chelan," she cautioned her 63 year old husband, the town's No. 1 citizen while his "pension" money lasts.

The "kitty"—into which goes the 2 per cent transaction tax every time one of the pension test dollars changes hands—grew to $7.23 tonight as Fleming's expenditures reached $82.

ALL TIME DECEMBER AIR TRAVEL RECORD OF 35 MILLION MILES SET

Last month set an all time December record for air travel in the United States, it was announced yesterday by Col. E. S. Gorrell, president of the Air Transport Association of America. Paying passengers traveled an aggregate of 35,000,000 miles, Col. Gorrell said. The mileage not only broke the old December record, but also came within 15 per cent of the mileage of November, 1936, which was the all time record month. The December, 1936 total was 77 per cent higher than that of December, 1935.

BRITAIN COMBATS SYPHILIS WITH FREE TREATMENT

Spends $2,000,000 a Yr. in War on Plague.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 19.—At a cost of over $2,000,000 a year the scourge of syphilis is being combated in Great Britain with slowly increasing success.

The measures adopted to fight the disease are based on the threefold stipulation that they should be voluntary, secret, and free. This was not always the case in the fight against the social plague in the British empire. By an act of parliament of 1866 authorities were empowered in certain garrison towns to force prostitutes or others suspected of suffering from venereal disease submit to compulsory medical inspection and treatment. Such power was liable to grave abuse, but it was not until twenty years later, owing to the efforts of Josephine Butler and other reformers, that the contagious diseases act was repealed.

Probe Begun in 1913.

In 1913 a royal commission was established by parliament to "inquire into the prevalence of venereal disease in the United Kingdom, its effect on the health of the community, and to determine means by which its effects can be alleviated or prevented." After sitting for three years the commission presented its report, thus revealing that the huge proportion of 10 per cent of the urban population of the British Isles was suffering from some form or other of venereal disease.

Since then there has been a continuous campaign, not only of medical treatment, but of public education to the danger of the disease.

This point was stressed in a recent statement by Minister of Health Sir Kingsley Wood, who said:

"The efforts made during the last twenty years to educate the public with regard to these diseases have certainly resulted in a more general realization of their dangers and of the importance of seeking medical advice at an early date. Infected persons attending the treatment centers continue attendance for a longer period than they did in earlier days, and there is an increasing number who are taking advantage of the facilities for diagnosis which are now available."

Finds Disease Declining.

The minister of health added that in Great Britain syphilis was declining. Recent infections dealt with at the treatment centers in 1935, the last year for which figures are available, were just under 6,000, as compared with over 9,000 in 1925. He pointed out that the mortality of infants certified as due to syphilis in 1934 was less than one-half the number certified in 1924 and about one-sixth that of 1917.

Britain has in operation a venereal disease scheme based on the recommendations of the royal commission. The principle underlying those recommendations is that the spread of venereal disease is best prevented by bringing under treatment the greatest possible proportion of infected persons and keeping them under treatment until no longer infectious.

The principle of free treatment of the infected has been practiced in Denmark since 1778 and in Norway and Sweden since 1817. It was advocated by the International Congress on Syphilis and Venereal Diseases held in Brussels in 1899 and 1902, but with the exception of the Scandinavian countries the British Isles seem to have been the first to put it into practice.

How Plague Is Treated.

Venereal disease in Great Britain is administered by the local county and municipal councils, but financed by the central government. There are 189 treatment centers, thirteen homes for the care of homeless girls infected with venereal disease, eight institutions for the care of pregnant women and girls infected with the disease, and eighty-five laboratories in which the examination of specimens from persons suspected of infection is carried out.

The number of new cases of syphilis alone dealt with in the centers in 1935 was 14,161, a conservative figure excluding all those patients who transferred from one center to another, or who had received treatment in previous years.

Relieve Acid Indigestion — Quickly

When you have nervous indigestion, gas, cramps or colic, heartburn or nausea, due to acid stomach, and you want relief in a hurry, take a teaspoonful of Condensed Jad Salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast.

Condensed Jad Salts acts quickly to alkalize the stomach contents. It neutralizes the acids that cause headache, nausea and indigestion pain.

At the first sign of—

constipation	sour stomach
heartburn	gas
indigestion	loss of appetite
nausea	upset stomach

caused by excess stomach acidity, just take a teaspoonful of Condensed Jad Salts in hot water before breakfast. That is all you have to do to remove the waste matter and neutralize the excess acid and put your stomach into good shape.

Condensed Jad Salts not only contains the finest saline ingredients to give the most scientific results for their purpose, but it also has an anti-acid or alkalising effect. In other words, Jad has a double action—first, as a saline and second as an anti-acid.

Try giving your stomach a hot Condensed Jad bath. See for yourself how it relieves and helps you—following excessive eating, smoking and drinking. You will say it is marvelous. Condensed Jad Salts costs but a few cents at any drug store.

SEEKS STATE LAW MAKING SYPHILIS BAR TO MARRIAGE

A doctor's certificate, attesting that both parties to a contemplated marriage are free from venereal disease, will be required in Illinois before a marriage license can be issued if a bill, to be introduced at the present session of the legislature by Representative Edward P. Saltiel, Republican, 31st district, becomes law.

"This bill, which is based on the Wisconsin law, is virtually the same one that I introduced two years ago," said Saltiel yesterday. "That measure got a third reading in the house, but it was never called up for a vote.

"I was moved to introduce it by THE TRIBUNE's effective exposure of the menace of syphilis and gonorrhea, as well as by my personal experiences as a member of the legislative committee for visiting state charitable institutions. I decided to do what I could to prevent the spread of this scourge to innocent babies."

The measure provides a fine of $100 or six months' imprisonment for clerks who issue licenses in defiance of it, doctors who make false statements in certificates, and persons who obtain licenses contrary to the provisions of the law.

COLOR IS READY FOR MEN, IF MEN ARE READY FOR IT

Robin's Egg Tuxedo Is Just a Starter.

BY MARCIA WINN.

Man's attire, like the peacock's tail, will display every color of the rainbow in 1937, judging from the style show given at the Congress hotel yesterday by the National Association of Retail Clothiers and Furnishers.

"And why not?" asked George L. Daugherty of Niagara Falls, N. Y., executive vice president of the group. "Why should men be more afraid of color than women?

"It is the peacock that has the fancy color and design—not the peafowl. The same holds true with the rooster and the hen.

Goodbye, Red Flannels!

"Years ago men wore red flannels and later the union suits that made us look like a covered wagon. But the old night shirt era has passed—today men's pajamas have all the colors of the rainbow."

Even in formal dress color will be noticeable. A shawl tuxedo for summer formal or formal winter resort wear was shown in robin's egg blue, with bow tie, handkerchief, and cummerbund of brilliant maroon!

Veteran clothiers gasped as the symphony in robin's egg blue, modeled by a very blond young Adonis, strutted majestically down the runway, but many went even further and stood as they gasped when "yachtman's blue," a new masculine color, was introduced.

Yachtman's blue, it was predicted, will be highly popular for sports wear. A collarless sports jacket of blue and gray plaid, with a faint red line, was shown. The jacket had a V neck, filled in with a throw muffler of red and blue foulard, and fastened with three lether buttons. It was worn with slacks.

Another sports coat, inspired by the riding sack coat, was of brown and white shepherd's plaid, worn with a white vest and brown trousers.

An Overcoat—in White!

One of the most startling innovations opened the show. This was a white alpaca overcoat, 50 inches long. Made on swagger lines, it is double breasted and has a full belt.

A topcoat which zippered on was shown, as was a camel's hair coat with detachable gaberdine lining. The lining turns out to be a raincoat. Without the lining, you have a topcoat; with it, an overcoat.

Gaberdine, shantung, and white cheviots will be popular for summer wear, the clothiers predicted. Predominant hat colors for spring will be grays, soft brown, and pastel shades of tan; for next fall, very dark gray. Spring, too, will see a revival of low crowns and wider brims.

PUBLISHER FOUND GUILTY OF EXTORTION IN MINNEAPOLIS VICE

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—Arthur Kasherman, 35 year old publisher of an expose newspaper, was found guilty by a District court jury tonight of extorting $25 from the woman operator of a second floor Loop hotel which has been the subject of numerous vice complaints.

Closing a trial which began Jan. 11, the jury of ten men and two women returned its verdict after less than six hours' deliberation. Kasherman faces a sentence up to five years. Petition for an appeal was expected to be filed tomorrow.

Kasherman's contention was that marked bills taken from his overcoat pocket when he was arrested Oct. 26 had been placed there in a "frame-up" to silence his newspaper's attacks on alleged police connection with underworld activities in Minneapolis.

LUXURY AIRLINER MAKES ITS FIRST CHICAGO-N. Y. HOP

Huge Plane Strikes New Note in Comfort.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 19.—[Special.]—United Air Lines new club lounge airliner, latest development in commercial flying, completed its first nonstop flight from Chicago to New York today, covering the 715 miles over Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania, and New Jersey in 3 hours and 45 minutes at an average speed of 196 miles an hour.

This new ship, a Douglas DG-3, weighing 24,000 pounds fully loaded, is the first extra fare airliner and was designed to supply the maximum in comfort and reliability for first class passenger service.

Although originally designed to carry twenty-one passengers, it has been fitted with special overstuffed chairs for only fourteen passengers. Its roominess and careful sound proofing make it the most luxurious airliner in regular commercial operation anywhere in the world.

There was no effort on the part of Capt. H. L. Knoop and First Officer Ray Andrews to set a record on today's flight. It was a demonstration of smooth, accurate transport flying, and the day was blessed with perfect weather, westerly winds, bright sunshine, and a few scattered clouds.

Over Sharon, Pa., the border line between Ohio and Pennsylvania, first was seen the Shennago river that overflowed its bank for miles and part of the town appeared to be under water. It was at this point that Stewardess Ruth Fleckke served luncheon—hot soup, hot fried chicken, apple pie, chocolate, and a salad.

The flight today was made by six newspaper men, the air line employés, and six passengers, among them Fred Walter, Joliet, Ill., attorney, who has made every inaugural flight with a new United Air Line service for ten years.

Moving Forward

Marshall Field & Company presents here each day observations and opinions intended to be of interest and value to those it seeks to serve.

"TO SEE OURSELVES"

By CALEB

ONE of the heads of a chain store organization flipped his ashes into a glass tray, and passing the tray to a companion said, "Do you see that? The manufacturer of this item made me madder than I've been in years. Right after Christmas a year ago, I conceived the idea of getting this little set out—cigarette box and five ash trays, you see—as a 25-cent item. I made a note of it. Later, I told my buyer to go to a producer of cheap glassware and give him the design and specifications in time for production for our holiday selling, but too late for him to be able to offer it to other chains.

"Well, sir, do you know we tried to work it that way—and the very week we got these things on our counters, we found that four other chains had the identical item from the same manufacturer! I was so mad I could have———"

The other man was grinning. He looked at the glass. It was hardly clear. It wasn't cleanly pressed. The design was rough. But it bore a resemblance to something he had seen before. He looked at his friend. "May I ask you where you got the idea for this—last Christmas?"

The chain store man appeared to be momentarily startled, and then, a little sheepishly, he said, "Why, I guess—I guess—well, as a matter of fact, since you seem to have guessed it, I got the idea from a very nice quality dollar set which came from your second floor department. I received it for Christmas."

The department store man looked at the chain store executive reproachfully. "You copied a quality item of ours in cheap 25-cent fashion and you are mad at the manufacturer because he sold it to other people!"

SEEING what is wrong with the other fellow's practices while we overlook what someone else might be entitled to think of ours is not a quality confined to chain store executives. A healthy procedure at any time our blood becomes a little turbulent is to glance backward at our own record to see if perchance we might be guilty of a violation similar to the one we are condemning. Robert Burns had the idea—

"O, wad some Power the giftie gie us
To see oursels as ithers see us!"

HUNDREDS FLEE ROARING RIVERS; RISE CONTINUES

Fear Floods Destructive as Those in 1913.

Evansville, Ind., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—Hundreds of residents of Evansville's outlying districts and many other areas along the overflowing Ohio river fled for their lives today as the continued rising of the stream indicated it may reach heights exceeding those of the inundation in March, 1936.

The surging muddy waters, swollen in some places to two and three times the normal width of the river here, prompted inhabitants of the Indiana area [known as the pocket district] bounded by the Ohio, Wabash, and White rivers to prepare for flood conditions comparable with the destructive and life taking floods of 1913.

All the principal highways from Chicago to Florida were closed by the inundations.

Predicts Prolonged Flood.

Only once before in recorded history has the Ohio river been above flood stage throughout its 980 mile length as it is now. That was during the flood last March, which caused 200 million dollars' worth of damage in the Pittsburgh area alone.

Meteorologist W. C. Devereaux at Cincinnati expressed the belief the present inundation would be prolonged.

The weather observer said the immediate outlook at Cincinnati is for a river stage approximately duplicating the 60.6 foot level to which the stream rose last March.

Even higher crests than those of last spring were predicted for the lower end of the stream, from Evansville, Ind., to its mouth at Cairo, Ill., as the overburdened Mississippi held back waters from the Ohio.

Rescue Workers Toil.

A crest only moderately above flood stage already had reached or passed Pittsburgh and Wheeling, W. Va., the area that felt the brunt of last spring's flood.

Throughout the Ohio valley and in Arkansas and Missouri where flood conditions also prevailed, the combined forces of the Red Cross, American Legion, and city, state, and federal authorities performed rescue and relief work. Thousands of families already have been moved from lowland homes.

The residential part of Cannelton, Ind., in the danger area, was isolated from the business section, with all connecting streets under water. Schools were closed, but a toy factory continued operating, with its 300 employés rowing boats to work.

Illinois Residents Move.

Residents of Illinois cities in the Ohio valley also were experiencing difficulties from rising water. At Metropolis, where a stage of 47 feet is predicted by Thursday, residents and business men along West First street moved to higher parts of the city.

Water lapped along Front street at Golconda, Ill., and families prepared to evacuate their homes in that part of the city. The river was at least 12 feet above flood level at Shawneetown, Ill., where it stood at a 47 foot stage, but the city is protected by a 60 foot seawall.

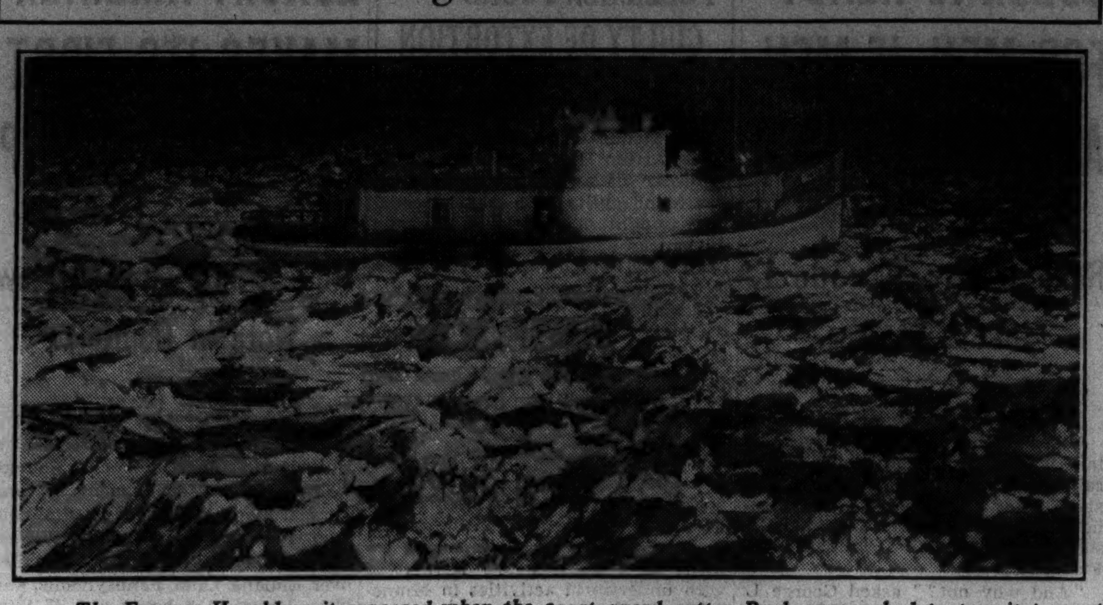
A stage of approximately 52 feet was predicted for Cairo, Ill., the confluence of the Ohio and Mississippi rivers, later in the week. Last year's water mark there was 52.8 feet. However, Cairo also has a 60 feet seawall.

Three hundred WPA workers were sent to do emergency flood duty in Fayette county, Ill., on the overflowing Kaskaskia river.

WRITS TO BRING MORTON BOARD TO STRIKE PARLEY

Trustees of the J. Sterling Morton High school in Cicero were told by the Illinois department of labor yesterday that they will be subpenaed for a conference for the purpose of settling the strike at the school. William Murray, investigator for the department, said he would ask subpenas after the trustees refused an invitation to meet with the department's representatives and representatives of the Suburban School and Maintenance Employés' union. Twenty-nine of the school's maintenance employés are on strike.

Rescue of Fishing Vessels Stranded Near Crib



The Frances Harold as it appeared when the coast guard cutter Rush approached to tow it to port last night. Ice jams held this and three other fishing vessels fast three miles out in Lake Michigan until the Rush reached them. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

13 Men Are Saved

The coast guard cutter Rush smashed through three miles of frozen slush in Lake Michigan last night to rescue four fishing vessels stranded yesterday afternoon at the Carter H. Harrison crib. The boats, with their crews of 13 men, were marooned when a change of wind piled "pancake ice" several layers high along the lake front.

The cutter, in command of Capt. Thomas J. Wollard, hitched lines to three of the fishing vessels, the Frances Harold, the H. Waterhill, and the Genevieve, and towed them through the ice pack. The fourth boat, the Fred Weimer, followed under its own power.

During the outbound trip the Diesel engine of the Rush was disabled for half an hour by frozen slush sucked into the cooling system. Capt. Wollard said in some places the ice jam was five feet thick. The cutter's six mile round trip took six hours, ending at 12:30 a. m.

SLOAN, MURPHY MEET TODAY FOR STRIKE PARLEY

Lansing, chiefly to discuss the pressing difficulties in Flint. The members decided to confer with Gov. Murphy, now in Washington, regarding the drafting of the next monthly budget, which, it now appears, must be largely a deficiency one.

Troops Keep the Peace.

The threat of 2,200 national guardsmen still on duty here forced the observance of the peace today. Both strikers and nonstrikers were prepared for trouble, but neither side showed any inclination to foster a recurrence of the riots which took place at Fisher No. 2 plant a week ago last night.

The main endeavor of the union today was an attempt to organize some of the 8,700 men who are working on two six-hour shifts at the Buick plant. The plant normally employs 16,000, including 4,000 men on the asembly line who were laid off Dec. 31 bbcause of the closing of Fisher Body plant No. 1.

It is feared here than any attempt by the union to close Buick by means of a picket line will result in serious rioting, fostered by the Buick workers themselves.

NEW AUTO RIOTING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—A deadlock was clamped over the auto strike today and interest centered in the conference between Gov. Frank Murphy and John Lewis, head of the Committee for Industrial Organization, instigator of the strike, at Washington.

Turbulence and tear gassing between pickets and police broke out at the Briggs Manufacturing plant early today, Ford and Lincoln supplier, but the company announced this evening it had settled the tie-up, that employés laid off in recent days will be rehired, and the plant reopened in the morning. Richard Frankensteen, organizer for the United Automobile Workers, had charged that 350 men had been laid off in the last week for joining the union.

2,500 Pickets Meet Workers.

The clash at the Briggs Manufacturing plant occurred this morning as workers, going to their jobs, were met by 2,500 pickets. The plant employs about 1,800 men and manufactures bodies for Lincoln Zephyr cars and a few special bodies for Dodge.

Most of the pickets were said to be from the Dodge plant, who began assembling after midnight following a meeting called by the Dodge local of the UAW.

A tear gas battle between pickets and police ensued, in the course of which Louis Berg, deputy superintendent of police, was blinded temporarily by a bomb which exploded at his feet. Sergt. Vaughan C. Rodgers received a broken finger.

18 Months Old Stove Plant Strike Settled in Milwaukee

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 19.—(AP)—An 18 month old strike at the A. J. Lindemann & Hoverson Company Stove works was settled tonight when strikers voted to accept terms negotiated with the management in the last three weeks. The agreement provides for recognition of a shop committee and individual adjustment of piecework rates. The company also will pay a 2½ per cent bonus to all employés based on their 1937 earnings.

MICHIGAN POLICE HUNT FOR OFFICER AND HIS CAPTOR

Finding Bloodstained Car Spurs Search.

Monroe, Mich., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—Fifteen patrol cars of Michigan state police tonight were searching the highways between Detroit and Toledo, O., for a fellow police officer kidnaped tonight by a bandit suspect whom he had arrested. Discovery of the blood stained radio cruiser served to spur the search in two states.

Halt Kidnaping Suspects.

Richard Hammond, the kidnaped trooper, and his "buddy," Sam Sineni, both of the Rockwood patrol, had been ordered out on U. S. highway 24 to apprehend two men who earlier had held up an unidentified auto salesman in Detroit and forced him to drive them in his car to Toledo. There they forced their victim from his car and headed back toward Detroit, sixty miles distant.

Hammond and Sineni halted the suspected car with its two occupants just outside Monroe, Hammond ordering one prisoner into the police car, Sineni entering the auto salesman's car with the other suspect.

Abducted at Revolver Point.

In the confusion the bandit with Hammond produced a revolver and forced the trooper to drive toward Toledo. Sineni pursued and at one point drew close enough to exchange shots with Hammond's captor. After 10 miles Sineni's car ran into a ditch, but he retained his prisoner.

The man in custody is Mike Desperto. He said his companion was Joe La Rue. Both have served time at the Ionia state prison.

Ex-Senator Dill Wins New Alienation Trial

Mount Vernon, Wash., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Former United States Senator Clarence C. Dill of Washington, won a new trial today of the alienation of affections suit in which Margie Heaton Dill, the former senator's niece by marriage, gained a Common Pleas court jury verdict for $5,000. Common Pleas Judge Philip L. Wilkins at the same time overuled a similar motion in behalf of Mrs. Grace Dill, Margie Heaton Dill's mother-in-law, and entered a $5,000 judgment.

JAPAN IMPRISONS 15 AS PLOTTERS OF ARMY REVOLT

Reveals Militarists Sought General Uprising.

TOKIO, Jan. 19.—(AP)—An army communique today announced the conviction and sentencing of seven former army officers and eight civilians for their part in the Tokio military revolt of last Feb. 26. The communique said the conspirators planned a nation-wide uprising of militarist, ultra-patriotic elements.

The special court martial dealing with all cases arising from the revolt sentenced Maj. Gen. Ryu Saito and Capt. Saburo Sugenami to five years in prison, Lieut. Col. Sakichi Mitusi to three years, and four other ex-officers and eight civilians to shorter terms.

Revolt Confined to Tokio.

The revolt, lasting four days, was confined to Tokio. Three outstanding statesmen, Admiral Count Makoto Saito, lord keeper of the privy seal, Korekiyo, Takahashi, minister of finance, and Gen. Jotaro Watanabe, inspector general of military education, were among those assassinated.

The convictions do not conclude the court martial's work. Many more must stand trial for the uprising, and it has been indicated these include men of high station. Already 15 young army officers have been executed for leading the revolt.

Fate of Diet at Stake.

Japan's imperial diet will reconvene Thursday with its own survival or the advent of a militarist type of Fascism at stake, political observers meanwhile predicted.

Japanese political writers are united in the belief that this session may decide whether Japan will continue as a parliamentary government or turn to some kind of militarist-burocratic-Fascist régime.

A COLD:
Method takes several hours, but it works

To relieve the misery and discomfort of a cold, let your first effort be to clear the head, dry the secretions, reduce the fever and keep the bowels open. This will take time, and medicine of more than one kind.

You can get the necessary medicines, of your druggist, by asking for Pape's Cold Compound which combines them in a pleasant tablet.

To relieve the distress of a "new" cold, take two of these little tablets; chew them up, drink some water.

Some cases may require additional treatment. If so, follow directions on the package. The relief thus afforded and the comfort it brings you are well worth the time.

Nothing else that would be safe for you to take will bring relief more quickly than Pape's Cold Compound.

Safety Device Demonstrated

Storm Fails to Affect New Static-Proof Loop Antenna on Plane.

Los Angeles, Calif., Jan. 13—While cloud banks piled up to 8,000 feet over Los Angeles yesterday, a TWA plane equipped with a new safety static-proof loop antenna and radio direction finder wheeled above Southern California demonstrating its efficiency in bad weather to newspapermen.

SENDS TELEGRAM

Eugene Vidal, director of the Bureau of Air Commerce, sent the following wire to Jack Frye, TWA president. Vidal left here by TWA plane equipped with the new loop antenna and direction finder and sent the telegram while en route to Washington.

"From all our reports it appears that TWA has not only successfully eliminated snow and rain static from the radio reception on an airplane, but also is operating satisfactorily a new direction finder and homing device.

"Successful operation of the latter is indeed gratifying to the Department of Commerce, since we have been fostering this development for several years."

FOR ALL LINES

Frye announced, following the demonstration, that all commercial air lines in the United States will be given TWA engineering data on the new safety device in an effort to increase the safety of commercial aviation.

A reprint from The Los Angeles Times, Wednesday, January 13, 1937

It is significant that whatever is new and better in aviation usually makes its first appearance on TWA planes. The current national acclaim of the "Homing Radio Direction Finder" and Anti-Storm Static Radio—exclusive with TWA—are but the latest of a long list of TWA contributions to the advancement of aviation. TWA led all airlines in equipping every plane with de-icers to prevent ice formation; in requiring dual radio receivers and transmitters; air brakes or wing flaps which reduce landing speed and Automatic Gyroscopic Pilots which fly the plane, maintain its course and altitude and permit pilots to devote adequate time to scientific navigation. It is a known fact in the air transport industry that TWA spends more time and money on experimental and development work and sets the most rigid standards for pilots, planes, engines maintenance and service, of any airline in America.

In addition, the shorter route, faster schedules, lower fares and perfect personal service of TWA will make every moment of your journey a pleasure.

THE BROADEST BASE IN ADVERTISING

Most publications offer you just a slice of the American market. Some are edited to give you an audience of women, others men, and still others appeal to the juveniles. But the publication that reaches them all, giving you big slices in each group, is the most profitable buy for the advertising dollar. It's the broadest base in advertising. It's Puck–The Comic Weekly.

Two-thirds of the readers of Puck–The Comic Weekly are adults—more than twelve million adults who see the advertisements too. With them goes a bonus of nearly seven million juvenile readers who help to make up the family's preference on advertised brands.

Its ALL-STAR Cast is the secret of Puck–The Comic Weekly's hold upon its readers. Year after year the Katzenjammer Kids, Jiggs & Maggie, Popeye, Tillie, Skippy, Barney Google, Toots & Casper, Blondie, Flash Gordon, the Little King and Company, and the other bright stars of this famous group of entertainers, have thrilled adults and juveniles alike with their laughs, loves, thrills and tears. Boys and girls of forty, thirty, twenty and ten years ago continue to read Puck–The Comic Weekly today. It's the cast that makes the comics.

This ALL-STAR Cast is to be found only in Puck–The Comic Weekly, distributed to nearly six million families through the 17 great Hearst Sunday newspapers. Its U. S. circulation closely parallels the retail sales of the nation, for 73% of it is concentrated in the 995 cities and towns of over 10,000 population where 70% of all retail sales are made.

Leading advertisers have discovered the sales-building power behind this ALL-STAR Cast. We welcome the opportunity to submit the evidence, and some rather startling figures about the actual readership of this unusual publication. Please phone COlumbus 5-2642, New York or Superior 6820 Chicago.

7 REASONS WHY Puck–The Comic Weekly is a logical Basic Advertising Medium

1 The Broadest Base in Advertising. Puck–The Comic Weekly provides the broadest single base upon which to build a comprehensive national advertising program—nearly six million families—more than 19,000,000 potentia readers. Puck–The Comic Weekly comes nearest to being America's all-family advertising medium. A recent survey proves this.

2 Medium-in-Motion. It does more than merely expose advertisements to this vast audience—it presents them in an environment which makes reading inevitable.

3 The Largest Single-Medium Whole-Family Circulation. Besides the normal adult readership in nearly six million homes, Puck–The Comic Weekly has nearly seven million juvenile readers, several hundred thousand of whom will become heads of families each year.

4 Low Cost Per Family Reached. A big 4-color page (14⅝" x 19⅝"), 2⅛ times the size of the standard national weekly magazine page, costs only 3 mills per family. This rate is low for Puck–The Comic Weekly's adult circulation alone, without considering the millions of juveniles who constitute a continuous circulation bonus.

5 Concentration in Best Buying Areas. Puck–The Comic Weekly reaches an average of 42.4% of all families in 627 out of the 995 key cities of 10,000 or more population. In these 995 key cities 70% of all the nation's retail sales are made.

6 One Policy—One Make-Up. Puck–The Comic Weekly is one publication—not seventeen. It has one editorial policy—one cast of characters—one make-up—one quality of printing.

7 Maximum Visibility—Minimum Competition. Each advertisement in Puck–The Comic Weekly receives spotlight position—the number of advertisements per issue is limited, thus assuring each advertiser maximum attention.

END THE PAROLE BUSINESS.

The plank above first appeared in THE TRIBUNE's platform for Illinois and Chicago on April 12, 1935.

Pardon and parole abuses had, of course, been the causes of recurrent but ineffectual waves of public indignation for years before that. The wording of the plank, however, was significant —"the parole business." In the twenty-one months since we have had occasion to discuss this business a score of times in these columns.

Some of the things we have said we wish to repeat, as fundamentals of the parole problem. By way of definition, on June 18, 1935, there was this:

"The parole system is exploited as a business by professional reformers, politicians, and by lawyers paid for getting criminals out of jail."

That must not be lost sight of, above all. It is a business. It yields profits. Its exploiters are not going to yield up their opportunity for profits without a struggle. In our words of last Nov. 16, the parole problem is this:

"The gist of parole reform is to take parole administration completely out of politics. . . . Because parole is in politics, politics will resist real reform, which involves first of all the removal of parole from politics."

And finally, this of an earlier date, April 21, 1935:

"Probation or parole has been so administered in America as to convince the criminal that it is a right which it is the prime duty of the government to secure him."

There is nothing in the bill of rights about parole. It should be governed, but is not, by this sole test: Will society benefit, or at the least can it hope to escape harm, by the release of the prisoner? The benefit to the prisoner is a definitly minor consideration.

So long as the parole system is perverted by putting consideration of the convict ahead of that of society the whole parole system is in danger of being swept away because of its abuses. This danger those who believe the parole system, properly administered, is a good thing should consider thoughtfully.

In recent months a series of outrages, the murders of two brave and capable policemen, a series of robberies, rapes, and other felonies, have focused attention on and aroused indignation anew against the system which is producing such abuses constantly in Illinois.

A thorough cleanup of the parole mess cannot be avoided. It should be started at once, on three fronts:

1. The state's attorney and grand jury should start to look at once for violations of the criminal statutes in connection with paroles, either on the part of the parole board, convicts and their representatives, or parole sponsors.

2. The army of parolees now at large should be investigated stringently to determine how many of them deserve their liberty. It would be sensible to return a potential murderer to prison before he commits murder rather than afterward. State authorities will need the co-operation of police for a real checkup. The magnitude of the task is indicated by the fact that last year the parole board released more Chicago criminals from the penitentiary than Chicago courts sent there.

3. The legislature, with competent advice and the aid of the state administration, should revise the parole law to prevent continuation of present abuses. Such an effort should not be sidetracked by a new investigation. There has been an abundance of investigation already, and competent advice on the problem is available. One investigating committee is now preparing to report. It should not be permitted to suppress any of the facts it discovered for purposes of political whitewash.

In all these activities this fundamental fact should be kept in mind: the parole racket is a business, highly costly to the community in lives and property. The way to wipe out any business is to take the profit out of it.

EARNERS AND SPENDERS.

During the course of an address before the Portland Cement association, Mr. B. F. Affleck, recently retired president of the Universal Atlas company, made some interesting remarks regarding what he termed earner and spender highways. "Earners" include those stretches of road which attract a sufficient number of vehicles so that gasoline taxes and license plates meet maintenance, improvement and renewal costs. "Spender" roads include the lonesome sections built largely for political capital on which the public purse realizes little or no return.

While Mr. Affleck did not make the comparison, there is an exact parallel with strong and weak air routes, steamship lines, and railroads. If a thorough study of trafic demands is made before inauguration or construction the ventures will afford convenience to the public as well as substantial returns to investors. If no such surveys are made there will be failures, receiverships, and abandonments. The government, of course, is faced with none of the last mentioned contingencies, and therein lies the weakness of public management. There is no attempt to check costs against fares collected in the form of gasoline and license taxes.

Some day there will be a public outcry against the slaughter on narrow trunk roads that have been neglected while tax moneys are being spent on new construction for little more than private use. State officials may be obliged to show by prospectus that each new mile will pay its own way. Those who provide the money will be supplied with statements not only of new construction that has been built, but of the number of earner highways that have been completed, improved or renewed. Unfortunately, such ideas are associated with the millennium.

ANOTHER CORNICE FALLS.

A stone cornice, 35 feet long, fell to the sidewalk from an apartment building on the north side the other night. Fortunately, no one happened to be walking by at the time and therefore no one was killed.

The incident should serve to revive interest in the building code. For ten years the city council has been pretending to draft a code to replace the existing one. Nothing has come of all this effort, though there is universal agreement that the present law is an encouragement to many bad building practices and a discouragement to many good ones.

Overhanging cornices serve no useful purpose and should be forbidden as a menace to life. They are particularly dangerous in fires because of their tendency to fall on the heads of firemen below. In classical buildings cornices had a use in holding the roof in place, but they are not needed for this or any other purpose today and, perhaps for that reason, are generally ugly.

Cornices require constant attention and repair if they are not to be a menace to life. Relatively few buildings are so well maintained and so carefully inspected that the danger is eliminated. That being so, the law should forbid the use of cornices of the offending type.

That is only one of many changes in the existing law which should be brought about. Another is the elimination of steel fire escapes fastened to exterior walls. Another would forbid the use of unsightly and dangerous wood scaffolding for back porches and stairs on apartment houses. A new code which would permit the use of materials not discovered when the old code was enacted and forbid the use of materials for which superior substitutes are now available would produce a gradual improvement in both the safety and appearance of the city.

There is a vested interest in this community in bad building practices. The old code makes money for some manufacturers and dealers in materials at the expense of all who pay rent. The code is also an invitation to graft. It forbids building practices which are economical, safe, and sightly, and because of that fact there was a profitable trade, during the last building boom, in special consents to do the right but illegal thing.

The trafic in special permissions was bad in itself and its consequences may be disastrous. If officials become habituated to it they will some day sell their approval of plans for fire traps. The best way of avoiding this danger is to revise the code to make it accord with sound modern practice.

DIPHTHERIA.

Manchester, N. H., has not had a case of diphtheria for five years. That is commendable. It speaks well for the citizens of Manchester, their physicians, and their public health authorities.

But that the record should have sufficient news value to obtain space in the report of the Associated Press is a sorry comment on the rest of the country, in which there were 157,000 cases and several thousand deaths from diphtheria last year.

Immunization against diphtheria passed the experimental stage a decade ago. The medical profession accepts it as safe and effective. Immunization of children of pre-school age, the technique followed in Manchester, is also followed in Chicago and most other cities. No civilized community can excuse the existence of the disease.

The news behind the news from Manchester is that of one of the most pressing problems of a civilization based on science—the costly lag between discovery and its general application.

Editorial of the Day

WHEN LEADERSHIP DECAYS.

[Daily Oklahoman.]

Can intelligent congressional leadership survive when the executive assumes the function of the lawmaker and seizes the leadership of the congress? Or will real leadership soon be atrophied by lack of constant exercise? These questions which are one question are brought to the fore in the recently published history of the Jefferson administration by Claude G. Bowers.

While Jefferson controled congress smoothly and blandly he controled it in nearly an absolute degree. Perhaps no other President has ever exercised a greater degree of power over the lawmaking body. And it is interesting if not significant that there was no Democratic leadership worth the name in the congress when the eight year tenure of Jefferson came to an end. About all the brains remaining in congress in 1809 were Federalist brains and those of the Democrat Randolph of Roanoke, who was in opposition.

The only leader known to the Democrats during the first administration of Jefferson was Randolph. He alone was capable of doing successful battle with the very brilliant Federalist leaders who had survived the Democratic landslide in 1800. But Randolph was continually irked by Jefferson's exercise of congressional authority and became an avowed insurgent [the first insurgent] at the close of Jefferson's first term. Thereafter the Jeffersonians had no leadership in the congress; Randolph was in opposition and Giles was disabled by physical illness. And it seems to have been impossible to develop new leadership under a President who persisted in doing all the leading. During the second period of the Jefferson ascendancy his party controled congress by the mere might of numbers; it was entirely helpless in the field of debate.

Will the might of Roosevelt leadership strangle the leadership of Democrats in congress? For four years now the President has exercised leadership absolutely with the valuable aid of his Vice President. Meanwhile the former Democratic leaders have become known more for their skill in carrying out White House orders than for any inherent might of leadership on their own part. Can the old leadership that congress so recently knew survive four more years of executive domination? That is an interesting question. Can any leadership regain what it has lost after eight long years of complete obedience to extraneous influence? The brilliant leaders of the Madison administration came to congress in the closing years of the Jefferson tenure; the leadership of 1800 had entirely perished.

SIR: The lady on the bus directed the attention of the 6 year old boy with her to the sign on a candy store. Distinctly I heard her say: "That's where mother used to work, sonny—you remember, when she used to bring all the candy bars home." Billy Bee.

THE ABSENT MINDED PROF.

The professor arranged his notes and cleared his throat. But his mind was far from the lecture. He was thinking of the charming, intelligent young woman he had decided to forget two months ago. Everything he could have wished for, she was, but he had left her without an explanation—just because she was eight inches taller than he. . . . He had seen her at noon, walking out of the church as the petite bride of another. Why had he thought her too tall? He wracked his brain and just at lecture time he reached the solution. Ah, each time they had met she was on an elevated step, or standing while he sat in his office chair. No, that wasn't all; he had walked home with her one afternoon. "She took the sidewalk," he told his inner soul, "and I—I must have walked in the gutter." P. C. K.

TO GENERAL ABEL DAVIS.

A hero has been laid to rest. The guns
Salute! The muffled drums, the sound of taps
Flung sweet and clear upon the quiet air
Mark well that in this earth a soldier naps,
Whose love of God and country none surpassed,
Who did not falter in the final mile
But faced the march of death as that of life
With gallant charm and steady buoyant smile,
With courage, shining as a naked sword.
The great pay tribute, countless others weep,
The humble souls who knew his kindness best.
Sleep well, brave heart, and may eternal sleep
Be sweeter, knowing we who mourn will ne'er
Forsake stern Duty whom you found so fair!

"It ain't made no diffunce in the fishin' and huntin', so fur as I kin see," said he.

SUPEREROGATION.

A middle aged real estate man has the longest and most comprehensive vocabulary in our village, and also knows all there is to know about the neighborhood's birds and flowers. Recently I began a more or less ambitious poem about the North Shore's beauties and, having put in all the flowers I could, was left with a line lacking two syllables. So I called the expert and demanded a spring flower in two syllables, accent on the first—"and don't say lilac, lily, tulip or bluebell, because they're already in." He retorted: "I'll do my best, but your coming to me for poetic help is like a race horse leaning over a fence and asking a plow horse how to increase racing speed." A. J. T.

POEMS SHOULD HAVE BLUE PRINTS.

I used to hope that Pegasus was mine to ride away,
Or tether in my stable, and feed on metric hay.
And so I crammed on syntax, and stuffed with prosody,
I courted rhymes and meters, and passed up history.
Now here I mourn in shadow, my head upon my knees,
While songs of other rhymsters come ringing down the breese.
They sing of de La Rochefoucauld, and of De Quincey's Ann,
They rave of Francois Villon, and some Tusitala man;
While lost in gloom I wonder that I should dare to write.
To skim the clouds on Pegasus, one must be erudite.

BE KIND TO BRONCHITIS.

THERE are a number of diseases which many of us make an effort to wear down. We are tempted to do this because they are not immediately incapacitating. In other words, we try to beat the train at the crossing.

What do we mean by bronchitis? The tubes that carry air to the lungs are lined with mucous membrane and whenever this delicate structure becomes inflamed a typical cough develops. We can understand the nature of the condition if we will think of these air pipes as extensions from the throat. If we use a mirror we can see the angry, red shade of the mucous lining in sore throat. Many cases begin with a raw throat, the infection extending downward along the air passages to the bronchi. Unless the situation is controled —that is, held in the larger tubes—the infection may proceed to the finer bronchi, thence to the air cells themselves. We then realize that a fight for life is on as broncho-pneumonia is with us.

How does bronchitis start? A cold comes on, which involves the nose and throat and which later may "run into" an annoying cough. This means that the upper portion of the air channels and the trachea are inflamed. If we will go to bed, keep warm, drink plenty of fluid [water, fruit juices, tea, etc.] we will gain strength gradually and the irritation will recede. If we attempt to fight it off, keep going at our regular duties, resistance is lowered and the first thing we know cough has become a habit. A chronic affair comes on which may improve during the summer months only to reappear each winter.

A few seasons of this and we have suffered a sizable amount of destruction of the mucous lining of the bronchi, a drying of the normal moist surface, and in many instances a hacking cough becomes constant. There may be some pain just beneath the breastbone.

In the acute phase the expectoration is but slight and the chest feels "tight." Later, as white cells from the blood are poured out into the inflamed areas, pus is produced and the cough becomes, as we say, "productive" or loose—the sputum varying from thick, tenacious, grayish material to yellowish or greenish.

If bronchitis has fastened itself upon a victim comfort may be obtained by breathing moist air, particularly if this is impregnated with some mild antiseptic. The room should be provided with plenty of fresh air and the ordinary croup kettle will be helpful in supplying moisture. This device will discharge steam within the room and, as a result, the air that is breathed will prove much less irritating.

The chronic bronchial cough may be much worse at night or whenever the patient lies down; in fact, in some cases relief can be secured only when propped up with pillows. There is usually some shortness of breath and should prolonged coughing paroxysms occur dilatation of the air sacs may ensue.

Anything that keeps the body in good tone is an important preventive measure. This means that winter bathing must not be neglected and that our usual hygienic measures—good food, fresh air, and moderate exercise—are necessary. If there is fever during the acute stage rest in bed is imperative for at least two or three days after the temperature has receded to normal.

Although food is not a factor, yet nutrition should be maintained at as high a level as is consistent with inactivity. Care should be taken, however, not to overload the digestive tract, particularly with starches and sugars. As convalescence begins an excellent aid is the use of cod liver oil in generous quantities for at least a month. Orange juice may be made a part of the daily menu and a well balanced full diet will restore strength rapidly.

But most of us can prevent bronchitis if we will give prompt attention to acute colds, avoid overheated rooms and the lowering of resistance which comes with the failure to observe the rules of good hygiene.

NOT UNCOMMON SYMPTOM.

N. W. H. writes: For some time I have had choking and gagging spells and frequently I am nauseated. Some one told me it was an acid condition. It feels as if there is something in my throat. Please advise what you think and how to correct it.

REPLY.

Nausea accompanied by choking and gagging appears in a great many conditions. Only a physician who has made a thorough examination can determine the cause exactly. Disregard the so-called acid condition. People are too "acid" conscious. Many individuals do not have enough acid in the gastric juice. My guess would be that nervousness may play a part. At any rate, a careful stomach examination is in order so that organic disease may be ruled out.

HEART MURMUR.

A. B. writes: Can a patient with heart murmur ever become normal? Whenever I visit the physician my heart races. After I leave his office it quiets down. What can I do to remedy this condition?

REPLY.

In general, heart murmurs are inconsequential. Physicians pay relatively little attention to them. The important factor is the condition of the heart muscle.

But there is no evidence that your heart is diseased. Your apprehension, however, is responsible for the increased number of beats. You can cultivate emotional stability. A perfectly normal heart will behave in like manner if its owner is frightened or upset nervously.

TELL YOUR PHYSICIAN.

B. V. P. writes: While undergoing treatment for syphilis I have frequently taken a few beers; no hard liquors. I am to be discharged soon and I would like to know if the beer has interfered enough so that I have not received the full benefit from the treatments? Should I tell my physician of the indiscretions? I would not like to if it is not necessary.

REPLY.

It is always wise to be perfectly frank with one's physician. I doubt if he would be unduly concerned because of your lapse. It is best to omit the use of alcohol entirely during a course of syphilitic treatments.

SKIN POISONING.

B. & J. writes: What is toxic erythema? Is it contagious? Is there a cure?

REPLY.

Erythema denotes simple redness of the skin which, upon pressure, disappears temporarily. Toxic erythema is that form which is brought on by poisonous substances such as dyes and vegetable poisons.

LONDON.—All British empire mails will be carried by air if a scheme being considered by the postoffice and the air transport companies is put into effect. The plan will be introduced on the route to South Africa by next May, according to the present schedule.

First class mail will be carried by air at a 3 cent rate. The empire flying boats will gradually supersede existing aircraft on all empire routes, and as night flying facilities are provided will shorten the present eight day journey to the Cape of Good Hope to one of only four and a half days.

Similar reorganization along other routes is being worked out. Before the end of the year a corresponding speed-up is expected on the routes to India and the far east.

When the full air mail scheme is placed in operation, Egypt will be only a little more than a day's journey from London. India will be two and a half days away, compared with the present five days.

Ordinary passenger services by air are also undergoing a speeding up. The train journey from Paris to Brindisi, Italy, which travelers on the Imperial Airway company's empire routes have up to now had to make, spending two nights on the train, is gradually to be eliminated. Until recently the Mediterranean section of the empire air route has been only from Brindisi to Alexandria, Egypt, but a service is now being operated from Marseilles, France.

At present only two services each week outward to India and two inward from Africa will be operated from Marseilles, the inward services from India and outward to Africa continuing to be operated from Brindisi. But as more flying boats are delivered by the aircraft builders, further changes will be made, and in the near future, it is stated, empire air services will operate direct from Southampton, England.

SURETY BOND.

Cicero, Ill., Jan. 7.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—The building loan association, in which I have shares, liquidated about four months ago. They gave me a $900 certificate. I lost the certificate.

1. They want me to put up a bond [2] which they say will cost me about $36. This bond must be put up before any money will be given me.

3. Is it possible to have a notarized paper stating that the certificate, if found, be void?

4. Or is there any other way in which this could be straightened out? E. M.

1. This is the common procedure on such facts.

2. This is for a surety company bond. You might cut down the cost by having a real estate owner sign the bond with you instead, if they would be satisfied with this.

3. The question whether the certificate would be enforcible in the hands of a new holder depends in part on whether it is so worded as to be negotiable. No document you would sign could take away such rights as the holder may have.

4. No, in the sense that you will have to satisfy the parties with whom you are dealing or sue.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

WIFE'S CITIZENSHIP.

Chicago, Jan. 7.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. If an Englishman, a British subject, and so remaining, marries an American woman, does the wife lose her nationality and automatically become a British subject?

2. Are the children of this union, born in this country, British subjects?

B. W. S.

1. An American woman who married an alien prior to Sept. 22, 1922, lost her citizenship by such marriage, under the laws then in effect. The marriage of a woman on or after that date does not affect her citizenship in this country, as the act of Sept. 22, 1922, provides that from that date on the citizenship of married women shall be independent of that of their husbands. Whether or not she becomes a British subject depends upon the laws of that country.

2. All persons born in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States, under the 14th amendment to the constitution. Whether or not the children are also British subjects depends upon the laws of that country.

CONCEALED WEAPONS.

Evanston, Ill., Jan. 17.—A few days ago an item in THE TRIBUNE stated that a man had been arrested for displaying an antique pistol. If the facts are as reported and the man was simply a collector of curious weapons who was exhibiting a find, the unfairness of his arrest needs no comment.

This incident, however, may serve to call attention to the supreme idiocy of the Illinois law which, as I understand it, serves only the purpose of strengthening the hands of the criminals who roam our streets, lurk in alleys, and invade Chicago homes. The stickup man, housebreaker, and degenerate will have their weapons whatever the penalty prescribed. A gun law is merely a joke to the fellow who is ready to rob or kill.

Yet the decent citizen who has to be out late at night, the man who would protect his wife or daughter, the woman who has to make her way home alone in the darkness are all placed in the criminal class if they possess the only practical means of self-defense.

It is a rotten law which gives the edge to the bandit, burglar, and moron by disarming their prospective victims.

NORSHORE.

THE PHILATELIC LOW DOWN.

Chicago, Jan. 13.—In regard to a small news item in today's paper, headed "A Divorce Suit Gets Stuck on a Rare Stamp."

The stamp referred to is from St. Lucia. Just what particular one it is the item does not state. None of the stamps of this small island are great rarities. The highest priced one is listed at $150, which would indicate that the stamp is scarce but not very rare.

The writer states that St. Lucia is "a lost island in the ocean." When did it become lost? If the writer will refer to his geography he will find that it is still going strong. It is one of the larger islands of the Windward group of the West Indies, in the Caribbean sea, and is still issuing nice postage stamps.

A. G. WHEELER.

CAUSE AND EFFECT?

Wheaton, Ill., Jan. 14.—Well, this is a curious world. You just can't fathom what people will do next. For instance, take two stories of page 3 of THE TRIBUNE today. In the second column we find the story of the allegedly intoxicated tavern frequenter who didn't like the tavern piano player. He shot him and now is indicted for murder. The piano player was once a sales manager at $15,000 a year, but it is reported that liquor got the better of him. In the sixth column we read that the Chicago city council voted to allow taverns to open at 12 noon every Sunday, one hour earlier, doubtless to accommodate the drinking public and incidentally to increase the revenue of liquor dispensers. Yes, that extra hour was badly needed to help the tavern business and provide more grist for the courts.

WHEATONIAN.

PETTY THIEVERY IN SCHOOL.

Chicago, Jan. 14.—My boy is a student at Lane Technical High school. For Christmas he received a lovely blue plaid lumberjack with zipper front and a $3.50 fountain pen, both of which were taken in school on Tuesday of this week. The taking of his coat necessitated his coming home on three street cars without a coat.

The coat was left in the locker room because he did not have time, without being late for class, to put it in his locker, and when he came to do this it was gone. While this was somewhat negligent on his part, I know that my boy could not bring home a new coat he had "found" and keep it without being run down every possible chance of its being returned to the owner. The pen he laid down while he helped the teacher with something, and in a minute it was gone.

The increasing crime among young boys could be greatly diminished if parents were interested in discovering where they obtain some of the things they "find." Cannot the youngsters be taught that things found in school should be turned in rather than keeping them is stealing?

MRS. R. R. NAY.

THE FUTURE OF THE AIR SERVICE.

Chicago, Jan. 15.—From time to time the suggestion is made relative to the establishment of a separate branch for the air service. As a world war aviator, I am of the opinion that this would produce better results and inevitably will be adopted. The petty jealousies and hidebound antagonism of the other arms certainly hinder the efficiency and proper functioning of the air service. Under one head much of this and the present waste would be eliminated.

Until a separate branch is set up I would suggest that all branches of air service be transferred to an enlarged marine corps. In time of need units could be assigned to operate with the army, just as regiments of the marines were in France.

LESTER D. ROBERTS.

LOSING THE NEXT WAR.

Chicago, Jan. 11.—Your editorial in THE TRIBUNE for Jan. 11, entitled "The Conscription Bill," is very much to the point. Apparently, these gentlemen, either consciously or unconsciously, are preparing to lose the next war, if they can have their way. Their program would be a perfect formula for so doing, for reasons obvious to any one familiar with the methods of war and industry.

A. F. D.

TOWARD BARBARISM.

Chicago, Jan. 10.—Your editorial on navy obsolete? Yes, and so is the whole idea of warfare. Armies and navies are kept only because of the immaturity and the lack of faith of humanity. If armies were kept up we'll all be going around armed like miniature forts, which was exactly our circumstances in barbaric times.

DUTCH PRINCESS' MATE BECOMES A 'FORGOTTEN MAN'

Must Play Second Fiddle to His Wife.

BY SAM BREWER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

THE HAGUE, Jan. 8 [by Mail.]—When he married Crown Princess Juliana of the Netherlands here Prince Bernhard zu Lippe-Biesterfeld, who was born in Germany, became the princess' husband and under Dutch law he is exactly that and nothing more.

As the husband of the crown princess, he will be husband of a queen if she succeeds to the throne. He is to be her companion and the father of her children, but he is as near political oblivion personally as any member of a reigning family can get. Prince Bernhard even changed his own name upon marrying Juliana. He ceased to be Prince Bernhard zu Lippe-Biesterfeld, although that remains his family name. Henceforth he will be known as Prince Bernhard of the Netherlands by a decree of Queen Wilhelmina.

Children to Take Juliana's Name.

Like Prince Henry of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, Juliana's father, who died in 1934, Juliana's prince lost even the privilege of passing on his name to his children. Any children born to the marriage will assume the name of Oranje Nassau because Juliana took that instead of her father's name.

If the marriage should end in a divorce, the law provides that the children must remain Dutch and within jurisdiction of the Holland government, whatever the circumstances of the divorce may be.

Prince Bernhard already has been made an officer of every branch of the Dutch armed forces. He is captain in every land regiment and a lieutenant in the navy. He wore the uniform of the Blue Hussars at his marriage.

He will get other honorary posts, and some with administrative duties. It is expected he will become a privy councillor. He probably will have a strong influence on his wife's decisions, but it will be strictly unofficial and unrecognized outside the family circle.

Must Play Second Fiddle.

On every appearance in public the prince consort must play second fiddle.

Even in the military honors he receives, there are subtle distinctions. When there is a military guard, if it is for Juliana, it is composed of Grenadiers, considered the crack regiment of the army. If the guard is for the prince consort alone, it is composed simply of chasseurs.

Whether the prince thought of this in deciding on his own favorite regiment the Dutch don't know. They prefer to take it for granted that he chose a cavalry regiment because his father once was a German cavalry officer. In Holland, however, it has been traditional for the princes of the royal house to enter the Grenadiers.

Holland's legislators have been spared much work and worry by the fact that most of the problems that might confront them were met and solved when Queen Wilhelmina married in 1901.

Prince Gets the Same Pay.

The one important difference is that Wilhelmina already had been queen for three years when she became a bride. Juliana at present has no more sovereignty than Bernhard, though she handles many official duties to help lighten her mother's burden.

Some changes have been made in the laws since Wilhelmina's marriage. The only important one, but a very important one for Bernhard, is the bill passed several years ago granting to Juliana's husband in case she ever married, an annual appropriation equal to that given Juliana—about $110,000.

Wilhelmina presented many more problems. She was the first woman to succeed to the throne since the establishment of the present kingdom of The Netherlands in 1815, after Napoleon's downfall and Holland's reconquest of its independence. Determined to keep their rulers Dutch, the nation decided in Wilhelmina's case that her husband could not become king.

Why She Was Named Juliana.

In December, 1908, four months before Juliana's birth, the legislators decided that she would not even bear her father's family name. When the princess was born they deliberated again and decided she must be named Juliana, in memory of a 16th century Juliana, Juliana von Stolborg, mother of William the Silent, who founded the dynasty of Oranje Nassau.

One privilege is left to the prince consort. He can remain in his own church. Juliana belongs to the Dutch Reformed church, while he is a Lutheran.

GUERIN'S TRAVELS

Eddie Guerin, old time criminal, left Chicago (1) for Paris (2) and there was convicted in the American Express holdup of 1902. He was sentenced to Devil's Island (3), from which he escaped in 1905. He next settled in London (4) where he lived for many years. He came through Canada (5) to Chicago. He has now re-entered Canada.

The petition charged, it developed during the legal wrangle, that Kleinman got in touch with Guerin in England and informed him his sister had left a worthless estate. He signed a contract with Guerin, according to the petition, for 50 per cent of what he could realize, then amended it to 40 per cent.

"The sole purpose of this petition is to hijack this case out of my hands," remarked Attorney Kleinman. "These gentlemen threatened to do this in my office last Saturday unless I paid $1,000 and withdrew."

The Hubbub Grows Worse.

"The power of attorney was obtained by fraud," interrupted Fitzgerald. Johntry joined the dispute. Every one jabbered.

"If you grant the filing of this petition," McKerchar said, when he could be heard, "we won't object to the change in counsel. But I want the document amended or impounded. Who is this man Guerin, an international criminal, who points the finger of scorn at a reputable member of the bar?"

"Yes, and you took him for a 50 per cent contract," Attorney Johntry is said in one report to have retorted, "as well as movie, magazine, and serial rights. You skunk, you ought to be before the bar association!"

Rush Almost to Blows.

"Sandbagger!" screamed Kleinman, rushing toward his opponent.

"If any sandbagging was done," countered Johntry, "you sandbagged your client."

Then Judge Thoma gave up. He announced the hearing continued to next Tuesday for a ruling by Judge O'Connell.

This was 8,049,070 more lines than any other Chicago newspaper printed.

The Tribune closed 1936 with a lead of 64.9% in total volume of advertising over the second Chicago newspaper. This was the largest per cent of lead on record.

In 1936 the Tribune registered a gain of 2,589,333 lines of advertising over the volume printed in 1935.

This was a larger gain than was enjoyed by all other standard-size Chicago newspapers combined.

The Tribune gets results because its full-market, all income circulation lays down balanced coverage of this community's buying power.

It is the only Chicago newspaper which delivers majority coverage of all the families of the city and suburbs.

It enables the advertiser to apply advertising pressure in direct proportion to the sales volume available in each income level.

PROKOFIEFF HERE TO PRESENT NEW CURVE IN MELODY

Composer Eats Pie and Views Modern Trend.

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Serge Prokofieff, Russian composer who was once considered dangerously "radical" but is now recognized as one of the genuinely significant musicians of the day, came to Chicago yesterday morning to prepare for his first local appearances in four years.

Tomorrow night he will conduct the Chicago Symphony orchestra in an American première of the suite from his ballet, "Romeo and Juliet," and will play the solo part of the third piano concerto which he himself introduced here 15 years ago. The entire program is to be repeated Friday afternoon.

Finishes Off on Apple Pie.

A few hours after his arrival Mr. Prokofieff was sitting at a luncheon table consuming typically American food and ordering apple pie after his companions had been reduced to such trifles as ice cream or custard.

The composer is 45 years old, vital, cheerful, and extremely intelligent. Before, during, and after the meal he talked fluently, in an English that takes an additional charm from the precision with which a person habitually speaks a language that is not native to him. Prokofieff's topics were as wide as the world—trains, tempos, composers, conductors, American scenery, hobbies, theories of music.

Occupies His Old Room.

Chicago has not changed very much as far as his observation goes. He is staying in the same room in the same hotel where he lived for some months back in 1921 when the Chicago Opera company was preparing for the world première of his second musico-dramatic work, "The Love for Three Oranges."

Mr. Prokofieff understands keenly the curious situation in which the modern composer finds himself. Most contemporaries are accused of lack of melody. Those that escape this charge by the simple expedient of writing melodies similar to those of older standard music must hear themselves called reactionary and imitative. He believes that the solution may lie in a new kind of melody, melody which can make an almost immediate appeal, yet suggest nothing that has gone before. Hence the "new melodic line" which the composer will introduce to Chicago in the "Romeo and Juliet" suite.

New Curve to Melody.

This is a matter of new curves to the line of melody. If this seems a bit hazy, know ye that the writer is in an equal haze and is eagerly awaiting the performance tomorrow night. Mr. Prokofieff does not pretend that such things can be explained satisfactorily over a luncheon table. In fact, he talked of the matter only in response to questioning.

A few ideas from out the wealth which the composer presented in two hours of conversation:

The ear of a child is less prejudiced than that of an adult, because it has not become accustomed to the harmonies and progressions which an older person regards as "standard." Mr. Prokofieff is composing a great deal of children's music at the present time.

How He Develops Ideas.

He does not like to conduct a first performance of a new work of his own, preferring to hear another person's rendition of it and to make notes of the changes that must be made if his original idea, or possibly his developing and changing idea, is to become perfectly comprehensible in performance.

A composer can see himself as others see him [hear is better, perhaps] by taking up a piece of his own work after a lapse of years and puzzling it out as a perfect stranger might. Mr. Prokofieff told amusingly of his impatience with a half forgotten work when he tried to play it on the piano and find out what the composer was driving at.

CROWN CARNIVAL KING NEXT WEEK ON THE RIVIERA

Many Americans to Be Subjects of Monarch.

BY FREDERIC BABCOCK.

Most Americans will be looking today toward Washington, where President Roosevelt is to be inaugurated for the second time. But many others will be starting for Nice, there to witness the coronation of King Carnival LIX. The latter event is set for a week from tomorrow.

The President's reign is due to last four more years. That of Europe's favorite monarch will be much shorter. At the end of a twelve day celebration he will be burned in effigy, the while thousands dance around him and fireworks are set off along the sea front to mark his passing.

Court of Several Hundred.

For months the people of Nice have been busy making dragons, giants, and huge birds and animals for the Jan. 28 procession, which marks the opening of the carnival season. Under garlands of electric lights and arches of flowers overhanging the streets, the king, with a court several hundred strong, will parade through the city and begin his rule. On Feb. 4 his reign will be commemorated with a battle of flowers. More parades are to be held Feb. 7 and 9. On the night of Feb. 9 the king will become a matter of history by way of a bonfire.

The celebration is perhaps the most picturesque of all the old world carnivals culminating on Shrove Tuesday, the last day before Lent. But throughout Europe many of the old time customs still survive.

In England it formerly was the custom of the people on Shrove Tuesday to confess their sins to the priest and then dine on pancakes. The practice of eating flapjacks and then ringing the town bell is still kept up in in parts of that country.

In German cities such as Berlin, Cologne, and Mainz the merrymaking started early this month. In Cologne Prince Carnival, who has been holding sway there for about a century, each year holds a "fools' court."

For Unusual Costumes.

For unusual costumes, however, few cities can rival the Belgian town of Binche, near Mons. There on Shrove Tuesday hundreds of citizens array themselves as "Gilles," or clowns, wearing large headdresses of ostrich feathers dyed in all colors, and real lace embroidered with gold. They take over the city for the day, dancing and capering through the crowds, and pelting with oranges any one who has failed to appear in fancy dress.

The final day is known variously as Mardi gras, Carnival, Shrove Tuesday, and the Fête de Boeuf. No matter what its name, it always offers a striking contrast to the observances of the following day, Ash Wednesday. On that day, the beginning of Lent, the faithful gather for the placing of ashes upon their heads.

COBBLER ENDS OWN LIFE.

Oscar Dohner, 39 years old, 4051 North Narragansett avenue, operator of a shoe repair shop at 6437 Irving Park boulevard, ended his life yesterday by slashing his throat in the back room of his shop. His wife blamed business reverses.

MERCURY GOES TO 47 BELOW IN MINNESOTA; SNOW IN DAKOTAS

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Cold records for this season tumbled today as below zero temperatures gripped Minnesota and North and South Dakota.

Northern Minnesota shivered in temperatures as low as 47 degrees below zero at Grand Rapids and Pillager. One person was burned to death and two others were in a serious condition from burns suffered in a fire which destroyed a bunkhouse in a lumber camp north of Bemidji. The temperature there was 42 below zero.

Snow fell in portions of North and South Dakota, where temperatures were only a little less severe than those experienced in Minnesota. Light snow was forecast for Iowa tonight. Milwaukee, Wis., experienced relatively mild weather, but Park Rapids reported an overnight minimum of 30 below.

COUNTY AMENDS SUIT TO COLLECT FROM SWEITZER

Judge Walter J. La Buy of the Circuit court yesterday granted Assistant State's Attorney Jacob Shamberg permission to file an amended petition in the county's suit to collect $533,817 from Robert M. Sweitzer, ousted county treasurer, who is accused of withholding the sum during his twenty-four year tenure as county clerk.

As amended, the petition lowers by $2,113 the amount of money that the county seeks from his surety, the United States Fidelity and Guaranty company. The difference represents fees collected by Sweitzer in his ex-officio job as clerk of the County court, for which he was not bonded.

Judge La Buy then entered his memorandum decision, returned three weeks ago, which paves the way for collection of the debt by virtually overruling every point raised by the defense in its motion to dismiss the action. Sweitzer and the surety now have twenty days in which to answer the county's suit.

Los Angeles Prosecutor Gets $30,000 'Death Letter'

Los Angeles, Jan. 19.—(AP)—An extortion letter demanding $30,000 has been received by District Attorney Buron Fitts, he disclosed today. The letter, mailed Jan. 13, from Los Angeles, read: "I am desperate. I want $30,000 in old small bills.

THREAT TO KILL MATTSON BOY IS BARED IN NOTE

Kidnaped Child Forced to Write It.

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 19.—(AP)—The Post-Intelligencer says in a copyrighted story from Tacoma that two notes sent by the kidnaper of Charles Mattson, 10, to his father, Dr. W. W. Mattson, threatened to kill the boy several days before he was slain.

The notes, both in Charles' handwriting, were sent through the mails, the newspaper says, the first being received the second day after the boy was kidnaped Dec. 27 and the other one several days later.

Punctuated as Written.

"Following are the texts of the ransom notes," the newspaper says, with punctuation as originally written:

[1] "If you want the boy back pay ransom let us know through the papers have the money car ready. Call police off, ransom paid at night you will get a phone call where to find note. You will find 5 or 6 before we tell you where to leave the suit case, you will go lonely roads.

"If cars are trailing you we won't contact. If our man gets killed or has to commit suicide on account of police you will never see the kid again. To prove he is alive this is in his handwriting. If you want to make sure he is alive at the pay off ask us something the kid knows and we dont and we will answer on first note that tells you where to go.

"Tim Tim."

Told to Stay by Phone.

[2] "Are ready to make connections and want to know if you are getting the notes or are police keeping them from you.

"We mailed a note Dec. 29 with kid's writing. If you do not mention it in papers stay by phone at nites with money and car ready.

"If you do not obey the connections will be off for keeps and remember an army of police can kill a couple of kidnappers but they will not be able to find the kid until after he is dead. "Tim. Tim."

Experts definitly have established, the newspaper says, that "it was little Charles who sat with his abductors standing over him and wrote the words which told of his own impending death.

Plan to Test Suspects.

Tacoma, Wash., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Federal agents sent flying squads on the trail of fresh "tips" in their hunt for the kidnap-slayer of little Charles Mattson tonight, while Portland, Ore., police questioned a man they said fitted "perfectly" the description of the actual abductor.

Detective Captain J. J. Keegan announced the detention at Portland of George Wilson, 38 years old. The captain said the man raged against families of wealth and mentioned specifically that of Dr. W. W. Mattson, Charles' father.

LIGHT COMPANY PLANS NEW FIGHT TO RAISE RATES

The Peoples Gas Light and Coke company yesterday notified the Illinois commerce commission that its court fight for increased domestic rates is to be renewed. Attorneys for the utility stated they would appear before Judge Stanley H. Klarkowski of Circuit court today and file a motion for a permanent injunction to restrain the commission from interfering with a higher rate schedule. The utility seeks to increase its domestic rates by $3,000,000 annually, pending the outcome of a rate case now before the commission.

BRITAIN JAILS 3 WELSHMEN FOR BURNING AIRPORT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 19.—Three Welsh Nationalists, stubbornly refusing to speak anything but Welsh, were sentenced here today to nine months' imprisonment for burning a Royal Air force base at Pwllheli, Carnarvonshire, in September as a protest to its establishment.

Hundreds of Welshmen invaded London by train and bus for the trial, though few could get into the famous Old Bailey court to hear the proceedings. Crowding about the doors they sang the Welsh anthem, "Land of Our Fathers," and cheered the defendants—a professor, a Baptist pastor, and a schoolmaster.

Jury Disagrees on Case.

When a Welsh jury disagreed on the case in October, despite the signed confession of the men that they set the $13,000 fire "to compel attention to this immoral violation of the sure and natural rights of the Welsh people," the case was transferred to London.

The convicted men are Prof. John Saunders Lewis, 42 years old, president of the Nationalist party and lecturer at Swansea university; the Rev. Lewis Edward Valentine, 42 years old, pastor of the Llandudno Welsh Baptist church, and David John Williams, 52 years old, senior master of the Fishguard county school.

Scorning to employ lawyers, they refused to defend themselves, declaring in Welsh that they did not recognize the jurisdiction of any court "outside our own country."

Men Signed Confession.

Only when police testified that they heard them speak English did two of the defendants admit that they understood it. Even then, for lack of proof, an interpreter had to be found for Williams. However, the convicted Welshmen understood the sentence without the aid of an interpreter.

The three had informed a superintendent at a police station after the September fire that they had set fire to the still uncompleted airdrome because the government refused to listen to their protests at its establishment, "which would endanger all the culture and traditions of the most Welsh regions in Wales."

Then they signed a confession that they sprayed gasoline on buildings and set them on fire.

"The fight will go on," said Prof. J. E. Daniel, one of the defendants' fellow leaders, after the sentence was pronounced.

Dr. Maurer Given Semester Leave from Beloit College

Dr. Irving Maurer, president of Beloit college, Beloit, Wis., was granted a leave of absence for the coming semester at a meeting of the board of trustees at the Union League club yesterday. The leave is a reward for Dr. Maurer's services and is similar to those given to faculty members for rest and study, according to members of the board.

Recalls 73 Years Here on Her 96th Birthday

Mrs. Mary A. Tyrrell celebrated her 96th birthday yesterday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Nellie Danner, 5419 North Spaulding avenue. Mrs. Tyrrell came to Chicago from Ogdensburg, N. Y., on a sailboat 73 years ago. She shared her reminiscences of Chicago since 1864 with friends who visited her yesterday in open house.

$46,000 Tax Tendered on Horning's $300,000 Estate

Waukesha, Wis., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—The estate left by Harry L. Horning, president of the Waukesha Motor company and one of the industrial leaders of the midwest, is slightly in excess of $300,000, the executors announced today. Inheritance tax checks totaling more than $46,000 were offered to the Waukesha county treasurer.

Way You Walk Is Important to Your Charm

Rigid Self - Criticism Is Primary Step.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Still on the hunt for that greatest asset a woman can have, charm.

We have talked about the young, lithe, beautiful walk as one of the three fundamental graces. We have told you to stand before a long glass and be as mean as can be in your self-criticism.

Today, now, try good walking. Stand back the width or length of your room and walk toward the mirror with that mean, mean eye on yourself, remember. Call every bad little trick, please! Now watch yourself as you approach that mirror. Are your toes pointed straight ahead? Can you come up on the fore part of your foot with every step? Or do you lift the dead-weight foot all in one piece off the floor? Do your knees give a "crick" with every step? Do they go ahead of you? Your knees, we mean. You see people walking whose knees seem to be plowing a path for the rest of the body to follow. Are you all up in one straight piece? Or does some of you seem to be sticking out behind as if part of you were going the other way?

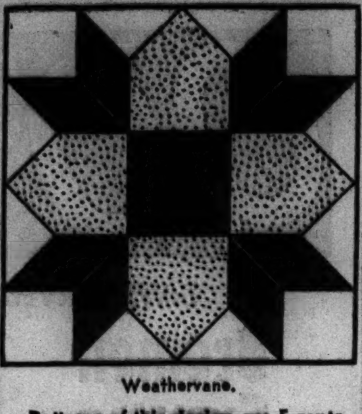
Get yourself in profile before that mirror, too. The one-way look won't do. People see you front face, from the rear and in profile. The profile view is better than front, really, for determining whether your abdomen is flat and your buttocks tucked in as flat as can be. You might take a large hand mirror and see how folks behind see you when you walk. A great many people do get a first impression from you from this angle. Here's where you can see best how ugly the feet look turned out wide. They look twice their size and as graceful as the flappers on a seal.

Then, when you've given yourself an unmerciful going over, try this simple walking corrective:

Pretend you are walking on one line. Not on a two track line, as the waddler does. No matter what your weight or size, if you keep this one track idea foremost you give the impression of better body control and you walk more lightly. Then rise and fall on the broad fore part of the foot, letting the heels simply skirt the floor lightly. Keep the head and the chest up, the abdomen and derriere flattened in, and away you go like a bird on the wing!

Rouging rules for round faces—how to powder away prominent chins—hints on foundation creams and lotions—are among the subjects treated by Antoinette Donnelly, Tribune beauty editor, in her booklet, "Makeup Magic." Get a copy today at either of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 S. Dearborn street and Tribune Tower. Price, 5 cents. Postpaid, 7 cents.

"Weathervane" Is Quilt Retaining Original Design



Weathervane.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

"Weathervane" is one of the few pieced blocks which still retain the original design from which the early patterns were made. Such a distinction is unusual in the quilt field, as many informed needleworkers know. It is based upon the fundamental nine patch pattern, and measures 15 inches square when finished. It is set together with plain blocks in an alternate arrangement. The 7½ inch border and ½ inch binding around the blocks are quilted in a wide cable design.

No Girl Need Remain Drab, Uninteresting

BY DORIS BLAKE.

What chance has a girl of attracting men who has no bright personality, is ordinary looking, has no particular talents, no family position, and no money?

The above is Bee's question.

Off hand we would say that as the girl stands now she has little chance of attracting men. There's too much rivalry in girls who have nice personalities and are good looking and have talents. But WHY, we ask, need Bee remain the colorless individual pictured?

We are far from the opinion that because one is born that way, one must stay that way. We have seen too many metamorphoses first hand to believe that vitality, charm, and lure can not be inscribed into a personality lacking these qualities originally. And we know no better incentive under heaven than the desire to attract a man or men.

Ordinary looking women are the rule rather than the exception, until a particular ordinary looking woman makes up her mind she's going to be something and look the part. And if ever there was a time in the history of the world when the ordinary duckling has at her command the means of converting herself into an interesting looking one, it is right now. The colors she wears, the way she does her hair, the snapping up of her posture and her walk, the thousand other things she can learn from studying other women and articles on the subject of self care, these are the means we advise of. These are the tools at hand out of which she can fashion an individual who won't be overlooked in a crowded room.

Of talents, too, the same may be said. The world is ripe with opportunity for self development. One needn't be a skilled artist, for these are still fairly rare. But one can, at least, do one thing better than any one else can do it. One can be a better listener. One can be a better natured person than the next one.

Cornelia Ranney to Be Bride

Miss Cornelia Williams Ranney, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Ranney, will become the bride of Wyndham Hasler next Saturday afternoon at one of the most fashionable weddings of the winter. The marriage will take place at 4:30 o'clock at St. Chrysostom's church, with a reception following at the Casino. Mr. Hasler is the son of Mrs. Edward L. Hasler of Lake Forest and Chicago.

The bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Williams, will give a dinner-dance for her tonight at the Casino, and the Gaylord Donnelleys [Dorothy Ranney] will give one tomorrow night at the Saddle and Cycle club. Mr. and Mrs. Ranney will give the bridal dinner Friday night at the Casino.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Our eternal conviction that this is the most cockeyed of all possible worlds was strengthened the other day when we found the following on our desk. We had a fleeting thought that perhaps flu had made us delirious and we were having dreams à la Mr. Dadi, but this is actually the way the letter reads:

"Some time ago my wife saw photographs of a woman having a duck, a dragon, and a lizard tattooed across her back. . . . Ever since then my wife has been discussing the feasibility of having some tattooing done on her own body. . . . She seems determined to have the operation performed. One drawback is that there is no tattoo artist in this town. [Editor's note: Thank God!]

"I think it woud be enlightening to your readers if you would write an article on the present resumption and prevalence of the tattoo fad. There must be many who feel as my wife does about it, who would like to be tattooed but know nothing of the art's whys or wherefores, or where to have it done. According to some fashion and beauty dispatches she has collected the practice of tattooing lips and cheeks to do away with the use of rouge and lipstick is increasing."

Now WHAT do you think of that? Did you ever hear of anything madder or sadder? And was Barnum right, or was he right?

Tattooing is in execrable taste. It isn't amusing, although we've heard of people who thought it was after too many cocktails. It's done with inks and electric needles. It isn't pleasant—and once you've indulged the mad whim you're stuck with the birds and the beasties with which you've decorated your frame.

And for the information of this chap and any others [if there are others] we hasten to say, nay, to scream, that the practice of tattooing lips and cheeks so that one may say farewell to rouge and lipstick is not increasing in the civilized world. It hasn't even started that we know of. We trust it never will.

Take our advice, mister, and lock the little woman up until she gets a different and better idea!

Asks Funds to Repair Bad Roof Hazard of Metropolitan Museum

New York, Jan. 19.—(AP)—The roof of the Metropolitan Museum of Art leaks and the skylights fall in so often special nets have been erected to catch the shattered glass, Director Herbert W. Winlock complained today in asking more than a half-million dollars for repairs.

Further, Winlock said, "if we ever get a really good northeast storm the whole skylight over the east hall would be wrapped around the obelisk, out back of us in Central park."

The east hall, he said, "looks like an antiquated railway station" with its tin-sheathed steel girders.

The city budget director has the museum's request under advisement.

Junior League Has Attractive Art Exhibition

Designs for Dining Room Murals Praised.

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The annual exhibition of fine arts by members of the Junior league opened yesterday in the Tower room, Drake hotel, and will continue tomorrow. It is an especially attractive show, rather informal in character and very diversified in subject.

There are oils, water colors, sculpture, etchings, drawings, and photographs. Had the jury not been modern-minded one feels convinced that the first and second awards in oils would have been reversed, as it is Daniel Rich, Ambrose Cramer, and Mrs. Clay Judson gave the blue ribbon to "Mannikin with Wheat and Ball" by Mrs. Ernest A. Hamill II., and the red ribbon to the stunning "Portrait of Mrs. Edgar Stanton Jr." by Mrs. Francis Stanton.

The designs for murals in the Junior league dining room are by Dorothy Gardner and they are clever and fascinating. Fruit, vegetables, and shell fish have been woven into a colorful frieze that is little short of one of the most appetizing motifs any dining room could boast.

The sketches for various Junior league murals and theater designs by Mrs. Huntress and Mrs. Hamill are capital. Mrs. Huntress is responsible, too, for the nicest black and white in the exhibit, the "Winter on a Farm." The jury gave this a first in the drawing and etching class.

"Au Bois du Boulogne" by Mrs. Hamill is amusing, clever, and bears a modern twist, not to its disadvantage. "Detachment" by Mrs. Sanger Hinchman is a large and effective still life centered about an aloof Egyptian cat.

An engaging portrait of a cunning little girl, "Sally," by Mrs. John Satterthwaite is well done and the three western landscapes by Mrs. Buell Mullen are interesting in color and composition. "Les Sylphides" by Nancy Bastien is reminiscent of Louis Kronberg. The "Ballet Dancer" by Mrs. A. Watson Armour III., on the contrary, reminds one of a Lenci doll and is extremely "cute."

Miss Claire Beneke is responsible for "The Lion and the Unicorn," a most attractive piece of needle work. The "Montage," by Mrs. Shreve C. Badger is clever.

The sculpture by Veronese Beatty is interesting. Her "Nude" was awarded a blue ribbon by the jury.

The other awards included honorable mentions to "Ballet Dancers" by Nancy Bastien; "Bowl of Flowers," by Mrs. Duncan Hodges; "Ankor West," by Mrs. Duncan Hodges; "China Dog," by Bonnie Jean Clark; "Bois du Boulogne," by Mrs. Hamill; and "Spectator at Ping-pong," by Mrs. Huntress. A blue ribbon was awarded to "Flamingoes," by Bonnie Jean Clark, and a red ribbon to "Cario," by Mrs. Nathaniel Owings in the division of photography.

An exhibit of Mexican photographs by A. Raphael Macpherson is hung in the Allerton gallery to Feb. 1.

Culbertson's "Gold Book of Bidding and Play"

THE TWO BID RULE.

[Copyright: 1937: By Ely Culbertson.]

Players not experienced in the play of the cards, who can visualize their expected losers only with difficulty, will arrive at the same results by totaling their winners and subtracting from thirteen, the difference being the number of losers. The rules given for counting for one bids should be slightly altered in counting for two bids:

[a] Count all suit lengths as though they were side suits—two for a six card suit, one for a five card suit, one-half for a four card suit, etc., whether you are counting the expected trump suit or a side suit.

[b] Count honors and solid suits at their full value, except that all finesses against kings must be counted as lost. An A Q combination must be valued as one winner, not one and one-half, for you cannot be certain of an entry to dummy to finesse. A guarded king should not be completely discounted, however, since if partner holds the queen of the suit it will win a trick.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 spade	Pass
2 no trump	Pass	3 hearts	Pass
4 hearts	Pass	4 no trump	Pass
5 no trump	Pass	6 hearts	Pass
Pass	Pass

The bidding was good. South, with his enormous hand, was tempted to go on to a grand slam after the responses he had received from North, but properly restrained himself by remembering that North had passed originally. Even though the four-five no trump convention located the two missing aces in North's hand, there still was no assurance that the heart and spade suits both were solid.

West opened his fourth best diamond, and declarer won with the ace. Declarer first tried out the trump situation by laying down the king and queen. When East failed to follow to the second lead, declarer properly switched to a spade. Dummy's ace won, and the eight spot was returned.

At this point a finesse amounted to an insurance policy. With both opponents following to the first lead of spades, and East playing a small card on the eight spot, the only catastrophe possible was to have the king ruffed away. If the jack were lost to the queen in West's hand, or were ruffed by West, no harm would be done. In the first instance, the rest of the hand then would be solid; in the second, declarer always could ruff another spade in dummy for the solidification of his suit. Declarer's actual play of the king therefore was inexcusable and deserved the horrible fate that followed.

West ruffed, and shrewdly returned his last trump. Since dummy, as well as declarer's hand, now was reduced to one trump, and East still had the queen of spades with a guard, the declarer could not avoid the loss of the spade queen.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: What is meant by a "free five no trump bid"?

Answer: By a "free five no trump bid" is meant a bid of five no trump which is neither preceded by the same player's four no trump, nor is some conventional response to a previous artificial bid such as partner's four no trump bid or asking bid.

Mrs. Brewster Tells the Why of Modern Art

BY ELEANOR PAGE.

Mrs. Walter S. Brewster spoke eloquently in behalf of modern art at the opening yesterday afternoon at the Drake hotel of the Chicago Junior league's annual exhibition of fine arts. Mrs. Brewster may not have converted many of her audience to become collectors of modern art, and she would not choose to influence them in any case, but her talk, titled "What Makes You Think You Like It?" clarified for the uninitiated the mist that surrounds the purpose, ideas, and results achieved by modern artists.

Mrs. Brewster, whose own collection of modern paintings is one of the finest in the city, championed particularly that phase of modern painting known as the abstract. "When you face a painting to decide if you like it yourself it must have some emotional appeal for you. You do not expect music to come from a piano in little dots on a long black line. No! You hear what the artist transposes from the little black dots," she said.

One must be honest, humble, receptive, and not too analytical when examining a picture, according to Mrs. Brewster, for one must remember that the picture represents if not great quality in painting, then a great strife for quality, and the artist must be respected for that. One of the earliest exhibitions of modern art was hung in New York in 1913. The famous picture, "Nude Descending the Stairs," was shown then, and the world rocked with laughter at it. During the first year of A Century of Progress the painting was brought here.

The artist, who executed the work at the age of 19, believed that he had reached the peak of his artistic career, and since that time has given up painting and taken up chess.

Mrs. Brewster was smart in a tailored black suit and a toque of brilliant blue feathers to harmonize with her blue blouse. The Tower room was filled with Junior Leaguers and their guests who came for the lecture and stayed afterward for tea. Never have more mink coats been in evidence, for nearly every other person was wearing one. Mrs. John P. Bent and her cousin, Mrs. A. Watson Armour III., wore beautiful ones, long and full, and so did Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed, Mrs. Bent's mother. Mrs. Ernest A. Hamill II. and her mother-in-law, Mrs. Alfred E. Hamill, both wore handsome mink coats, as did Mrs. Hayden B. Harris, Miss Frances Jeffery, Miss Ilma Jane Theurer, Mrs. Robert M. Adams, and Mrs. Spencer Keare, among many others.

Miss Veronese Beatty, chairman of the arts and interests committee, wore an especially becoming hat of tangerine with a green wool dress, and Mrs. W. English Walling, in charge of the tea, looked prettier than ever in a little bonnet type hat of black trimmed with a large and perky black taffeta bow.

A black widow spider dropped on Miss Harlow yesterday.

Wearing a low cut evening gown for the scene, she said she felt the spider when it landed, but did not know what it was, and could not brush it off because the cameras were grinding. Taylor and Director W. S. Van Dyke saw the spider at the same time. The scene came to an abrupt halt.

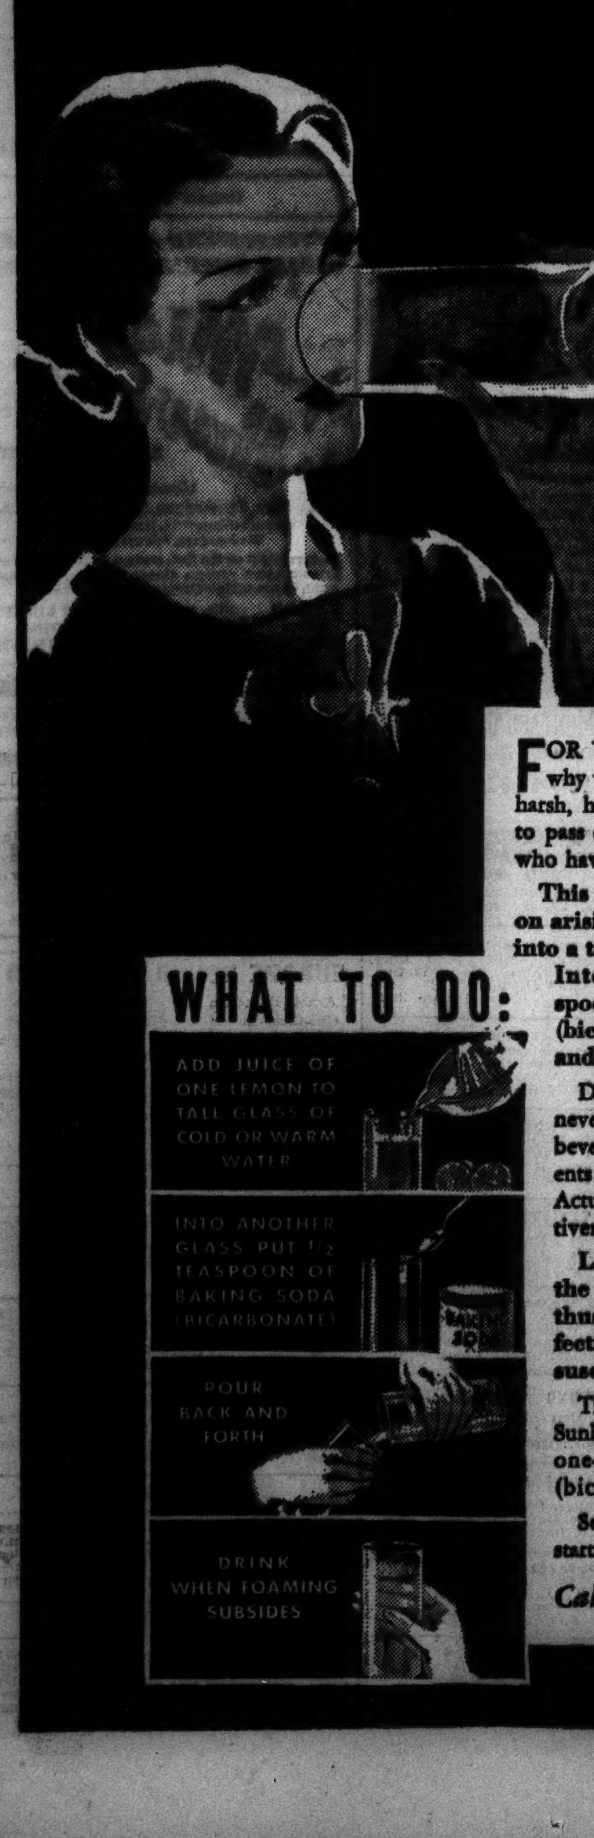
LEMON with SODA

Instead of Harsh Laxatives



FOR YEARS, people have written asking why we did not suggest this way to avoid harsh, harmful laxatives. We have decided to pass on to you the experience of others who have benefited.

This is what you do. Immediately upon arising, squeeze the juice of a lemon into a tall glass of cold or warm water. Into another glass, put half a teaspoonful of ordinary baking soda (bicarbonate). Pour back and forth, and drink when foaming subsides.

Do this regularly and chances are you'll never need a harsh laxative. This simple beverage made with household ingredients may be all the corrective you need. Actually we are told it increases in effectiveness when followed regularly.

Lemon and soda both help to keep the system normally alkaline and thus increase your resistance to infection. Many say this reduces their susceptibility to the common cold.

Try it ten mornings—the juice of a Sunkist Lemon in a glass of water with one-half teaspoonful of baking soda (bicarbonate) first thing upon arising.

Yale Polo Team Will Play Here on February 6

Cornell Also Will Repeat Visit of Last Year.

BY JUDITH CASS.

OF INTEREST to polo fans and Yale alumni is the news that the Yale polo team, which played here for the first time last winter, is coming to Chicago on Feb. 6 to play against a picked Chicago team at the 124th Field Artillery armory. The game last year was sponsored by the Yale alumni as a scholarship benefit, and was a profitable as well as a gay evening.

Peter and Bayard Dominick, who played for Yale last year, will come west with the team next month. Stevens Hammond and "Bill" Fergus, it is reported, will be two of the Chicagoans matched against the easterners.

Cornell university's polo team also came to Chicago for the first time last year, and is expected again in March, probably on the 20th. Last year the Cornell alumni made a great Cornell day out of the team's appearance here, ending the festivities with supper and dancing at the Casino.

Cornell Club to Give Dinner for Dr. Farrand.

March will be a busy month for loyal Cornellians, for on the 12th at the University club the Chicago Cornell club will give a dinner for Dr. Livingston Farrand, retiring president of the university. The dinner will be an unusually gala one, for it is expected that Dr. Jacob Gould Schurman, a former president of Cornell and a former ambassador to Germany, also will come for the banquet, as well as Dr. Edmund Ezra Day, formerly of the Rockefeller Foundation, who is to be Cornell's next chief executive.

The dinner that New York's Cornell club gave at the Waldorf-Astoria for Dr. Farrand drew the record attendance of 1,000 alumni, and Richard H. Sampson and John C. Trussel, who are in charge of tickets, hope that Chicago will give an enthusiastic welcome to the three distinguished scholars.

After some deliberation the Cornell club decided not to invite ladies to the dinner. Wives and sisters, however, have been invited by Phillips-Exeter alumni to their dinner Feb. 5 at the Union League club.

Junior League Show to Play Neighborhoods.

For the first time the Junior League Children's theater is going on the road. New audiences of children and adults are to be reached through a series of performances of "Tom Sawyer," the league's latest production, in various parts of the city, beginning the end of this month.

Miss Helen Bell, Mrs. Roger D. Shaw, and Mrs. Ernest A. Hamill II. have mapped the itinerary of the troupe. It will be a case of "the New York company" going on tour, for most of the main rôles will be taken by the players who appeared in the loop. The play will be slightly abridged, and Mrs. Gail Belden as narrator will fill in the gaps in the action.

"Our travels about the city are certain to bring on that overdue blizzard," laughed Miss Bell as she outlined the schedule. They are to appear at Hull house on the afternoons of Jan. 26 and 27, at Association house on West North avenue on the 29th, and at Fellowship house in the stockyards area on the 30th.

On Feb. 2 they will appear at Northwestern university settlement on the northwest side, and the following afternoon there will be two performances at the Chicago Commons on the west side, one for mothers and one for children. A performance will be given at the Spalding School for Crippled Children on Feb. 4, and there is also to be a performance as yet unscheduled at the Jahn school.

Some Changes Made in Cast.

The league advertised for a station wagon to transport properties and scenery, but this idea has been abandoned in favor of a professional mover. Miss Margaret Wilder and Miss Lillian Lampert are handling production details, and they plan to manage with the sketchiest scenery, since the players will set it up themselves.

Mrs. Harry McLeod again will play

MRS. JOHN V. A. WEAVER, mother of Johnny Weaver, author and poet, now doing movie adaptations in Hollywood ["Tom Sawyer" was one of Mr. Weaver's], said that some years ago, long before his present Hollywood connection, her son had written a scenario and sent it to a film company. It was accepted, and he was paid for it, although he never heard anything more about it. Recently he was given a scenario to adapt for screening, the plot of which seemed familiar. Turned out to be his own scenario.

Scenario—Sentence—Biography—Veteran.

SENTENCE of the week. Radio Commentator John B. Kennedy's, last Sunday: "A halo need only slip a few inches to become a noose."

* *

MRS. IRA NELSON MORRIS has completed the final chapter of a biography upon which she has been working four years, life of Maria Theresa of Austria. Mrs. Morris became interested in the life of the Austrian empress when she was studying at Heidelberg, and made exhaustive research on the subject. She spent two years doing research at Oxford where, singularly enough, she found the most extensive data available. Much of her material, too, came from a historian who is himself a Hapsburg, and her biography is said to include material never before published.

* *

MENTION of Mrs. Morris, who now is in New York, brings to mind that Mrs. Pat Campbell also is in New York at the moment, and also another story to add to the saga that has grown up about the veteran English actress. Some two years ago Mrs. Campbell came to dine at the Morris apartment, and Mr. Morris' ageing English valet was permitted to serve the cocktails. He was told that it was the celebrated Mrs. Campbell, a countrywoman, he was serving, and he addressed her, with appreciation, but with perhaps the same lack of tact for which Mrs. Campbell has become famous, "Ah, madame, I saw you play 47 years ago," he said.

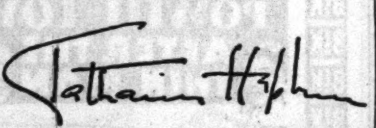
Artistry Shown in Handwriting of an Actress

Hepburn Penmanship of Unusual Kind.

BY MURIEL STAFFORD.

[Copyright 1937; By Muriel Stafford.]

Intense emotions combined with extreme imagination, originality, impatience and yet repression sounds like a rather unusual combination of qualities. It is. Such a combination doesn't spell happiness as a rule but it can produce a most impressive artistic temperament and, as illustrated in the handwriting of Miss Katharine Hepburn, a stirring actress.



Originality probably is the most outstanding characteristic of this unusual signature. Notice the capital K in the word "Katharine." It is a unique letter formation. Other letters show this creative and original trend. Nobody was ever taught to write as Miss Hepburn writes. Her small letter "a's" are made in a most peculiar fashion, almost as if she wrote them backwards to be sure they were firmly locked. Such an over-reserve goes strangely with all the intensity and creative talent shown in the rest of the writing.

It is easy to see from this signature why "Jane Eyre" is such an excellent vehicle for Miss Hepburn's talent. In this portrayal of a reserved governess with an undercurrent of passionate intensity, the qualities shown in this handwriting are the very ones to be stressed. Katharine Hepburn really finds herself in "Jane Eyre" and she plays the part with all the artistry indicated by her printed capitals and original letter formations.

Will power of the strongest and most tenacious type, a will that is dominating, independent and aggressive also is revealed in this sharp writing. Notice all the small angular hooks throughout. Even the capital H has hooks—five of them in one letter, though they are very tiny. Remember this definite rule of graphology: Hooks cling.

Also remember that illegibility is one of the indications of rapid-fire imagination, so don't criticize too much because Miss Hepburn's writing is almost impossible to decipher.

Young Roosevelt Seeks Doctor's O. K. on Athletics

Boca Grande, Fla., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., recuperating from a sinus infection and complications, sought his physician's advice on sports today. He wants to go fishing and he wants to play tennis with Donald Budge, the nation's top ranked tennis player. The President's son is staying at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene du Pont, parents of his fiancée, Miss Ethel du Pont. For the time being, young Roosevelt is taking things easy. He said he would take up athletics only "if the doctor agrees."

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Here's Tarzan reversed!

Instead of a jungle king getting his woman, a jungle queen gets her man.

The name is Ulah. Ulah is a fascinating creature with a lisp and a pet tiger. She was orphaned in infancy and has grown up among the "birds and the beezes and sweet scented breezes," and the beasts of the forests love and obey her.

The natives call her pet "the tiger that laughs." Every time they see it they hear a ringing laugh. Ulah, of course, is the laughter, but she keeps out of sight and they never glimpse her until the handsome young author, who's the hero of the yarn, introduces her to civilization.

As the picture opens you discover three men and a woman—fiancée of the man Ulah finally lands—in a jungle camp discussing a return to the city before the rains start . . .

Ava and her father, Col. Lane, leave. Frank and Christopher Powell decide to stay on . . . Christopher becomes lost in the brush, is mauled by Ulah's tiger, and cared for by the girl. . . . The rains set in and during their stay together in Ulah's cave home she and Christopher fall in love . . .

He tries to leave her—but it's no go. Ulah treks right along. Ava returns, tries to recapture Christopher. Natives make trouble and there would have been a sorry finale but for the resourcefulness of Ulah's pet ape, which summons hordes of her kind to the rescue. And so, and so . . .

An impossible story, but a most entertaining one.

Ray Milland is nice as Christopher. Other players satisfy. The animal sequences are splendid.

The film also boasts excellent direction and some interesting sets and scenery.

White House Scene of Christening of Roosevelt Grandson

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—A christening took place this afternoon in the library on the second floor of the White House. Little Elliott Roosevelt, third son of Elliott Roosevelt, son of the President, was christened by the Rev. Howard S. Wilkinson, the new rector of St. Thomas church, where President and Mrs. Roosevelt are members.

Only the members of the family witnessed the ceremony, the first such to take place in the executive mansion since the first child of Francis B. Sayre, assistant secretary of state, and the late Mrs. Jessie Wilson Sayre was christened there during the Woodrow Wilson régime.

'Call It a Day' Succession of Bedroom Sets

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 19.—There was an actress in bed on the Warner Brothers' "Call It a Day" set. But that wasn't odd.

Ever since the picture began some weeks ago one couldn't go on the set without finding an actress in bed.

The interviewer, who had written a recent piece about Frieda Inescort, watched the scene. He stood behind Director Archie Mayo and beamed at the woman in bed.

When the scene was finished she beamed back, got out of bed, slipped her bare feet into a pair of pink mules, and wrapped a dressing gown around her.

The interviewer held out his hand. "Thank you," he said.

The actress looked puzzled.

"You're the first person in five years who has written me a note of thanks for a story," said the interviewer.

"Am I?" asked the actress. "That's strange."

"Not strange," said the interviewer. "I think it's thoughtful and I appreciate it."

"But I didn't write a note," said the actress.

"But you did, Miss Inescort," said the interviewer.

"I'm not Miss Inescort," said the actress. "I'm Peggy Wood."

"Sorry," said the interviewer. "The bedroom scenes are getting me."

"Are there others?" Miss Wood wanted to know.

"Every time I come on this set some one is in bed," said the interviewer.

"Last week it was Miss Inescort in a pink nightgown. Ian Hunter was in the bed."

"I am wearing a pink nightgown, but Walter Woolf King is in the other bed," said Miss Wood.

"Two weeks ago Olivia De Havilland was in bed," said the interviewer. "She had on a blue nightshirt and was crying. The week before that Peter Willes was in bed. And it seems to me that before that Bonita Granville was in bed. You see why I'm confused."

"I'm often mistaken for Miss Inescort," said Miss Wood. "Her hair is dark and mine is blonde. She speaks with an English accent. Mine is distinctively American. Her husband is a writer named Ben Ray Redman and mine is a writer named John V. R. Weaver. But we both were in 'Trelawney of the Wells' and we botn played Portia with George Arliss in 'The Merchant of Venice.'"

"And you both wear pink nightgowns," said the interviewer.

"I have a blue one at home," said Miss Wood.

"Maybe you should have worn it," said the interviewer.

"Then you would have taken me for Miss De Havilland," said Miss Wood.

"If you had worn striped pajamas maybe he would have taken you for Mr. Hunter," said Director Mayo.

"You going to write a piece about me, too?" asked Miss Wood.

The interviewer nodded.

"I'll write you a note of thanks," said Miss Wood. "Then you can thank me for it."

Jeanette MacDonald stopped trafic in the middle of Vine street yesterday although she had not intended to. A bunch of autograph seekers pounced on her as she left Levy's tavern and jumped on the running board of her car when she started to drive off. For fear of hurting some one she slowed, and then more signature seekers ran out and surrounded her. She had to sit there in the car and write her name several dozen times.

Orien Howard, Kentucky beauty who has become a favorite model for magazine cover illustrators, has been signed by Producer B. P. Schulberg.

There's a married woman in Hollywood whose husband writes her from two to six love letters a day. The married lady is Pauline Moore, 22, blue eyed, brown haired, and beautiful. She recently left Broadway to sign a contract with Twentieth-Century-Fox. Her husband is John Machamer, widely known cartoonist and writer, whom she married two years ago.

"John just sits down at a typewriter and dashes off his letters," confided Miss Moore. "I write John a letter the first thing every morning and another just before I go to bed."

Dixie Dunbar is trying to recover from carrying a drum. Lugging a bass drum for weeks as a member of a girls' band in "One in a Million" exacted a toll of six of Dixie's 95 pounds and she is beginning to worry about her inability to regain them.

Hollywood has found it necessary to make a change in the sex of the diminutive hero of Rudyard Kipling's "Wee Willie Winkie." Shirley Temple will play the part, flanked by academy award winning actor Victor McLaglen on one side and academy award winning Director John Ford on the other. Wee Willie, the scenarists have arranged it, is the nickname given the little girl who takes things in hand at a British army post in India. That her name is "Willie" will be just a coincidence in the film.

Printed Silks for Afternoon

Dance Frocks in Gray Win Style Acclaim

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Dance in clouds of gray, the most romantic color of the hour! Dance dresses with swirling skirts, with countless yards of this utterly lovely and feminine smoke gray shade to float around you down south in the moonlight or under rose shaded lights in midwinter ballrooms. Net, organza, chiffon, lace, and telling combines of these materials fashion some of the most effective gowns of this flattering gray.

We found one model made of rather coarse gray net, with the skirt cut in a full circle, in two layers. The bodice top is of matching gray lace. Another dress is of pearl gray organza with a dance skirt so unbelievably full that we give up trying to count the yardage. The bodice cuts straight across a high prim neckline and hugs the ribs snugly down to a small waistline. Not a smidge of a sleeve, just the frail shadow edge of the organza over the shoulder finished like the rolled edge of the skirt hem.

There's another honey in smoke gray that reminds you instantly of the seductive full, simple gowns that Garbo wears in her films. Another full dance skirt, another simple shirred high neckline bodice top and with decidedly Garbo long sleeves, full and shirred into microscopic cuffs. Cuffs and neckline are tied with tiny shoestring loops of the net.

Lace [and the lure of that lovely fabric continues forever] will be featured in some startlingly inexpensive dance dresses now on the way, and lace fashions some of the most delightful of the current attractions in these lovely gray dance dresses. One has a full skirt of gray chiffon under a short peplum jacket effect top of cobweb thin gray lace. Longish sleeves and a narrow belt complete the costume. Watch gray and lace take every fashion spotlight from now until summer.

Fashion photograph . . . patterned against dull black silk crêpe and using a most flattering color contrast, this floral print called English garden is used for a flattering afternoon dress. It is made with new length sleeves and a softly cut neckline, with interesting details such as the unusual insets of fagoting in the shoulders and sleeves. Similar silk prints are to be found in the Chicago showings of early spring and midseason silks.

SYNOPSIS.

Diana Lake, just returned to London, hears from Adrian Somervell, struggling young scientist, that he has inherited the fortune of his stepmother, Rose Walsh, ex-star of the theater, who was Diana's godmother. Until shortly before her death Adrian and she had been estranged. Diana's parents are both of the theater. Diana's godfather, Nicholas Blundell, wealthy bachelor solicitor, lived in the flat below Adrian's stepmother and managed her affairs. Diana has always disliked him. Now that the lack of money no longer keeps them apart, Adrian and Diana plan to be married. Diana's mother is doubtful that Rose died a natural death, and Diana feels she is not too pleased about her engagement. Diana reads in the evening paper that her aunt's body is to be exhumed for an autopsy. She meets Adrian.

INSTALMENT IX.
A NEUROTIC SPINSTER.

Another thought struck Diana. "Adrian, you are sure it wasn't you who first suggested calling on Aunt Rose?"

"Of course, I'm sure. I didn't want to see her."

Believing him, she felt comforted. How often, she asked, had he seen Rose Somervell, and were they at any time alone together? Adrian leant his head on his hand and rumpled his hair.

"Let's see," he said slowly. "There was the first time, with Blundell. Then, maybe a week later, he and I were invited to tea, and he was called away, so I stayed on alone. Next—O, yes!—she'd a box to some theater, asked Blundell and me to come along. I remember I had to borrow a clean evening shirt from Ladbroke—that's our house surgeon—because I've got down to one decent one. Soon after this the three of us spent a week-end at Blundell's cottage. She drank a fair amount of brandy, and got quite expansive. That sums it up, I think, except—O, yes—I had tea again at the flat, by myself, and, of course, there was the Sunday lunch."

"Did you drop in for tea?"

"She wrote me a note, asking me to come, and not being able to work that afternoon—they were doing a repair job in the research room—I went along. That was the time I noticed how hopeless her memory was getting. I could have sworn she'd forgotten I was coming, though she covered it up pretty well."

"But did you answer her note?"

"No. She said she'd expect me unless I rang up to the contrary, so I left it at that. Still, I rather imagined her extreme cordiality on that occasion came from believing I'd come off my own bat. It's an odd thing," he remarked dispassionately, "how even at that age personal vanity is still the main drive. As Adler puts it."

"She usedn't to be so woolly minded," Diana pinned him down. "Mummy spoke of it, too. How, on the whole, did she strike you?"

"Physically, remarkably fit," he replied, weighing the question. "Mentally slack, very slow on the uptake. She'd stare at you, ask you to repeat a thing, and then like as not come back with something totally irrelevant. She'd a bad trick of talking in circles, if you get me. And that wasn't all. Once she started pouring tea into a full cup. Made the hell of a mess, and never noticed it. O, quite a few things of that sort!"

"Did you think of drugs?"

"Drugs?" Again he considered. "Well, a person dependent on morphia does tend to be absent and vague when a dose is overdue. I've seen them get drowsy. She did that. She'd yawn a lot, and at the theater that evening she dozed right off. Still, she didn't fidget or grow irritable, and she hadn't the look of a morphia addict, none of the sparkle that follows an injection. On the contrary, I found her always rather dull; but to tell the truth, I didn't study her very closely. I wasn't interested."

"What did you and she talk about?" asked Diana, curiously. "Your work, your plans?"

"Hardly mentioned them—which you may think surprising, in view of that will. And yet, after the first time or two she always kissed me most affectionately. I supposed she did that to almost anybody; but Blundell assured me I'd scored a hit."

"It's quite evident you did," agreed Diana briskly. "Now about that Sunday meal. It's probably unnecessary to go into it, but what did you have to eat? Were you at all upset?"

His searching glance told her he had caught her meaning.

"Not me," he answered curtly. "It was better food than I'd been having, and I enjoyed it. What was it, now?" He made an effort to recall. "We started with alligator pear—first I've seen in England—and then there was roast beef, Yorkshire pudding and so on. After that, some kind of tart with cream, and toasted cheese wafers for a finish. Coffee and port—good stuff. I remember all four of us did full justice to it."

"Four!" Diana grew alert. "Why, who else was there?"

"Didn't I say? Some old theatrical manager. Bald, thin, fiery beak of a nose. Great pal of hers."

"Felix Arenson," murmured Diana promptly. She pondered the information and shook a doubtful head. "Did he leave when you did?"

"Practically, because while I waited for Blundell outside his door I saw this what's his name bird going out."

"I see," Diana paused. "And Elsie Dilworth? When was she there?"

Adrian started, winced, and backed into his shell.

"Who told you she was there at all? I'd almost forgotten it."

Diana explained. He listened with a set expression, nodded, and reconsidered her question.

"We were at the table. She wanted to consult Blundell about some shorthand notes. I'd say she hung about a good five minutes. I noticed Mrs. Somervell turned decidedly snappish. You see, Blundell was carving, and had to leave off."

A poisoned dart of suspicions stabbed Diana's mind. After all, why not? Adrian was human, lonely. This woman had thrown herself at him. . . .

"Adrian," she said gently, "You weren't engaged to me then. If you've been making love to Elsie Dilworth, don't be afraid to tell me."

He glared at her.

"Me make love to that neurotic female? Not a chance! Here, if you're taking that tack, I'd better cough up the whole story—such as it is."

He hesitated, then with a cold and dogged reluctance set forth details every word of which, to Diana's thinking, rang true. Elsie Dilworth, well over thirty, plain, and fairly intelligent, had sat next him at table in Bloomsbury street, and had been exceedingly pleasant. From displaying a keen interest in neurology and brain surgery she had taken to inviting him up to her comfortable bed sitting room in the evenings to partake of cocoa and biscuits. She was company, Diana was away, and fast dwindling finances permitted him few outside diversions. Now and then, by way of return, he had taken Miss Dilworth to a cinema—and there, for him, the thing ended.

Not so with Elsie, who after a bit began making heavy claims on his sympathy. She would pour out the woes of her starved existence, lamenting the fact that life was passing her by and giving her none of the things she craved.

"Women of all ages talk like that to a doctor," said Adrian bitterly. "They seem to look on us as their legitimate prey and turn themselves inside out. I blame myself for not putting a stop to this at the start, but I was in the thick of it before I saw where it was leading. When I did try to sidestep it only made matters worse. At last I had to tell her quite baldly just how impossible it was for me to think of marrying. It seemed more tactful to put it like that," he explained apologetically.

"So you gave her lack of money as an excuse!" Diana had a pitying smile. "Poor darling! Did it work?"

"Like hell it did!" he exploded. "Wait till you hear."

Simply to avoid her, he had taken to staying out at night, but whatever time he returned there was Elsie, waiting up in the vain hope of consolation. Never had she been attractive—and since she had begun making herself up and losing every vestige of good sense and reticence the very sight of her was loathsome. Finally she cornered him and adroitly managed to put him in the wrong. Why couldn't they still be friends? It was all she asked. It was a fine, warm Sunday. Wouldn't he show she was forgiven by taking her into the country?

"Well—I did. God, what a day! She commenced by being coy, and finished by—no, it makes me sweat to think about it!"

GASOLINE ALLEY—THE FLING

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: Breaking the Ice

Care Required to Mix Cake Electrically

BY MARY MEADE.

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Many a woman who found an electric mixer under the Christmas evergreen has had difficulty with her machine beaten cakes even while she has rejoiced in her speedily whipped potatoes. Cake batters are easily overbeaten with an electric mixer.

When once the proper technique with the electrical device has been acquired cakes are uniformly evenly textured and tender, and the mixer becomes an indispensable part of the kitchen equipment.

Along with most electric mixers go leaflets giving detailed instructions for their use, but in case these are missing from your set, use of the following cake mixing outline should assure success.

In the first place all ingredients should be at hand and warmed to room temperature before the mixing is begun. When egg whites are to be added separately to the cake batter the new technique is to add a tablespoon of the amount of sugar in the recipe for each egg white while beating. This seems to make the egg white stand up better and mix with the rest of the batter more successfully.

ELECTRICALLY MIXED BUTTER CAKE.

1. Using the high speed, cream the shortening for two minutes, then add sugar gradually, using same speed. Use a rubber scraper to scrape the mixture from the sides of the bowl. Beat for one minute more at high speed.
2. Add the eggs, one at a time, and continue high speed beating, one minute for each egg. Scrape the bowl.
3. On low speed, add the flour and milk alternately. Beat for two minutes and scrape sides of bowl down. Continue beating on low speed for one minute before pouring batter.

WHITE CAKE.

1. Beat egg whites at high speed for one minute, adding gradually one tablespoon of sugar for each white, and deducting this amount of sugar from the amount called for in the recipe. Remove beaten whites to another bowl.
2. Cream butter on medium speed for four minutes. Add sugar gradually [minus amount used for whites] and continue beating at medium speed for three minutes.
3. Beat for two minutes at high speed. Change to low speed and add sifted flour alternately with milk.
4. Remove from bowl. Fold in the beaten egg whites by hand.

SPONGE CAKE.

1. Beat egg whites at high speed for three minutes, add sugar, and beat at low speed for two more minutes. Scrape the bowl with rubber scraper. Beat at low speed one minute more and remove whites from the bowl.
2. Beat yolks at high speed for five minutes and fold whites and yolks together with a spoon.
3. Fold in flour and salt sifted together three or four times, with a wooden spoon, and add flavoring.

FOR YEARS

"We have used REM for coughs off and on for years. And it always did the work."

Vinita ... C. Riley
19462 Bauman Ave., Detroit, Mich.

Here's Why:

How often delighted users, like Mrs. Riley, have emphasized the fact that REM has "always" relieved their coughs! REM's great record is no mere accident. There are definite reasons why REM is better:

(1) REM is a real cough medicine, not just a "tickle stopper".

(2) REM clings -- and clings -- and clings to the throat, soothes the irritation, quiets the cough.

(3) REM works two ways . . . not only in the throat, but also systemically. That's what makes it so very much more effective.

Force Negative Way of Winning Over Children

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Sometimes it is necessary for him to do something he doesn't want to do—doesn't want to do, at all—in fact, hates the idea of doing. At last: "Do I have to do it?" he says.

And his mother has never been able to say: "Yes, you have to do it." She can say: "I would like it very much if you would," or, "I certainly think you should." But not, "You have to do it."

Somehow she can't, she says. The words won't come. To her that would represent the use of force, an outside power compelling him against his will; while her idea is that what he does should be done of his own volition. More often than not the desire to do what she asks exists in him. But if it doesn't, she thinks the desire should be created somehow, instead of the action being forced.

Often this can be done by explaining. Sometimes she will resort to the simple human appeal: "You don't have to, but it would please me if you would." Then the doing of it comes from within, because the desire is there to please her.

Don't misunderstand. She is not a weak or vacillating woman. Her child is not at sea, doubtful of the course of his life. His mother expresses herself definitly and really has achieved a high degree and kind of obedience. But she doesn't believe in force. To her it implies opposition, and she wants to work with her boy, not against him.

I once said to a friend of mine: "I'm going, but I don't want to one bit." To which she replied: "Yes, you do. We do the thing we want to do, really." And then she went on to analyze it. "You may not want to do this thing more than anything else in the world, but you want to do it more than the other thing which it would be possible for you to do in its place. You say you would rather stay at home tonight and read a book. But if you did that you would disappoint your cousin who has had the tickets for this play for two weeks. And deep down you would rather go with her than stay at home with a guilty conscience. So you are really doing what you want to do."

So it is with the children. You can put things to them in such a way that they really will want to do what you ask more than any other thing.

The leaflet, "Books of Interest to Parents," contains important reading references. This list will be sent on receipt of a large, 3-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN

Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.

Offers Full Dress Suit.

Mrs. S. P. has a full dress suit size 32 or 34 which she would like to give some needy young man able to make use of such apparel. If interested, write to her in care of this department. All letters will be forwarded to the donor for selection.

Yale Polo Team Will Play Here on February 6

Tom Sawyer, and Mrs. Shaw will give her humorous portrayal of Aunt Polly. Mrs. Robert Hoffman Jr. has moved out to Barrington, so Miss Virginia Hobart will have the rôle of Huck Finn. Miss Jane Cummings will take the part originally filled by Miss Hobart.

Since Mrs. Ballard Moore will be away at the time of the performances, Mrs. Raymond Owen will substitute in the comic rôle of the minister, and Mrs. Donald La Chance will play the minister's wife for Mrs. Richard Lamport, who is in the throes of moving from the south side to the north. Mrs. Charles Schreiner will fill the rôle of Judge Thatcher originally taken by Mrs. Robert McKenna.

William O. Hunts Parents of Son.

Mr. and Mrs. William O. Hunt are receiving congratulations on the birth of their first child, a son, yesterday at the Passavant hospital. Mrs. Hunt is the former Jeanette Peterkin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Peterkin.

Charles Fabens Kelley will speak on "Japanese Architecture" at 10:30 o'clock this morning at the Art institute. This is the ninth of a series of lectures on Oriental art to be sponsored by the institute.

"The New World and the Old" will be discussed by Dr. Hugo F. Simon this morning at 11 o'clock as the last of four lectures on foreign problems. Mrs. Raymond Redheffer of 191 East Walton place will give the use of her apartment for the talk.

Miss Margot Reid and Miss Annie May Henry will be hostesses at a meeting and tea of the Cercle des Jeunes of the Alliance Française at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon. Prof. Marius Jean will be the speaker.

Mrs. Ernest S. Ballard is opening her home in Winnetka this afternoon for a meeting of the Winnetka Garden club. At 2:30 o'clock Mrs. Ezra Sherman Taylor, a member of the club, will describe gardens in Mexico and will show slides made on a trip to Mexico last year. After the program tea will be served.

Mental Hygiene Society Sponsors Dance Recital.

Miss Eloise ReQua, Mr. and Mrs. Laird Bell, the Donald R. McLennans, the Ronald P. Boardmans, the junior John P. Wilsons, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest A. Hamill II., the Albert Day Farwells, Mrs. William S. Monroe, Durand Smith, Miss Valeria Harris and Miss Babs Burton will be among those in the audience when Grace and Kurt Graff give a dance recital this evening at the Goodman theater.

The Illinois Society for Mental Hygiene is sponsoring the program to raise funds for its work for the conservation of mental health. Mrs. Monroe heads the benefit committee.

The talk that Miss Ellen Wilkinson, the only feminine Labor member of the British parliament, will make Friday night at the Palmer house before the Illinois League of Women Voters will attract a large crowd. Mrs. Mitchell D. Follansbee and Mrs. Walter T. Fisher are giving dinner parties, later taking their guests to hear Miss Wilkinson at 8:15 o'clock.

Mrs. William Gold Hibbard, Mrs. Frank Hixon and Mrs. Paul Douglas will give a dinner for the speaker at the Palmer house. Miss Winkinson's subject is to be "Mobilization, for War or Peace?"

The Chicago Council on Foreign Relations announces a luncheon address at 12:30 o'clock Saturday by George Slocombe on "British Policy at Home and Abroad." Mr. Slocombe is the foreign editor of the London Evening Standard.

The Exmoor Country club has sent out announcements bearing the warning, "weather permitting," for an ice carnival at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The club's best juvenile figure skater, Nancy Meyer, will compete with several figure skating stars from out of town.

In addition to the fancy skating there will be races for boys and girls and a hocky game. The afternoon will end with a buffet supper from 6 until 8 o'clock.

Today's Features

THE INAUGURATION.

Ceremonies in connection with the inauguration of President Roosevelt for his second term will be broadcast over W-G-N-Mutual starting at 10:15 a. m. today and continuing until 1 p. m. The inauguration itself is set for approximately 11 a. m. Gabriel Heatter, ace commentator, will head Mutual's staf. Among his assistants will be Dave Driscoll and Jerry Danzig.

WMAQ, WLS, and WCFL will carry the NBC report of the inaugural starting at 10:30 a. m. and continuing until 2 p. m. WBBM will carry the CBS version and WIND will also make a pickup.

Other pre- and post-inaugural broadcasts:

7:30 a. m.—WMAQ and WCFL—Inauguration morning in Washington—description of scenes and preview of later ceremonies.

8:30 a. m.—WCFL—Inaugurations: Washington to Roosevelt; dramatizations by New York University Workshop.

3:45 p. m.—WENR—Lady Margaret Rhondda on the inauguration.

8 p. m.—WLS [on WENR at 8:30]—The Inaugural Concert-National Symphony orchestra under the direction of Hans Kindler, with Richard Bonelli, baritone; Richard Crooks, tenor; Susanne Fisher, soprano, and Kathryn Meisle, contralto.

8:15 p. m.—Mutual network—A rebroadcast of President Roosevelt's inaugural address by means of an electrical transcription. [No local outlet for this feature—try WOR, 710 kilos, if you missed it in the daytime.]

Radio to Give Detail Story of Inaugural

First Broadcast Set for Early Morning.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Elaborate is a conservative word for the plans the networks have made to cover the inauguration today. There will be more announcers, commentators, and engineers on the loose in Washington than there are Democratic congressmen. NBC alone has arranged 45 points of pickup including planes overhead, the Washington monument, and a Pennsylvania avenue manhole. There'll be pack sets, mobile transmitters, and tophat microwave transmitters in action from 7:30 this morning until far into the night. [Details in adjoining columns.]

The inaugural ceremonies starting at 10:30 a. m. and including the President's address are to be rebroadcast by short wave for foreign consumption. Description and comment will be made in five languages—English, French, German, Italian and Spanish. No explanation was forthcoming yesterday as to the omission of the Scandinavian.

If the pope's illness permits, his benediction to the Eucharistic congress in Manila on Feb. 7 will be broadcast to the congress and throughout the world. Several other features of the Eucharistic meeting also are to be put on the air.

Banqueting with the nation's aviation leaders in a transport plane flying over New York City next Tuesday, Andre Kostelanetz will be feted as America's No. 1 air passenger. Kostelanetz in 1936 flew 126,000 miles—675 hours and more than 18 days in the air. Bulk of this mileage was piled up in 13 week-end round trips between New York and Hollywood where he directed the music for Lily Pons. Kostelanetz will receive a loving cup for his accomplishments. Ceremonies will be broadcast from the sky at 1 p. m. over CBS.

Eddie Cantor and Parkyakarkus are parting company on Sunday, Jan. 31. Parkyakarkas [better known in Boston as Harry Einstein], will end a three year association with the banjo eyed comedian to star in a new airshow of his own and to continue his movie work.

Busse's Trumpet, the nag Mrs. Emil Denemark recently named for Henry Busse, the trumpet playing band leader, romped home first the other day at Hialeah, paying 14 to 1. Busse had $50 on the nose.

Col. Stoopnagle and Budd are planning to add a girl to their comedy act after all these years. Seems Stoop's voice is changing and he can't do those falsetto parts so well anymore. Joan Banks joined them Sunday, but that was only a tryout.

Allan A. Ryan Jr. Weds Fashion Editor in N. Y.

New York, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Allan A. Ryan Jr., 33, grandson of the late Thomas Fortune Ryan, and Eleanor Barry, 30, fashion editor of Harper's Bazaar, were married today by Justice Philip J. McCook in his chambers in the Superior court building. Judge McCook, friend of the bride's father, declared a recess in the restaurant racket trial to officiate. About 25 guests attended the ceremony in his chambers. Ryan's previous marriage to Janet Newbold ended in divorce in Florida last June.

WOMAN'S AND MISS' HOUSE FROCKS.

No longer may it be said that house dresses are drab and uninteresting. The model illustrated today is proof positive that such is NOT the case. All the chic of a street frock is incorporated in this pretty model for domestic hours. The clever little collar is high, wide, and handsome. The sleeves are daintily puffed and have neat fitted cuffs. The bodice is on the Basque order, and the waistline follows this styling, too. The skirt is fitted through the hipline, but has definite swing below the knees.

The model illustrated at the right is sketched from the original, which is pretty is black and white checked gingham. Any color scheme is attractive. A modern idea is to have the color of your home ensembles match the decorations of the kitchen. This carries the ensemble idea to the nth degree of charm.

The model may have long sleeves, as shown in the sketch at the left. You can see, too, the possibilities for darker shades in either monotones or prints.

Style No. 3365 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, and 42 bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3⅞ yards of 39 inch material, with 9¾ yards of braid.

Weak, Rundown, Nervous Ailing Folks!

How Thousands Have Used New Sea Plant—Rich in Natural Iodine—to Get Back Glorious New Strength, Energy and Endurance!

Here's new hope and encouragement for thousands of tired, weak, worn out, haggard-looking men and women whose energy and strength have been sapped by overwork and worry, who are nervous, irritable, always half-sick and ailing. Science has at last placed its finger on what is frequently one of the principal causes of this dangerous rundown condition — IODINE STARVED GLANDS. When these glands don't work properly, all the food in the world can't help you. You just do not get nourishment from what you eat.

The most important gland—the one which actually controls strength and body-building—needs a definite ration of iodine all the time — NATURAL ASSIMILABLE IODINE—not to be confused with chemical iodides which often prove toxic. Only when the system gets an adequate supply of iodine can you regulate metabolism—the body's process of converting digested food into firm flesh, new strength and energy.

To get this vital mineral in convenient, concentrated and assimilable form, take Kelpamalt—now recognized as one of the world's richest sources of this precious substance, yielding iodine in greater abundance than oysters, spinach or lettuce.

Without Cost—Make This Iodine Test

First see how long you can work or how far you can walk without tiring. Then take 3 Seedol Kelpamalt Tablets with each meal for one week and notice how much longer you can work without tiring, how much farther you can walk. Notice how much better you feel, sleep and eat. Watch for increased energy, vigor and endurance. See how your skin clears up, ordinary stomach distress is relieved, how scrawny hollows fill out. If you do not gain in endurance, strength and energy the first week, the trial is free. Your own doctor will approve this way. Seedol Kelpamalt costs but little to use. Try it today. Sold at all good drug stores.

SEEDOL Kelpamalt Tablets

● Manufacturer's Note:—Inferior products sold as kelp and malt preparations—in imitation of the genuine Kelpamalt—are being offered as substitutes. Don't be fooled. Demand genuine Seedol Kelpamalt Tablets. They are easily assimilated, do not upset stomach nor injure teeth. Results guaranteed or money back.

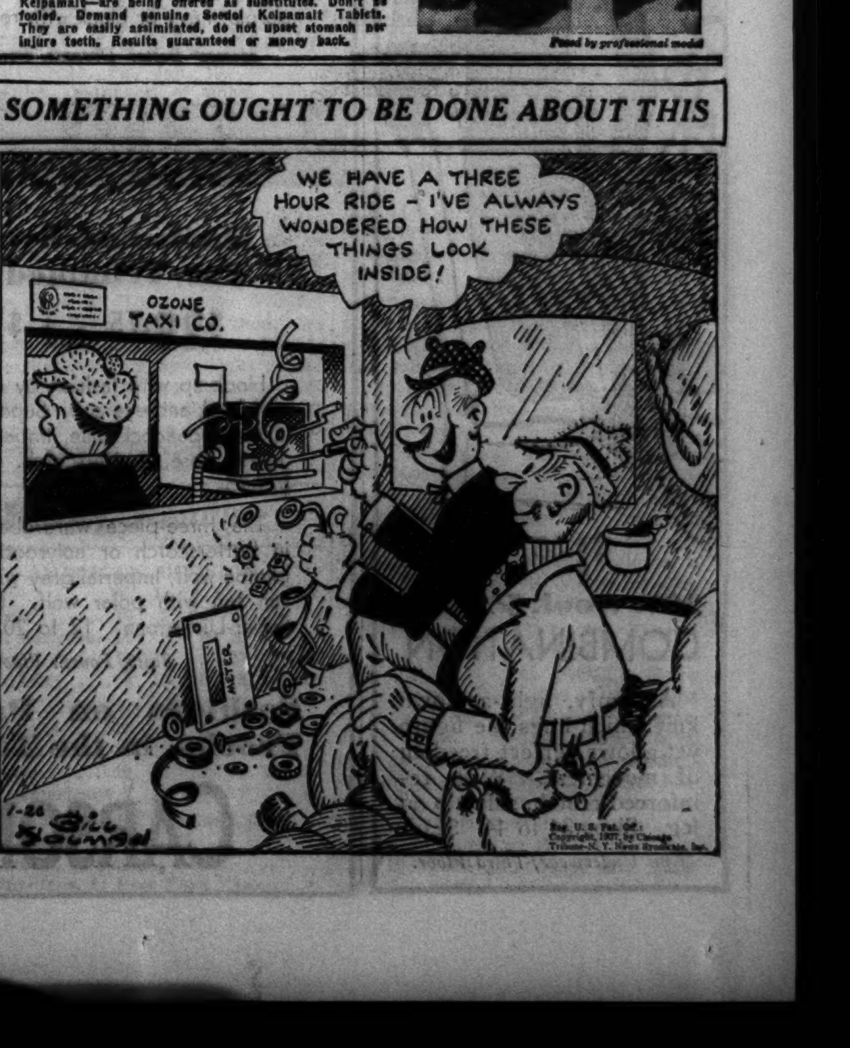
SOMETHING OUGHT TO BE DONE ABOUT THIS



RUSSIA TO TRY 17 MEN FOR PLOT TO OVERTHROW RULE

Karl Radek Among Those Accused of Treason.

MOSCOW, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Seventeen Russians, including the writer, Karl Radek, were ordered to trial today on charges of conspiring to aid foreign occupation of the soviet nation and to restore capitalism. Treason and conspiracy are the specific charges.

The trial will begin next Saturday before the military collegium of the supreme court, and will be the second resulting from recent investigation of alleged counter-revolutionary activities.

Sixteen Russians tried last summer, including Gregory Zinoviev and Leon Kamenev, who once were high in soviet councils, were executed on charges of plotting to kill Dictator Josef Stalin and other leaders in the soviet administration.

Ex-Leaders to Stand Trial.

In addition to Radek, until recently considered an authoritative reflector of government views in his newspaper editorials, the defendants include Gregory Pyatakov, former assistant commissar for heavy industry; Gregory Sokolnikov, former ambassador to London, and M. Seredyakov, former vice minister of communications.

The indictment asserted investigation had established "that the criminals who are to be tried, directed their activities to break the military power of the soviet union, speed up military attacks against the union of Socialist soviet republics, helped foreign aggressors toward occupation of the territory and division of the soviet union for overthrowing the soviet government, restoration of capitalism and domination of bourgeoise in the soviet union."

Trotzky Again Accused.

The prosecutor called the case a "parallel" to the Zinoviev allegations. Most of those to be tried were involved by testimony during the Zinoviev-Kamenev trial.

In both cases the exiled Leon Trotzky was alleged to be the chief conspirator.

"Under direct instructions from Trotzky," a communique charged tonight, the defendants organized as "terroristic groups" and carried out "espionage for the benefit of some foreign states."

Announcement of the trial followed shortly after a surprise announcement of the removal from office of Nikolai Bucharin, editor of the soviet newspaper, Izvestia. He previously had been cleared by the government prosecutor of any connection with the alleged conspiracy. His removal, however, was believed linked with the forthcoming trial.

Russia 'Amazing,' Davies, U. S. Envoy, Tells Moscow

MOSCOW, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Joseph E. Davies, the United States' new ambassador, came to his Moscow post today to be greeted by virtually the whole American colony and just two inches of Russian snow.

He arrived with his wife, the former Marjorie Post Hutton, and his daughter, Miss Emlen K. Davies, aboard a special railway car.

Ahead of the Davieses at refurnished Spasso house, official residence of the Ambassador, were the first air conditioning units in soviet Russia. Special couriers will meet liners from America at Hamburg each month to escort special shipments of food.

Ten in Envoy's Party.

The new ambassador, heading a party of ten, was greeted at the chilly railroad station by Vladimir N. Barkoff, chief of protocol in the soviet foreign office, and most of Moscow's fifty American residents.

The ambassador in a formal tatement, said: "We are most glad to be here and are looking forward to our stay with the keenest interest."

Asked about official matters, Davies responded, "my first job is to become acquainted with conditions and, anyway, it is better to let the future speak for itself."

The envoy was disappointed at the moderate weather which, with the temperature in the twenties, belied its reputation for severity.

Servants Sent Ahead.

The Davies party brought about 50 pieces of hand luggage and 30 trunks. The envoy's group was preceded to the capital by another party of almost equal size, including maids, chauffeurs, other house servants, a personal physician, Commander N. W. Bunkley of the United States navy, and others.

Davies declared he intended to entertain extensively but not on the lavish plan previous reports had intimated. He said he would welcome the embassy staf tonight as his first guests.

Mrs. Davies' first act in the soviet union was to present a half dozen bouquets of flowers to the female staf at the Negoreloye border custom house.

The party was met at the frontier by Loy W. Henderson, charge d'affaires in the Moscow embassy.

REPORTS DORMITORY THEFT.

Robert S. Morris II. of Cincinnati, a student at the University of Chicago, told police yesterday that a set of shirt studs valued at $300 was stolen Monday from his room in the Judson court dormitory.

WISCONSIN BILL SETS UP LABOR RELATIONS BODY

State Police Radio Also Demanded.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—Bills proposing the creation of a state labor relations board and the establishment of a state radio intelligence department were presented to the Wisconsin legislature today.

The labor disputes bill, indorsed by Gov. Philip F. La Follette, was prepared by officials of the state federation of labor with the assistance of Dean Lloyd K. Garrison of the University of Wisconsin law school, former chairman of the national labor relations board.

Although a similar bill was defeated in the 1935 legislature, hope that this measure would succeed was based to some extent on its authorization of legal procedure which the governor found lacking when asked to intervene in the prolonged J. I. Case company trouble at Racine.

Big Weapon for Labor.

Modeled after the Wagner law, the bill would place in the hands of organized labor a powerful weapon in its constant fight for a bigger stake in industry, and would strike a staggering blow at organized labor's enemy—the company union.

Of vital importance in this connection is a provision in the bill empowering the majority of workers in any unit to become the exclusive bargaining representative for the entire unit.

As an administering and enforcement agency, the bill proposes to set up a labor relations board of three members, each to serve four year terms at an annual salary of $5,000.

The board members, whose appointment by the governor would be subject to senate confirmation, would have broad powers of investigation, subpena, and arbitration. Final judgment on appeal of board decisions would be left to the courts.

Employers refusing to negotiate with employé bargaining agents would be subject to citation for unfair labor practices and investigation of such charges by the board.

The other important bill recommended for passage today calls for a state radio police setup for the purpose of aiding established enforcement agencies in the apprehension of criminals and in the promotion of highway safety.

Sets Up Eight Stations.

Not less than eight short wave radio broadcasting stations, located so as to provide state-wide coverage, would be established under the bill. The governor would be empowered to appoint a director of the state radio intelligence department, subject to senate confirmation, at an annual salary of $5,000.

As to financing the new project, the bill proposes to take $250,000 from the state general fund for the purchase and installation of necessary equipment and the payment of salaries for the first year, and $100,000 annually thereafter.

PARK DISTRICT DEBT REDUCED $6,246,619 IN LAST 3 MONTHS

The total debt of the Chicago park district was reduced by $6,246,619 during the last three months of 1936, according to the quarterly debt statement issued yesterday by Robert J. Dunham, president.

Net bonded debt liability of the district as of Dec. 28, 1936, was shown as $105,716,527 compared with $107,449,935 on Sept. 30, while floating debt dropped to $1,541,404 from $2,979,394 and tax anticipation warrants outstanding to $6,274,055 from $9,349,276.

Dunham announced that the district on Jan. 28 will open sealed tenders for resale to the district of $3,880,000 series A, B, C and D refunding bonds. The district has that amount available for retirement of bonds. If no offers for sale below par are received, Dunham said, the district will call that amount of series B bonds for redemption on March 1.

GERMAN ACTOR FINED IN VIENNA FOR MASQUERADE

VIENNA, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Leo Reuss, the actor, received an offer from Hollywood, he said today—but he probably won't be able to use it.

Because he masqueraded as a peasant under another name, he was sentenced today to pay a fine of 100 schillings [$18.73] and was put on probation for two years. The charge was using an incorrect name on his passport.

Reuss won a leading rôle in a play last December and was acclaimed as the peasant actor, Kasper Brandhofer. The first week of the play a Berlin visitor identified him as Reuss, successful on the stage in Germany for many years.

FALL ON JAN. 3 IS FATAL.

Mrs. Lottie Recek, 78 years old, 3118 North Bernard street, died at home yesterday of injuries incurred in a fall Jan. 3.

RED WINGS DEAL HAWKS 15TH DEFEAT, 7-2

FAME COMES TO SPEAKER, LAJOIE AND CY YOUNG

Elected to Baseball Honor Roll.

New York, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Napoleon Lajoie, Tris Speaker, and Cy Young, three heroes of the past, today were voted positions in baseball's hall of fame at Cooperstown, N. Y.

The trio, winners of a poll taken among the membership of the Baseball Writers Association of America, will join Ty Cobb, Babe Ruth, Honus Wagner, Christy Mathewson, and Walter Johnson, who were elected in the first poll last year.

Bronze plaques of the original immortals have been hung in the museum at Cooperstown, birthplace of baseball. Those of Lajoie, Speaker, and Young will be ordered immediately.

Lajoie, who batted .300 for 15 years in the major leagues when such an average was a mark seldom reached, led the voting in the second poll. The fleet Frenchman, who played with the old Philadelphia Phillies, Athletics, and Cleveland, received 168 out of a possible 201 votes. Speaker, who also reached his greatest stardom in Cleveland, ranked second with 165 votes. Young, one of the outstanding of iron man pitchers, had 153.

Alexander, Collins Miss.

Seventy-five per cent of the total, or 151 votes, was necessary for election. Grover Cleveland Alexander, former Chicago Cub and St. Louis Cardinal pitching star who is ill in Springfield, Ill., was 26 votes shy of election with 125. Fourth went to Eddie Collins, general manager of the Boston Red Sox and old Chicago White Sox star, and Wee Willie Keeler, who polled 115 votes each.

Alexander, Collins and Keeler still have a good chance of election, however, as a poll is to be taken each year with a 75 per cent majority necessary to membership in the hall of fame.

Lajoie, who ended his major league career in 1917, is living at Daytona Beach, Fla., according to last reports. He had a lifetime batting average of .338 and a fielding average at second base of .966. He is 60 years old.

Speaker, product of the Texas cow country, has been rated as one, if not the greatest, center fielders of all time. His best years were in 1916, 1920, and 1925 when he batted .386, .388, and .389, respectively, for Cleveland. As manager he led Cleveland in its only world's championship in 1920. Speaker now lives in Cleveland, where he is engaged in the wholesale liquor business and is chairman of the Cleveland boxing commission. He is the youngest of the immortals, being only 47.

Young Holds Records.

Young, now on a farm near Peoli, O., pitched more years, more games, and more victories in the course of his career than any other man in baseball. He pitched 22 years and 874 games and won 511 with the Cleveland Nationals, St. Louis Nationals, Boston Red Sox, Cleveland Indians, and Boston Nationals. He pitched three no-hit games and once turned in a string of 23 consecutive no-hit innings—an all time record. For fourteen successive seasons, Young won 20 games or more. In 1892, he won 36; in 1893 he won 34, in 1894, 25, and in 1895, 35 games. Young is 68 years old.

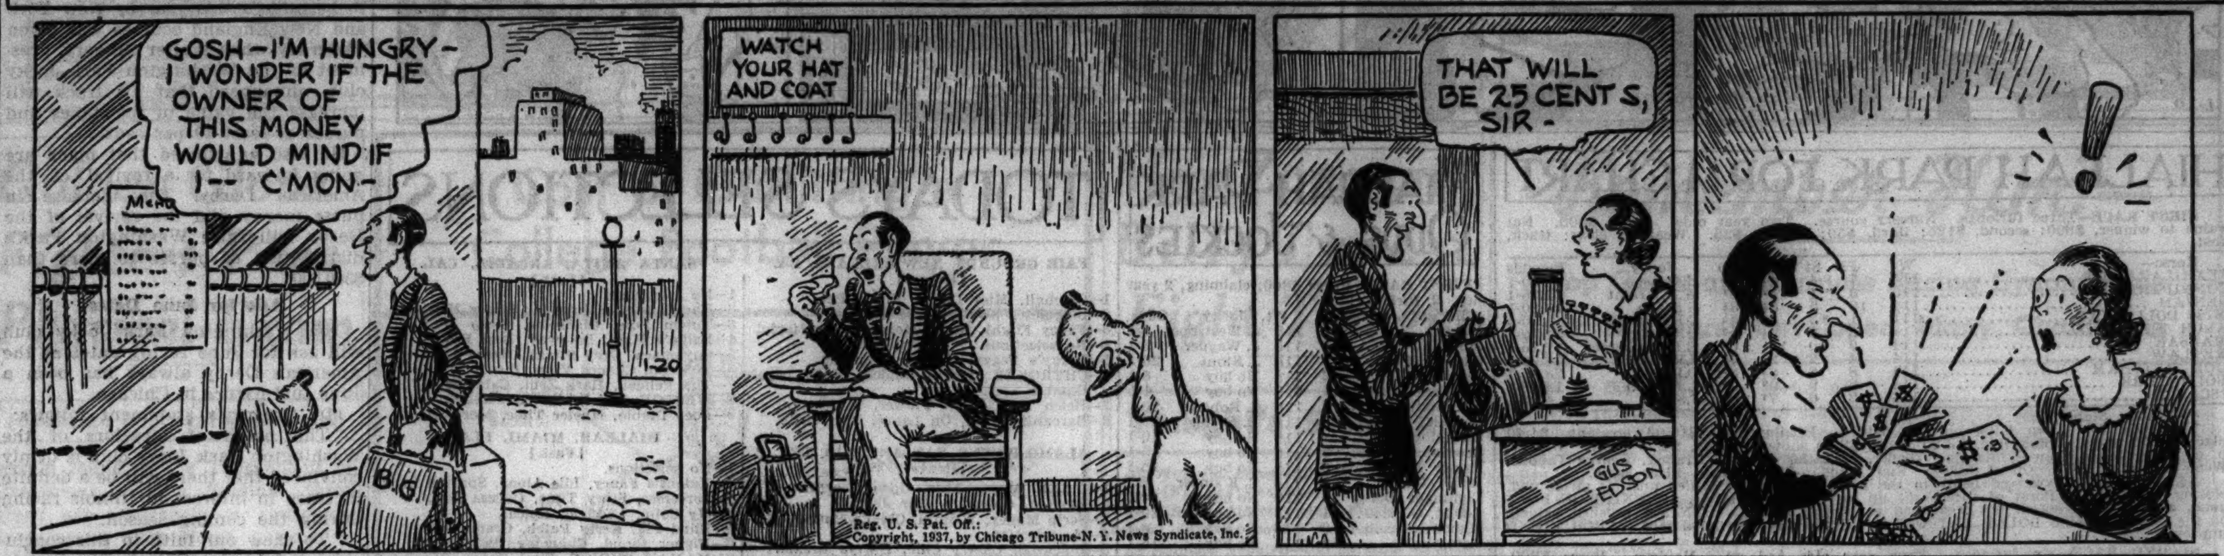
THE GUMPS—THE DOUGHBOY



In the WAKE of the NEWS

WAKE MAIL BOX.

DEAR WAKE: It seems that because a few ambitious crackpot political opportunists have seen fit to make an issue of Schmeling's alleged political beliefs, people like —— have jumped on the band wagon and shouted their "patriotism" and other laudable virtues to the four corners of the United States. If these "gentlemen" can spare a second of their valuable time, some one should remind them of the mere matter of sportsmanship which they seem to have forgotten.

When they speak of money being taken from the country by Schmeling, it is relatively microscopic to the amount spent by American tourists in Europe.

John M. Davis.

I voice vehement protest against promoters of the recent pro tennis show at the Stadium! Why are promoters so greedy to get a few more doubtful dollars out of the sports public? The exhibition put on by Vines was very pitiful indeed, due to his illness, which was very evident.

Undoubtedly the promoters went to large preliminary expense in billing the show, which they would have lost had the show been postponed. I think, however, a postponement would have increased future gates instead of leaving such a bad taste. Moreover, the promoters risked Vines' health and his future appearances by having him play in his weakened condition.

Resistance.

It's such mild weather!
Why, it's really more like spring!
The only reason to go south
Is because it is the THING!
Now swimming in the ocean
I suppose is very nice,
But then I feel quite certain
It isn't worth the price.

I know a lot of people
Who JUST MUST get away,
They simply can't endure it,
But it's 48 today!
Well, let the fools be foolish,
I guess it's nice down there,
And perhaps I will inquire—
If perhaps I have the fare!

Why Name Was Omitted.

Helper D. C. writes to inquire "How come your name was omitted from the recently published list of those receiving salaries between $15,000 and $50,000, or do you draw over $50,000?"

To be perfectly honest and frank about the matter, Dear D. C., our name was omitted because Friend Arch does not pay us that much YET for our conscientious efforts—but confidentially we still have hopes. Moreover, he's pretty understanding about expense accounts.

IT'S MUSH, MUSH IF YOU WANT TO FIGHT IN OMAHA

Golden Glovers Dig Their Way Through Snow.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Just as if they didn't have enough to worry about, the 600 boys seeking Golden Gloves in the Omaha World-Herald's tournament have to shovel their way to preliminary meets.

This would happen at Omaha, where the tournament embraces more territory than any other Golden Gloves center.

Some contestants travel as far as 600 miles to do their fighting. They have encountered snow blocked roads on many trips, particularly in outstate Nebraska. More than once boxers have been forced to shovel their way through deep drifts on country highways. So far they've all landed safe and sound, however.

It's really not a new experience for them. They encountered similar conditions last year before moving on to the Tournament of Champions in Chicago to share team honors with the powerful Cleveland Plain Dealer squad.

They Come from All Over.

It almost requires a map to convey a clear idea of the vast territory from which the Omaha team is selected. Entrants come from the Wyoming and Colorado borders, from south eastern Iowa, northern Kansas, and parts of South Dakota.

Six Nebraska districts send their champions to the Omaha meet. These teams represent Kearney, North Platte, Grand Island, Hastings, Norfolk, and Lincoln. In addition teams invade Omaha from Shenandoah and Glenwood, Ia.; Sutherland, Columbus, Fremont, Blair, Beatrice, Bayard, York, and Giltner, Neb.; Dodge City, Kas., and Sioux Falls, S. D.

A score of smaller towns and villages send from one to a half dozen boxers into the competition at Omaha. The Bayard team must travel 400 miles to compete at Omaha on Feb. 8, 9, and 16.

Two Champions Back.

The two Omaha boxers who won titles in the Chicago Tournament of Champions last year again are candidates, but only one will reach the Tribune Charities, Inc., big tournament, which opens at Chicago Stadium Feb. 22.

They are Paul Hartnek, last year's Chicago heavyweight champion, and Carl Vinciquerra, his Creighton university pal. The latter won the light heavyweight championship. Both are competing as heavyweights this year and, of course, only one can win.

Hartnek suffered a broken hand last year. The injury kept him out of the final Olympic tryouts. He has been showing fine form this year, has taken on weight, and will weigh about 197 pounds when he goes into action. Vinciquerra also is in fine trim, but it will be no easy job for either to win the title. The Omaha heavyweight field is the most formidable since Golden Gloves were introduced in that territory.

GIANTS RECEIVE CARL HUBBELL'S SIGNED CONTRACT

New York, Jan. 19.—(AP)—The New York Giants today received the 1937 contract of Carl Hubbell, whose pitching was largely responsible for the Giants' National league pennant victory and produced the league's best earned run average last season. Hubbell signed a one year contract which called for around $22,000, representing an increase of $4,000 over last year.

Lynch Outpoints Montana to Win Flyweight Title

LONDON, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Benny Lynch of Scotland won the world's flyweight championship today by outpointing Small Montana of Manila in their fifteen round title fight. Lynch, holder of the British crown, weighed 111 pounds 6 ounces. Montana, recognized as champion by the National Boxing Association of the United States, weighed 107 pounds 10 ounces.

Golden Glove Fighters Pass Physical Exam

The opening gun in the tenth annual Golden Gloves tournament sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., was fired last night when more than 350 early entrants reported at Trafton's gymnasium for physical examinations. Officials said 301 passed the test, thus qualifying them for competition in the four sectional tournaments, the first of which will begin at Madison Athletic club Feb. 8.

Four were rejected because of heart murmurs, eight for being under 16 years of age, and one for being over 40 years old.

The next physical examination will be held at C. Y. O. center next Monday, but it is for representatives of the Catholic Youth organization only. The third preliminary test at Trafton's gymnasium will be held later in the week. Boys who received letters of instruction to report at Trafton's gymnasium last night and were unable to do so are eligible for this examination.

Eddie Wade, light heavyweight representative of the Jibelow Athletic club, 32d and Wells streets, who competed as a middleweight in 1931, and a light heavyweight in 1933, is back in quest of the 175 pound championship. Wade, who demonstrated considerable ability when he reached the semi-finals in the Tournament of Champions six years ago, recently returned from a year's stay in Michigan. He engaged in five contests in recent weeks, emerging victorious in each. He has had approximately 85 bouts, losing only 12.

Other open division boxers who passed last night's examination included William Thomas, Illinois athletic club tournament welterweight finalist; Lou Michaels, who also weighs 147 pounds; Robert Brooks, 1936 I. A. C. welterweight champion; William Lewis, Savoy Athletic club heavyweight, and James Clanton, 200 pounder from the Bowman Athletic club.

Michaels, who is 31 years old, is seeking a diamond studded Golden Glove for the fourth time, having been eliminated by King Wyatt, Fort Wayne sectional titleholder, in the

Admit Hiring Agent, but Deny Athletic Fund.

Iowa City, Ia., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—The Iowa City business group which engaged an agent to work among University of Iowa alumni with the intention of interesting them actively in trying to keep Iowa athletes inside the state, will continue its work, members said today.

This prediction was expressed in answer to the statement made yesterday by the Iowa athletic board in which the board asked alumni to avoid "certain individuals" reported to be soliciting funds to aid Iowa athletes.

Admits Hiring Agent.

An Iowa City business man, who asked that his name be withheld, spoke for the group and admitted that it had hired an agent to promote the plan to keep Iowa students in Iowa—in short, to have them enrolled at the university. But he denied that funds were being solicited for athletes. The agent already has contacted groups at Davenport, Clinton, and Des Moines, it was said.

"We realize," he said, "that we will profit if more students can be induced to enroll at Iowa. We are not merely interested in getting athletes here, for we believe that if 2,000 students could be added to the enrollment through concerted alumni efforts there would be a certain percentage of athletes among them."

The spokesman added, however, that Iowa alumni have been aroused by the consistency with which schools in other states have been taking the cream of Iowa prep stars and cited the most recent example, that of Kenneth Pettit of Logan, Ia., who announced Monday that he will enter Northwestern university next week.

Board to Meet Again.

It was learned today that the athletic board's statement, urging alumni groups to ignore individuals soliciting funds for athletes, resulted from a complaint about the activities of the agent. It is believed the board disclaimed connection with the agent to forestall possible repetition of the Big Ten's 1929 ouster of Iowa from the conference.

Prof. C. M. Updegraff, chairman of the board, was noncommittal on the subject today. He said the board would meet again this week or early next week. He had no statement to make in relation to the board's progress in engaging an athletic director and coach to succeed Ossie Solem. It is considered likely, however, that the board will first engage an athletic director, then hire a coach.

LEWIS PLANS ONE TITLE DEFENSE, THEN LOUIS BOUT

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Gus Greenlee, manager of John Henry Lewis, world's light heavyweight champion tonight said that Lewis probably will defend his title for the last time in June, and then start after the heavyweight crown.

"John Henry is definitly out for the heavyweight championship and a shot at Joe Louis," said Greenlee. "By next September I expect him to scale close to 200 pounds. We are out for a crack at Louis then. By that time I expect the brown bomber to be the world's heavyweight ruler."

Lewis, weighing approximately 185 pounds, will meet Art Sykes, Chicago heavyweight, in a ten round bout tomorrow night in Pittsburgh.

Officials—Ag Smith and Mickey Ion.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 19.—(AP)—The National Hocky league's leader scorer, 146 pound Larry Aurie, led the Detroit Red Wings to a rollicking 7 to 2 victory over Chicago's Blackhawks before 10,000 spectators here tonight. Aurie scored two goals and was credited with two assists.

The game ended in the greatest scoring rampage seen here this year, five goals being made in the last four minutes. Detroit got four of these within three minutes and the Hawks knocked in another just before the end.

Tonight's victory gave the Wings the edge in their season's record against the Blackhawks. The series stood two victories and one tie each at the start of the battle. This was the Hawk's fifteenth defeat of the season. They have won six and tied six.

Howe Scores Twice.

Syd Howe almost matched Aurie's record, scoring twice and aiding in one of Aurie's goals. Howe turned in the most brilliant individual work of the evening for the first goal of the game, skating solo the length of the ice in the first period.

Pete Palangio scored solo at the end of the second period for the first Blackhawk goal, and Marty Burke knocked the puck past Normie Smith at 19:51 of the third on passes from Art Wiebe and Andy Blair.

Score in Quick Succession.

Heck Kilrea scored Detroit's final goal, his first of the season. His brother Wally's goal opened the mad dashes to the nets in the closing minutes. Only fifteen seconds separated goals by Howe and Aurie in that period.

Gottselig had the first good shot at the goal, driving a hard one at Smith's feet. Then Wally Kilrea and Roulston got in on Karakas for a shot that the goalie stopped neatly.

Syd Howe put the Red Wings in the lead at 10:47, taking the puck near the Detroit nets and skating down on a lightning fast solo dash through a mass of Blackhawk defense men to beat Karakas.

Smith Stops Hawks.

A minute later Pettinger was penalized for holding near the Detroit nets. The Hawks' power plays drove shots at Smith from all angles, but failed to beat him.

Karakas came out to stop Pettinger's shot on a pass from Goodfellow as the second period began. Successive drives by Larochelle and Seibert failed. Then Barry combined in a neat bit of passing for the second Detroit score at 7:35. Barry's high pass found Aurie alone and the Red Wing skated in to beat Karakas.

Wings Increase Lead.

Pettinger skated down the center and almost lost the puck at the penalty circle, but it rolled onto Bruneteau, who shot the third goal at 14:17.

Pep Kelly barely missed a shot on Seibert's pass. Bowman skated down and Wiebe held him, drawing a penalty. The Wings put four forwards and Goodfellow on the ice, but were unable to score. Wiebe was hardly back before Brydson was penalized for slashing Howe. Within a few seconds Palangio took the puck on a break to skate in on Smith for Chicago's first goal at 18:45.

Wally Kilrea added another Detroit score on Bucko McDonald's pass, at 16:27 in the third period. Howe counted his second goal of the night at 18:20, Aurie and Lewis getting assists. Aurie scored 15 seconds later on a break with Howe and Goodfellow getting assists. At 19:25 Hec Kilrea made his first goal of the season, with Aurie getting an assist.

TORONTO WHIPS BOSTON IN HOCKY; FIGHT IS A TIE

Drillon Scores 3 Goals in 6-2 Rout.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Hopelessly beaten, the Boston Bruins turned a 6 to 2 defeat into a fiasco by staging an unconvincing fight with the Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hocky league tonight before a crowd of 15,000 at the Boston garden.

The disorder broke out in the third period when the Leafs had a 5 to 1 lead with about five minutes to play. Hooley Smith started the brawling by grappling with Red Horner and, as they pulled and tugged on the ice, several other players swapped painless punches.

The referees worked frantically to restore order and their performances indicated they were the only participants really serious about the affair. They imposed major penalties on Smith and Horner as well as on Ray Getliffe and Jimmy Fowler.

Gordon Drillon scored three of the Leafs' goals.

Grand Circuit Considers New Rules Today

New York, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Grand Circuit stewards will assemble here tomorrow for what E. Roland Harriman, president, characterizes as the most important meeting the light harness horse racing organization has held in years.

Rule changes, recently adopted by the Trotting Horse Club of America, are to be considered; four new stakes will be assigned to various tracks; dates for the 1937 season set, officers elected, and possibly several new members admitted.

Since the Trotting Horse club has sanctioned the new rules designed to speed up the starting of races, the Grand Circuit is expected to do likewise. Failure to do so would mean that the circuit would operate under two sets of rules. The Trotting Horse club has ruled that the new code will be in effect in all races it sponsors, including the Hambletonian.

The Hambletonian has been assigned to Goshen, N. Y., but the track owners will bid for the four new all-aged trotting and pacing stakes, which carry a combined value of more than $40,000. They include the $17,500 All-America, a $9,000 event for trotters and the Derby and Single G. stake, each worth $8,500, for pacers.

Owner, Greentree Stable. Trainer, J. M. Gaver. Went to post at 2:32. Off at 2:36¼. Start good. Won easily, place driving.

AIRY GOING quickly ran into a long lead, drew away in stretch and at end was being eased up. BLACK WIDOW was a bit slow to get into her stride, worked her way up and held on gamely. NED STORM on the outside of field all the way, ran good race. ATTA KNIGHT closed a big gap. GREEN MELON ran good race and is sure to improve.

RAISE PURSES, ADD STAKES FOR HOMEWOOD MEET

Washington Park Plans New Features.

First indication that Chicago race tracks will meet the stiff opposition to be offered this year by New York and New England courses was given yesterday when Walter Gregory, president of the Washington Park Jocky club, announced that his track will increase the value of its stakes and purses at least 10 per cent.

He also announced that plans are going forward for a revival of the American Derby. The increase in purse money and the revival of the Derby will raise Washington Park's distribution of purses to more than $300,000.

Ask for June Dates.

The Washington Park Jocky club will ask for June racing dates as the American Derby always has been a June turf fixture in Chicago.

Mr. Gregory's statement follows:

"The board of directors of the Washington Park Jocky club is firmly convinced that there will be a definite increase in interest in Illinois racing during the coming season.

"To show our faith in this conclusion, and to give Chicago the best in racing entertainment, we will increase our purse money distribution by at least 10 per cent. This will bring our total to over $300,000.

Two New Stakes.

"In order to utilize this increase to the best advantage, that is to bring the best stables in racing here, the additional money will be added to our stake program. We will maintain an average daily minimum purse of $1,000.

"We are already definitly committed to two new stakes, both for two year olds. These are the Princess Pat and the Washington Park Futurity, for which we have received generous nominations from the best stables in the country."

CLASSIC LEAGUE BOWLS TONIGHT ON SOUTH SIDE

BY BOB BECKER.

Although it isn' yet "gobblin time" down south, northern hunters have been able to get the thrills of wild turkey hunting and come home with some big ones from the cypress and cabbage palm hammocks.

On our recent hurry-up trip to Florida to try out Andy Gump, the pointer, and to test a new gun, we climaxed our all too short hours of quail hunting with a sunrise turkey hunt. Joe Washington, an expert hunter and dog trainer, took us in hand for the hunt, claiming he knew where the turkeys were roosting in a dense stand of live oaks, palms and a lot of miscellaneous vines and brush. So we agreed to get up at 4 o'clock in the morning and burrow into the brush with our hunting partner, Lyman Barr of Highland Park, Ill.

It was a warm, starlit morning when we approached the heavy timber in which the turkeys were supposed to be located. At 5:40 a. m. we walked single file into the semitropical jungle, trying not to fall over dry palm branches, logs, and each other's feet. The going was slow and difficult. Once we sat down and talked in whispers for a short time. . . . Joe, the guide, urging us not to get excited and make too much noise when we got close to the turkeys.

It seemed as if daylight never would come. As we continued into the woods we had to travel at a snail's pace, bent over, almost crawling at times, to get through the vines. Finally we found ourselves at the edge of the river in the pale light of early dawn. We began to look around for roosting turkeys. Joe and Barr thought they spotted one in a cypress but it turned out to be a big clump of moss!

Joe didn't really begin to talk to the turkeys in a confidential manner until after we had bagged a small one, weighing not more than 8 or 9 pounds. But there was no answer to Joe's turkey talk. We could hear the quail whistling behind us but no turkey notes. Yet during our anxious waiting a handsome gobbler was on his way. He liked the seductive talk of the guide who was using no artificial caller at all [only his vocal cords]. After Barr's 16 gauge had shattered the quiet of the sunrise to drop Mr. Gobbler and it had been toted back to Punta Gorda we found that he weighed in at 16½ pounds . . . a beautiful, bronzed fellow with a long "beard" and excellent plumage.

Manley and Kelly in the central section and McKinley in the west were handed their first defeats yesterday in the junior division of the City High School Basketball league.

Manley was shaded by Farragut, 27 to 26; Kelly fell before Tilden Tech, 30 to 25, and McKinley lost to Kelvyn Park, 28 to 16. Farragut's victory was its third straight and left it, with Harrison, idle yesterday, the only undefeated teams in the central section.

Amundsen, Waller Win.

The two north section leaders kept their records clear, Amundsen whipping Senn, 41 to 25, for its third in a row, and Waller taking its third straight at the expense of Lake View, 24 to 23, in the closest contest of the day. Waller trailed at the half, 13-7.

Von Steuben and Lane are also undefeated in the north division, but have a tie game against them.

Fenger Takes Lead.

Fenger took the lead in the south section with a 19 to 17 victory over Parker. Fenger has won three while Englewood, idle yesterday, the only other undefeated quintet in the division, has won two games.

Moskowitz's eight baskets for Crane, which defeated Foreman, 44 to 17, and Harrison's six field goals and four free throws for Amundsen were the best individual scoring efforts.

LARRY MULLINS TO COACH LOYOLA OF NEW ORLEANS

New Orleans, La., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Larry [Moon] Mullins, who played full back on Notre Dame's 1929 and 1930 Notre Dame teams, signed a three year contract today as head coach at Loyola university here. Mullins, who coached St. Benedict's college of Atchison, Kas., to an undefeated, untied season in 1936, will succeed Eddie Reed.

second round of the Tournament of Champions at the Stadium three years ago. Michaels, a stationary engineer at 1232 North avenue, is married and the father of two girls, 5 and 6 years old.

Roberts Brooks was eliminated in last year's sectional trials at White City due to a cut eye. The stocky colored boxer, who is a chauffeur for Francis X. Mettenet, gas company official, has lost only nine decisions in fifty-nine starts.

William Lewis was the tallest candidate to report. The Savoy representative, who weighs 186 pounds, stands 6 feet 3 inches. He is a porter at a garage at 731 Adams street.

James Clanton, who lives at 3449 South Dearborn street, possessor of a broken nose, has four children ranging from 6 to 13 years of age. He scales 200 pounds and has been boxing since 1927.

Martin O'Gradney, Trafton's gymnasium middleweight, made a useless trip when he failed to bring along his parental consent card. O'Gradney, who is 20 years old, will return with the required document at the next examination. Martin, who is a meat carver at a loop restourant, has won ten of his last twelve engagements.

Like Old Man River, Charles Patrick Sr., 35 year old PWA worker, just keeps rolling along. The bemustached Patrick, who has a boy 11 years old, has entered the tournament for the eighth time.

Porter Barber, who lives at 1916 Asbury avenue, Evanston, got by the doctor. So did Cornelius Champion, Louis Louie Jackson Dempsey, and Norman Norman.

One of the last to appear last night was John Gavin, 195 pound stevedore. He is 6 feet tall and has a pair of the biggest shoulders seen, shoulders some one identified as box cars.

Joe Matula, middleweight; Tony Rychtarceyk, bantamweight, and Zig Blaszozyk, flyweight, all of whom are members of the Polish Roman Catholic union, were three of the early arrivals. Matula will compete in the north section at Loyola university gymnasium Feb. 16, 17, and 18, while the others will fight at the Madison Athletic club.

SLEIPNER A. C. HOLDS SKATING MEET TONIGHT

The Sleipner Athletic club skating Derbies will be held tonight at La Follette park, it was decided yesterday at a meeting of the executives of the Illinois Western Skating association. The change in dates for several meets was occasioned by the weather.

Saturday a special series of races will be held at La Follette park under the direction of the association. On Sunday the Illinois Western championship meet will be held at Elgin. On Jan. 27 the Catholic Youth Organization meet, originally scheduled for Jan. 3, will be held at Humboldt park. All of these tournaments will count in the final seasons' standings.

Cooper and Thomson Beat Smith and Little, One Up

Fresno, Cal., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Harry Cooper of Chicago and Jimmy Thomson of Shawnee, Pa., defeated Horton Smith of Chicago and Lawson Little, 1 up, in an eighteen hole exhibition golf match here today. Thomson decided the match with a six foot putt for a birdie four on the eighteenth. He and Smith carded 71s and Little and Cooper each had 72.

JOHN BALTZER.

John Baltzer, Golden Gloves Winner, Killed

Rock Island, Ill., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—John L. Baltzer, 26 years old, former Golden Gloves champion, died here today an hour after he had been crushed between two switch engines while on his way to work at the International Harvester company plant. He is survived by his widow.

For four consecutive years Baltzer won the flyweight championship in the Golden Gloves sectional tournaments sponsored by the Daily Times at Davenport, Ia. As a consequence he competed in the Chicago Tournament of Champions all four years—1930, 1931, 1932, and 1933. He was eliminated in the early rounds the first two years, but in 1932 he went on to the finals before losing to Al Soukop of Chicago. The following year he reached the coveted goal when he whipped Lenny Cohen in the championship round at Chicago Stadium.

Baltzer also represented Chicago in the intercity matches against New York in 1932 and 1933 and was a member of the American team which fought to a draw with Germany, four bouts to four, in the international contests at Soldiers' field in 1932.

Later Baltzer fought as a professional.

Canadian Ice Stars Prepare for Carnival

Canadian art on the ice will be blended with the Uncle Sam variety Friday, Saturday and Sunday in the carnival of skating champions scheduled for the Chicago Arena, East Erie street and McClurg court. The Granite club of Toronto, Ontario, has entered all its stars in the individual and group events.

The champions from across the border are headed by Mrs. Cecil Gooderham, who as Cecil Smith was three times a Canadian representative in the Olympic games. Eleanor O'Meara, present Canadian senior champion; Dorothy Caley who holds the junior crown, and Nathan Walley, professional title holder, also will appear under the Granite club banner.

The Toronto Skating club has entered a prize holding team made up of Stewart Reburn and Louise Bertram. Norval Baptie and Gladys Lamb will head the local participants.

There will be a special matinée Sunday at 2:30 p. m., at which youngsters under 14 years will be admitted at half price.

BIBLE ARRIVES FOR CONFERENCE ON TEXAS POST

Austin, Tex., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Dana X. Bible, football coach at Nebraska, arrived today for a conference tomorrow with University of Texas officials who are seeking a new coach and athletic director. Bible was met by Dr. J. C. Dolley, chairman of the university's athletic council.

The meeting tomorrow is expected to center on Bible's rumored demand of $15,000 to $25,000 salary for himself and staf and a five to ten year contract.

At West Palm Beach, Fla. — Amos Tiger, 154, Sapulpa, Okla., beat Billy Shell, 150, West Palm Beach [10]; Tony Petrosky, 145, Muskegon, Mich., beat Sailor Born, 139½, Atlanta, Ga. [8].

CHICAGO SKATERS TO COMPETE FOR WESTERN TITLES

Four men's and two women's championships will be decided Sunday when the Illinois western outdoor ice championships are held at Lord's park, Elgin. Many Chicago skaters will compete, among them Eddie Schroeder and Leo Freisinger, Olympic stars, and Vic Ronchetti, Bernie Canata, Wallace Fee Jr., Elinor Thiel, Elaine Bogda, and other Silver Skates stars.

The program, sponsored by the Elgin Skating club and arranged by Merril Calame, president of the club, and Henry Traub, skating commissioner of Kane county, will include men's senior championship events at a quarter mile, half mile, mile, and two mile distances; girls' senior races at 220 yards and a half mile, and events for younger classes.

Roy McWhorter and Wallace Fee will serve as referees and Tobe Orb, Harry Hahn, Frank Oakes, and Harry Berz in other official capacities. The Chicago skaters will leave at 11:05 a. m. from the Wells street station of the Chicago, Aurora and Elgin.

Collegians and Gwinns Win Windy City Basket Games

The Collegians and Homer Gwinns were victors in the opening of the second round of play in the Windy City Basketball league at St. Philip gymnasium last night. The Collegians won from the Brandt Florals, 22 to 14, and the Gwinns defeated the Magic Chefs, 34 to 24. The T. J. Bowler girls' quintet triumphed over the I. W. A. C., 48 to 8.

J. Cal Ewing, Organizer of Coast League, Dies

Oakland, Cal., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—J. Cal Ewing, for years a leading figure in minor league baseball, died here today. Death followed a stroke of apoplexy suffered last September. Ewing helped to organize the Pacific Coast league and owned the Oakland club from 1890 until a few years ago. He was 70 years old.

Max Zona and Billy Treest Fight Tonight

Tonight's Schedule

At Majestic arena—Billy Treest vs. Max Zona [8], heavyweights.

At Illinois Athletic club—Finals of fifth annual amateur boxing tournament.

Every variety of ring warfare is on tonight's program. A professional show will inaugurate boxing at the Majestic arena, 5247 Madison street, headed by an eight round heavyweight bout between Billy Treest and Max Zona, while amateur boxing and professional wrestling cards are scheduled on other fronts.

Finals of the fifth annual amateur tournament will be presented at the Illinois Athletic club, 112 South Michigan avenue, and a series of amateur fights are listed at the 124th Field Artillery armory gymnasium, 52d street and Cottage Grove avenue. The wrestling program will be offered at Rainbo Fronton, Clark street and Lawrence avenue, dominated by a match between Oki Shikina and Jack Conley.

Treest is Outweighed.

The contest between Treest and Zona is likely to develop into a slugging match. Treest is expected to win despite the fact that he will be outweighed approximately twenty pounds. He scaled 185½ pounds in his latest effort against Max Marek at White City, Dec. 30, while Zona carried 206¼ in his six round conquest of Moss T. Brawner on the same card.

Jack Eile, former featherweight boxer, making his debut as a promoter, has arranged five supporting matches, one of which will involve wrestlers. Phil Rosenberg, twice winner of the sectional Golden Gloves tournament at Joliet, and Christy Mathewson, Golden Gloves product from Omaha, will meet for the third time this season in the semi-final set for five rounds.

Scrivani Faces Dempsey.

In a four rounder Andy Scrivani, American Olympic Golden Gloves lightweight king, will be in quest of his sixth straight professional triumph against Paul Dempsey.

Other encounters match Vane Surby with Henry Ullmer, and Johnny Peckowitch with Ray Drake.

Shikina and Conley will wrestle for one fall with a 90 minute time limit at the Fronton. Supplementary bouts involve Charley Grubmyer and Mike Kilonis, Frankie Talaber and Whitey Walberg, Bairam Bey and Lefty Pacer, and Bull Curly and George Kontolis.

Championships will be determined in eight weight divisions at the I. A. C. between boxers representing the Catholic Youth organization, Bendix corporation, South Bend, Ind.; Savoy athletic club, Trafton's gymnasium, Randall gymnasium, Mount Vernon, Ill., and Unity athletic club. The C. Y. O. already has won the team trophy with seven representatives remaining in the meet. The opposition is unusually strong, however, and several of these survivors may suffer defeat tonight.

Pairings:

Frank Kalrath, C. Y. O., vs. Joe Chizar, Bendix corporation, South Bend, Ind., 118.
Andrew Filmore, Savoy A. C., vs. Joe Lopez, Bendix corporation, 126.
Anthony Motisi, C. Y. O., vs. William Goldsmith, C. Y. O., 135.
George Abrams, Bendix corporation, vs. William Thomas, Trafton's gymnasium, 147.
Nate Bolden, Savoy A. C., vs. Elmer Thomas, C. Y. O., 160.
Oshipe Smallwood, Randall gymnasium, Mount Vernon, Ill., vs. Eugene Davis, Unity A. C., 175.
Alex Kettles, Bendix corporation, vs. Joe Howe, C. Y. O., heavyweights.

Remember Him?—

Pop Geers and Harness Racing Synonymous for 50 Years; Developed Many Champions

[This is the 30th of a series of articles on famous headliners of other days whose careers and contributions to sports have perhaps become obscured by time and the exploits of more widely publicized successors. All of them rank among the greatest in their respective fields.]

BY ARCH WARD.

OVER a span of 50 years one big name, and one only, stood out in this country in harness horse racing.

That name was Edward [Pop] Geers.

At the age of 73 he sat in his sulky behind the fastest trotters and pacers of the day with as much assurance as in 1880 when at the age of 29 he brought out Annie W., then the wonder of the Grand Circuit.

Geers was born at Lebanon, Tenn., Jan. 25, 1851. He watched the speed of trotting and pacing horses increase from a mile in 2:30 to a mile in less than two minutes. He was in the sulky behind most of these fast horses. Hanna, Billings, Smathers, and the other plungers of nearly two generations ago wagered their tens of thousands on or against him.

He was a born horseman. Not only was he the most famous, most admired, and most beloved of all harness reinsmen but his career also exceeded both in length and achievement all others in the annals of the sport.

In Europe the name of Geers was known wherever harness racing was carried on.

When a schoolboy he began working horses for speed and at the age of 20 he had gathered together a small stable. Then it was that he drove and won his first race at Lebanon. The horse that he drove was Little Dave. He trotted his best heat in 3:04, pulling a four-wheeled skeleton wagon of antique pattern.

The thrill of that victory induced Geers to become a professional horseman. In order to learn the trainer's art from an acknowledged master he put in a year in the employ of the late George J. [Uncle George] Fuller of Nashville. Geers developed the trotting mare Tennessee that year.

Geers opened a public stable at Nashville in 1875. He raced at the fairs in Tennessee and Alabama and was successful with several horses the best of these was Alice West which he gave a record of 2:33.

He invaded the north for the first time in 1877. He made the northeners sit up and take notice when he drove Alice West a mile in 2:30.

Develops His First Champion in 1878.

The next year he brought out his first champion. This was the undersized pacing mare Mattie Hunter and after she had done a mile in 2:16½ Geers sold her.

The next champion he developed was the famous pacing gelding, Hal Pointer. Geers gave this great horse a mark of 2:04½. Earlier Hal Pointer had been the first horse ever to win a heat in 2:10 or better. He had stepped a mile in Terre Haute in 1890 in 2:09¾.

Geers, indeed, was on his way and during the next two score years one champion after another came out of his establishment. His horses earned more than $1,500,000.

He drove in the greatest race in the history of the harness horse sport. It took place in Toledo in 1918 when with Single G. he won the only pace on record in which all three heats were done in better than two minutes. Miss Harris M. won the first heat in 1:58¼ and Single G. with Geers in the sulky took the next two in 1:59½ and 1:59¾. His fastest trotter was The Harvester which he marked in 2:01.

Fatal Accident at Wheeling, W. Va.

Geers figured in many accidents, many of them serious, but he always was back in the sulky the next hour, the next day, the next week, or the next month until the afternoon of Sept. 3, 1924, at Wheeling, W. Va.

This day of the West Virginia State fair had been set aside as Geers' day.

Geers, now 73 years of age, drove Miladi Gay in the first race of the day. He was acclaimed by thousands when he drove the mare toward the starting point. Miladi Gay finished third in the first heat of a 2:24 trot.

In the next heat Miladi Gay and Santa the Great were fighting for the lead. Geers attempted to send Miladi Gay past the stubborn rival. Miladi Gay stumbled and fell. The sulky overturned. Geers was thrown more than fifteen feet ahead of the horse. Other horses in the race swung wide of the fallen driver and horse.

Geers was unconscious when they placed him upon a stretcher and carried him to a hospital. He never regained consciousness and died three hours later.

POP GEERS.

YOUNG, PURDUE STAR, BOOSTS SCORING LEAD

McMichael and Combes Tie for Second.

Jewell Young, Purdue's lanky southpaw forward, continues to hold a substantial lead in Big Ten individual scoring as the 1936-'37 race nears the half way point.

Young increased his lead by scoring 24 points on eleven field goals and two free throws while Purdue was whipping Indiana and losing to Illinois over the week-end, boosting his total to 75 points—an average of 15 per game and 21 more than his nearest competitor. He has scored the most field goals—thirty—and has made fifteen out of seventeen free throws.

Other leading scorers were shuffled during the week. Harry Combes of Illinois and Mike McMichael, Northwestern, who shared third place last week, moved into a tie for second with 54 points apiece. Kenny Gunning, Indiana co-captain and runner-up a week ago, dropped to fourth with 47 points, one more than Louis Boudreau, Illini sophomore, who displaced Rooney of Wisconsin in fifth place.

All of the leaders have participated in the same number of games—five. Statistics:

FLU INCREASES FILING OF WILLS TO 1918 HEIGHTS

582 Received in 12 Days by Probate Clerk.

The recent prevalence of influenza and pneumonia has resulted in a great increase in the number of wills filed for probate, Mitchell C. Robin, clerk of the Probate court, announced yesterday.

During the first twelve days of the year he received 582 wills, disposing of estates worth more than $4,000,000. This was the largest number filed in any comparable period since the flu epidemic of 1918, Mr. Robin said.

Under ordinary circumstances between fifteen and twenty estates are filed daily. On last Jan. 11, the heaviest day, sixty wills were listed for probate.

Rogers Estate $275,000.

The estate of John A. Rogers, former alderman of the old 18th ward and a well known political figure on the west side for many years, will exceed $275,000, according to an inventory filed yesterday. Mr. Rogers died last Dec. 2 at the age of 81. His estate was valued at $123,000 when it was admitted to probate on Dec. 10.

Mr. Rogers left $1,000 to St. Matthew's church, 3040 Walnut street, and $5,000 and the home at 3211 Washington boulevard, where they lived, to his sister, Mrs. Annie Wright. The balance of the estate is shared by Mrs. Wright and sixteen other relatives.

The estate consists of $154,554 in cash, treasury and HOLC bonds, and stocks, and the balance is unencumbered real estate.

Ferguson Leaves $100,000.

An inventory filed yesterday disclosed that the estate of Alexander H. Ferguson will amount to $100,000. Mr. Ferguson, who was 70 years old, died last Aug. 28. The bulk of the estate is left to two cousins, Addie Fulton, 309 North West street, Waukegan, and Mary Chard, 228 North Laramie avenue.

Three other estates were admitted to probate. They are:

MYRON DAY DOWNS, died Nov. 13, $80,500, to a brother, Walter B. Downs, 527 Ashland avenue, River Forest, and three sisters, Augusta L. and Henrietta, of 18 North Waller avenue, and Mrs. Clara Wells of Glen Ridge, N. J., after minor bequests to seven relatives, two charities, and a friend.

MRS. MARY E. CRANE, died Nov. 19, $80,000, to a daughter, Mrs. Clarisa Champlin, 1023 Home avenue, Oak Park, after bequests to thirteen other relatives.

MRS. MARGARET H. THOMPSON, died Dec. 26, $45,000 to three children, William S., 2373 East 70th street, named as executor James F. of San Francisco, Cal., and Mrs. Margaret Gates of Manhattan, Kas.

SERVICES TODAY FOR THE WIFE OF A. H. EMERSON

Funeral services for Mrs. Adele Deming Emerson, member of a pioneer Chicago family, will be held at 2 p. m. today in the First Presbyterian church of Highland Park. Burial will be in Graceland cemetery. Mrs. Emerson, the wife of Arthur H. Emerson, Chicago manager for John M. Street company, cotton yarn distributors, died Monday at her home, 812 South Liden street, Highland Park.

She was the daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. Henry Halbert Deming. Her great-grandfather, Frederick R. Otis, was one of four brothers who came here from Ohio in 1849 and engaged extensively in the real estate business.

Saloon License Rush Continues; 738 Closed

Saloonkeepers continued their rush yesterday to the office of City Collector Louis Rixmann to obtain liquor licenses for 1937. By 5 p. m. 8,461 of the 9,199 licensed in 1936 had taken out licenses for the new year. The other 738 saloons and liquor stores presumably were still closed under Police Commissioner Allman's order to prevent any place from doing business without a license. The order resulted in the closing of more than 1,500 saloons on Monday.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: "Snorty" Casts Some Pearls

SIX PROPOSALS WORKED OUT TO CUT TAX SNARL

Urge Rate Validation and Sale of Liens.

A broad legislative program designed to untangle Cook county's tax muddle was considered at a conference of county officials yesterday in the office of State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney.

Six tentative measures to aid in collecting delinquent taxes and to enforce payment of current levies on an equitable basis were proposed to the officials. It is planned that when the measures have been revised and approved they will be submitted to the general assembly.

"We are going to discuss the merits of the many proposals for legislation pertaining to taxing matters," Courtney said, in opening the meeting. "By this conference we hope to agree upon what bills are best."

Suggestions of State's Attorney.

The proposed measures, drawn by the state's attorney's staf, are as follows:

1. A bill requiring validation of tax rates by the county court before tax bills are sent out.

2. A bill permitting the county to sell its tax liens on properties.

3. A measure providing that if all taxes are paid prior to Jan. 1, 1938, the penalties on all taxes for 1933 and prior years will be reduced to a flat 6 per cent on the total.

4. A bill providing that if taxes have been paid in full but penalties have not, the penalties become a personal debt of the property owners and not a lien against the property. This would facilitate the transfer of real estate.

5. A bill providing that personal property taxes can be paid under protest the same as real estate.

6. A provision to validate all entries on the tax record books of the county treasurer's office.

Seek Further Opinions.

Most of the discussion at the meeting centered on the first two proposals and these were approved in principle and submitted to administering county officials for their consideration.

It was pointed out that the first measure, providing for pre-adjudication of tax levies would extend the benefit of court decisions ruling out illegal levies to all taxpayers instead of only to those who enter formal objections at present; would expedite by several months the ruling on rate objections and would serve notice on tax spending bodies that they cannot anticipate revenues from illegal levies.

The second measure, which would give the county authority to sell its tax liens, should assist in bringing in large volumes of back taxes, officials said.

Participants in Conference.

Among those at the meeting in Courtney's office were Judge Edmund K. Jarecki, of the County court; Clayton F. Smith, president of the county board; County Commissioners George Miller, Frank Bobrytzke, and Fred Fishman; Assistant State's Attorney William J. Tuohy; County Treasurer Horace G. Lindheimer, and representatives of the county clerk and board of appeals. The conference will be resumed Friday morning.

Des Plaines Boy Drowns in School Swimming Pool

Franklin Moody, 13 years old, 792 Lee street, Des Plaines, was drowned last night, apparently after he had suffered a heart attack, as he dived into the swimming pool at Maine Township Junior High school, Thacker avenue and Cora street, in the suburb. The swimming instructor, Eugene Larson, 35 years old, 1405 Oakwood avenue, carried the boy to the surface after he had been under water only a short time, but efforts to revive him were in vain.

TICKETS PUT ON SALE FOR THREE PARALYSIS FUND PARTIES JAN. 30

The committee in charge of Chicago's celebration of President Roosevelt's birthday on Jan. 30 announced yesterday that tickets at $1 apiece had been placed on sale at the Aragon ballroom, at Guyon's Paradise, and at the Trianon, where the three sectional parties are to be held, and at the general headquarters, room 305, Palmer house. Proceeds will go to fight poliomyelitis [infantile paralysis], 70 per cent to Chicago institutions.

The committee announced also that among those enlisted in the cause of raising a million dollars for the fight against "polio" [as physicians call paralysis] are Dr. Edwin Ryerson, Dr. Edward L. Compere, and Dr. Philip Lewin of the Chicago Orthopedic society, Prof. James Weber Linn, Mrs. Charles Schwartz of the Chicago Woman's Aid club, Mrs. Clifton K. Timmons of the Parent-Teachers' association, Mrs. Bror Dahlberg, Mrs. Anita Blair of the American Red Cross, and Mrs. W. B. Bowers of the Martha Washington Home for Dependent Chippled Children.

Mayor Kelly's general committee reported that plans for a celebration in the Hotel Knickerbocker, for which tickets will be $5, are being pushed by Arthur Meeker and other members of the executive committee.

CHINA REFUGEES INCLUDE A GROUP SENT FROM HERE

Several missionaries among the seventy-five foreigners evacuated Monday from rebellious Shensi province, China, are Chicagoans and several more receive support from Chicago churches, according to officials of the Scandinavian Alliance mission, 2839 McLean avenue.

The mission has more than thirty field workers within 300 miles of Sianfu, center of a communist uprising. R. A. Brehm, assistant to the general director of the mission headquarters in Chicago, said yesterday that he believed most of these were among those who have reached safety at Loyang, Honan province.

Among the Chicagoans is Miss Elvida Edlund, 50 years old, who went to China in 1911. The Rev. William England of Seattle was pastor of the Salem Evangelical church at California avenue and McLean street during a furlough from China in 1920. He and Mrs. England, their daughter, Winifred, 5 years old, the Rev. Niels Jacobsen, his wife, Petra, and their daughter, Sigrid, 18 years old, were reported to have reached Loyang. Salem church now supports Herman Swenson, secretary of the missionary organization at Sianfu.

ALDERMEN TURN DOWN NORTHWEST FEEDER BUS PLEA

Citizens Told to Await Unified Transit Plan.

Residents of the northwest side suffered a reverse yesterday in their two and a half year fight for feeder buses on Foster and Kimball avenues.

By a vote of 15 to 3, aldermen on the local transportation committee deferred action on the proposed feeder bus ordinance. The entire matter was referred to a subcommittee engaged in preparing a unified transit ordinance. The bus extension should be included in the final comprehensive traction plan, the committee decided.

Believed Victory Near.

Until yesterday organizations representing an estimated 500,000 residents of the northwest side believed a majority of the committee favored an ordinance which would enable the Surface Lines to operate the feeder buses.

The proposed lines were on Foster avenue between Milwaukee avenue and the Berwyn elevated station, and on Kimball avenue from Peterson avenue to the intersection of Milwaukee avenue and Diversey parkway. It was planned to operate 33 buses, costing about $12,000 each.

At one time in the long struggle between the surface lines and the Chicago Rapid Transit company for the right to operate the bus line the council passed an ordinance granting a permit to the latter. This ordinance was later overruled by the Illinois commerce commission, which favored operation of buses by the street car system.

Reviews Long Fight.

The extensive hearings and conferences of the past two and a half years were reviewed before the council committee by Charles L. Barrett, attorney for the Foster-Kimball Transportation association, and other allied improvement groups in that district.

"It would be a mistake," declared Ald. James B. Bowler [25th] "for the council to authorize piecemeal transit extensions now when negotiations for a comprehensive ordinance covering the elevated, street car, bus lines, is under discussion. If residents of various sections of the city get what they want piecemeal they will lose interest in unification."

Two Aldermen Object.

Ald. Walter J. Orlikoski [35th] and Ald. James R. Quinn [50th], chairman of the committee, whose wards are on the northwest side, complained that the council was discriminating against their constituents. They both asserted that other neighborhoods have been granted transit extensions.

Mrs. William R. Gross, 4325 North Ashland avenue, president of the Amundson Parent-Teacher association, told the committee that 85 per cent of the northwest side dwellers favor operation of feeder buses by the Surface Lines because of transfer privileges.

POLICEMAN WINS EXONERATION IN HIT-RUN FATALITY

Policeman Edward J. Kelly of the vice and gambling squad was exonerated yesterday by Hudson avenue police in the death Monday of Attorney Henry L. Chatroop, who was struck and killed by an automobile in front of 1909 North Park avenue. Police said they learned Policeman Kelly was at home at the time. The license number which a witness to the hit and run automobile obtained was traced to Kelly, but apparently was wrong, police said.

An unidentified man of about 45 was killed last night when he was struck by an automobile at Jackson boulevard and Ogden avenue. He was 5 feet 10 inches tall, weighed 185 pounds, and wore a black overcoat and gray suit. The driver, Arthur Gravell, 20 years old, of 1910 Bissell street, was ordered to attend the inquest.

A man about 45 years old, identified from papers in his pocket as Peter Gecas, 4223 South Artesian avenue, was injured critically early today when his automobile crashed into the rear of a cattle truck in 47th street near Damen avenue. He was taken to the Southtown hospital. The driver of the truck was Lawrence Gregory, 32 years old, of Normal, Ill.

The Gary city council yesterday was considering instaling added safeguards at the Virginia street crossing of the Pennsylvania railroad in that city, where four members of one family were killed Monday night when their automobile was crushed by a passenger train. Those killed were Victor E. Thorsson, Gary public accountant; his wife, a daughter, and a son. The crossing is protected by flasher lights. An inquest will be held next Tuesday.

Automobile accidents in Cook county killed 48 persons, including 42 in Chicago, from Jan. 1 to 4 p. m. yesterday, the coroner's office reported. In the same period 1,009 persons were injured in trafic accidents in Chicago.

LICENSE DROPPED IN HIT-RUN CASE BRINGS JAIL TERM

David Claunch, 23 years old, 826 South Wabash avenue, a clerk, was sentenced to ten days in the county jail on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident by Judge Charles S. Dougherty yesterday in Safety court. Claunch was arrested when police traced a license plate knocked off his car in a minor accident in the 1400 block of Washington boulevard.

Sentences of ten days each for drunken driving were imposed on Tony Slenczka, 46 years old, 8638 Burnham avenue, whose automobile collided with another while on the wrong side of the street; on Carl Johnson, 48 years old, 1221 West 60th street, a salesman; and on Fred Howard, 34 years old, 3520 Reta street, a Yellow Cab driver. On Dec. 13, Howard's cab knocked six windows out of a street car at Clark street and Farwell avenue and injured six passengers.

AUTO LICENSE SALES FAR UNDER THOSE OF 1936

Drivers Are Slower in Obeying Law.

BY HAL FOUST.

Almost three weeks after the statutory deadline for paying the motor registration fee finds Illinois with less than half of its automobiles bearing 1937 plates. Inquiry at the office of Secretary of State Hughes in Springfield yesterday disclosed that motorists this year are even slower than they were in 1936.

John Nash, head of the automobile license bureau for Secretary Hughes, reported that 692,756 pairs of plates have been issued for passenger cars, 87,375 for trucks, and 4,660 for trailers. The number of delinquents today may be reckoned from files that show 1,459,195 passenger cars, 208,926 trucks and 18,408 trailers were registered in Illinois for 1936.

Last Year's Purchases.

Last year at this same date, plates had been issued for 721,053 passenger cars, 100,323 trucks and 3,882 trailers.

Few arrests have been reported so far in any part of the state for failure to display 1937 plates.

In Chicago, City Controler Robert Upham has been issuing warnings concerning the city's wheel tax stickers only. Police Commissioner Allman announced yesterday that summonses for failure to have the city stickers are to be issued, starting this morning, at the rate of not more than 200 a day for each of ten municipal courts. The delinquent motorists will avoid being arraigned by buying their stickers, reporting in court with the evidence, and paying a minimum $2 fine to a court clerk.

State to Act This Week.

In regard to state plates, Mr. Nash said that state highway police are warning motorists that they are subject to arrest for not having 1937 licenses. He added that a date to begin issuing summonses is to be announced later this week. The law specifies that no motor vehicle shall be drvien on an Illinois highway after Jan. 1 without the plates for the new year.

Mr. Nash discounted reports that some motorists have applied for plates and have been kept waiting for weeks. He said plates are being mailed from Springfield within 48 hours after the applications are received.

GIVE ROOSEVELT FULL CONTROL OF GOLD, DOLLAR

Measure Is Jammed Through Congress.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—As an inaugural present for President Roosevelt, the senate and house today rushed to passage with a minimum of debate a bill extending for two and one-half years the executive's vast powers to control the two billion dollar stabilization fund and to devalue the dollar.

SENATOR VANDENBERG.

The bill will be laid on the President's desk tomorrow afternoon after he has taken the oath of office for his second term. He is expected to sign it shortly. His powers under the old measure will expire next Jan. 30. The new bill fixes the expiration date at June 30, 1939.

Urge Report on Operations.

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] and Minority Leader Bertrand H. Snell [R., N. Y.] made futile efforts in the senate and house, respectively, to tack an amendment to the bill calling upon the secretary of the treasury to submit to congress a complete audit and report upon the operations of the fund after the expiration date in 1939.

"There may be some argument against making reports during the life of this fund," remarked Vandenberg, "but there can be no possible reason for objecting to a complete report of what has been done after it is all over. In June, 1939, a period of five and one-half years will have elapsed when two billions of public money have been solely in the hands of two men, the President and the secretary of the treasury.

Comments on Vast Power.

"This is the greatest power over the largest sum of public money and over the longest period ever enjoyed by two men in all history."

Senator Vandenberg said he had been informed that Secretary Morgenthau had no objection to the amendment. Senator Carter Glass [D., Va.], who reported out the bill, remarked that he had no objection to the amendment, but that Morgenthau had failed to inform the senate committee on banking and currency of his willingness to make such a report.

Senator Glass revealed, incidentally, that Morgenthau, while before the committee, had testified that there had been no loss to the government in the operation of the stabilization fund, but that "a profit" had been derived. Any individual congressman, the secretary declared, might obtain any information he wanted about operation of the fund if he pledged himself to secrecy.

Amendments Are Defeated.

The Vandenberg amendment was defeated, 42 to 32. The same amendment, offered by Snell in the house, was met with the statement of Representative Andrew Somers [D., N. Y.] that a bill providing for an eventual report on the fund would be introduced later.

Somers added that he thought President Roosevelt would comment upon the stabilization fund and the question of devaluation of the dollar in his inaugural speech tomorrow.

The Snell amendment was defeated, 93 to 59. So was another amendment extending the President's powers only until June 30, 1938.

The senate passed the bill eventually by a vocal vote.

Sees Constitution Violated.

Just before the house passed the bill, several hours later, Representative James W. Mott [R., Ore.] made this comment about the entire procedure:

"I am not, and nobody in this house is, versed on the merits of the bill. The committee has never given us a report which explains what it's all about and nobody in the house knows how it works or why. Nobody here is qualified to vote intelligently on it.

"The only thing we do know is that the constitution provides plainly that the power to coin money and regulate the value thereof is vested in the congress and we are acting directly in violation of the constitution when we give the President power to devalue money. It is unfortunate that there is no manner in which the Supreme court can be called upon to rule upon this matter because there is no doubt that the court would term the bill unconstitutional."

House Also Passes Bill.

On a roll call the house approved the measure, 307 to 52, defeating by that vote a motion to recommit the bill to committee.

Commenting upon the mystery which has always veiled operations of the fund, Somers asserted that his committee had been given details of how the fund was used, but that the information had been given in confidence and must be kept secret "because we are competing with the finest financial brains in the world." He added that "an exchange war is going on" and presidential power to alter the gold content of the dollar was needed as long as that conflict was in progress.

Queries by the Republicans indicated their disbelief that Somers' committee had been told how the fund had been used.

Trust Sees No Additional Cut in Dollar

There is no danger of further devaluation of the dollar and monetary policies of the government indicate a growing conservatism, says the annual report of the Massachusetts Investors' Trust, issued yesterday.

DR. O. M. W. SPRAGUE. [Acme Photo.]

The views of the management concerning monetary policies are of special interest because Dr. O. M. W. Sprague of Harvard university is a member of the trust's advisory board. Sprague was formerly a special adviser to the Roosevelt administration but resigned because of differences over monetary policy. Recently he was elected president of the American Economic association.

Danger Believed Removed.

"The large increase in gold production, of which the United States continues to hold the lion's share, has provided a base so ample for further currency and credit expansion that there seems no longer any danger of further downward revaluation of the dollar," says the report.

"All signs, including the recent action of the treasury department regarding the sterilization of new gold acquisitions, indicate a growing conservatism in monetary policy on the part of the government.

"Even so, the present excess of bank reserves provides a basis for an inflation of prices of dangerous proportions. However, we are hopeful that as this danger is clearly perceived both by the general public and banking authorities control measures or restraint will be adopted should such a situation develop or become manifest."

Further Recovery Seen.

Concerning the general business outlook, the report said that continued expenditure of public funds to meet the unemployment situation, the unbalanced national budget, the burden of taxation, and the unsolved European situation, while still threats to economic security, are not sufficient to impede further recovery.

"We fear, however," continued the report, "that further improvement in business will be hampered if not checked in the event that widespread strife between labor and capital develops in the coming months, and we feel that an early and satisfactory solution of the general labor problem would be the most important single contribution to the present business revival."

The trust reported net asset value per share of $28.87 on Dec. 31, 1936, compared with $27.89 on Sept. 30, and $24.03 on Dec. 31, 1935.

MEXICO MOVES TO NATIONALIZE POWER INDUSTRY

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 19.—(AP)—The newspaper Nacional published a presidential decree today limiting future concessions to operate electric power plants in Mexico to "semi-official organization or consumers' coöperatives composed entirely of Mexicans."

The authoritative paper said the decree, issued under sweeping powers granted President Lazardo Cardenas by the congress which adjourned Dec. 31, constituted the first step toward nationalization of the power industry.

PRICE OF CIGARETS RAISED TO 11 1-40C A PACKAGE WHOLESALE

Leading cigaret manufacturers yesterday advanced prices of popular brands of cigarets 15 cents a thousand to $6.25. The advance is the first made since January, 1934.

As a result of the advance the straight wholesale price per package of twenty cigarets is 12½ cents, which, less the usual trade discounts of 10 and 2 per cent, cuts the price to 11.025 cents a package.

The companies announcing the increase are Liggett & Meyers, R. J. Reynolds, P. Lorillard company, and American Tobacco. Other leading manufacturers are expected to follow.

An advance in prices has been anticipated for several months because of the rise in tobacco prices during the last year.

ELECT FLORSHEIM TO MERCANTILE TRUST BOARD

Irving S. Florsheim, president of the Florsheim Shoe company, yesterday was elected a director of the Mercantile Trust and Savings bank at the annual meeting of stockholders. He succeeds his father, the late Milton S. Florsheim. All other directors and officers were reëlected.

Deposits of the bank increased more than $3,000,000 in 1936 to $16,504,000 on Dec. 31, and prospects for 1937 are "exceedingly good," William W. Farrell, president, said at the stockholders' meeting.

VISIONS BUILDING OF HALF MILLION HOMES THIS YEAR

A marked increase in the construction of homes during 1937 was predicted yesterday by Bernard L. Johnson, editor of the American Builder, before a joint meeting of the National Concrete Masonry association and the Conference of Concrete Contractors at the Hotel Sherman.

Commenting on the outlook for the building industry, Johnson said he expects a half million new homes will be erected in 1937, that the residential building industry is on the verge of the greatest boom in American history and that a shortage of 2,250,000 family units must be made up within the next ten years.

Commonwealth Edison Awarded Refund on Taxes

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—(AP)—The internal revenue bureau granted credits today to two taxpayers for overassessments on income taxes. An overassessment totaling $146,706 was determined in favor of the Commonwealth Edison company of Chicago for 1929 and 1930 income taxes. Emma N. Swords of New York was credited with $26,186 for overassessment in the same two years.

Operating Net of Two Roads Gains Sharply

A sharp increase in the 1936 net operating income of the Southern Pacific and Kansas City Southern railroads, indications of a substantial upturn in freight car loadings for last week, and the Union Pacific railroad's contemplation of purchasing 25 locomotives, yesterday added to the brightening railroad picture.

Net operating income of the Southern Pacific for 1936 toatled $34,086,680, the best year since 1930, compared with $19,833,467 a year ago. Gross revenues also were the largest since 1930, amounting to $204,338,550, against $163,381,512 for 1935 and $258,758,129 for 1930.

December Total Sharply Higher.

Net operating income for December was $6,969,487, against $2,091,876 in December, 1935. Gross revenues for the latest month totaled $22,459,954, against $13,982,409 a year ago.

The Kansas City Southern reported operating net of $3,133,291 for the year ended Dec. 31, the best for several years. This compares with $1,486,403 reported in the preceding year.

Carl R. Gray, president of the Union Pacific, said yesterday that the purchase of 25 additional freight locomotives is contemplated by the road. This is in addition to 20 new locomotives ordered recently for use in both freight and passenger service.

Planned for Fast Service.

Gray added that the new engines will be capable of hauling heavy freight trains at about 60 miles an hour.

Additional carloadings reports for last week issued yesterday showed a sharp upturn over the preceding week and the corresponding period last year. Individual reports follow:

DRY GOODS MEN DRAFT PROGRAM FOR SELF-RULE

New York, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Leaders of the National Retail Dry Goods association, in convention here, sought today to complete a program of self-rule in retail trade to substitute for the fallen NRA codes in achieving fair trade practices and controlling working conditions.

In face of some opposition against proposals for "little NRA" state set-ups to regulate hours and fix minimum wages, groups worked on details of a broad program to be presented to the convention for a vote on Thursday. Officials predicted a platform would be worked out which would find general acceptance.

Whether state or federal aid should be advocated to enforce working conditions was a leading topic of discussion among approximately 5,000 retail men who gathered for the convention and to buy goods in New York's wholesale markets for an expected brisk spring business.

U. S. TO RECEIVE VAST SUM FROM SECURITY TAX

Survey Cites Typical Totals for Past.

The results of a study by the National Industrial Conference board made public yesterday furnish a forecast of the vast amount of money which will be siphoned into the federal treasury when the unemployment compensation tax levied under the social security act becomes fully effective.

Using estimates of salaries and wages paid in occupations coming under the act the board calculated what would have been paid over to the federal treasury in 1929, 1933, and 1935, if the tax had been in effect. It estimated that payments to the federal government for 1929 would have amounted to $1,019,000,000 at the full 3 per cent rate.

Payment Halved in 1933.

Payments in that prosperous year, the board found, would have been more than twice as large as in the depression year of 1933, for which payments would have approximated $493,000,000. In 1935, the board estimated, the tax would have yielded $629,000,000.

The tax does not become fully effective until 1949. Employers have been taxed at the rate of 1 per cent on their pay rolls since Jan. 1, 1936, under the unemployment compensation section of the act. This rate continues in effect until the end of 1939, after which it increases one-half of 1 per cent every three years until it reaches the maximum 3 per cent in 1949. The tax is distinct from that levied on pay rolls and wages under the old age benefit section of the act. The latter tax went into effect Jan. 1, this year, at the rate of 1 per cent on employers' pay rolls and 1 per cent on wages received by workers. It eventually reaches 3 per cent for each.

Totals Vary Widely.

One of the noteworthy results shown by the conference board's study is the wide variation in the estimated collections from various states. For instance, the board estimated that New York state employers would have paid $168,720,000 if the tax had been in force in 1929 compared with the $967,000 which Nevada employers would have turned over to the treasury.

The following table shows the six states which would have borne the heaviest assessments under the tax for the three years studied [last three ciphers omitted]:

Pennsylvania ..	108,489	51,736	67,271
Illinois	94,893	40,679	51,765
Ohio	73,153	32,454	43,458
California	55,260	28,758	34,058
Michigan	52,861	22,136	31,790

Nevada at Foot of List.

Nevada was at the bottom of the list for each of the three years surveyed. Its 1929 tax of $967,000 was the only one among the states of less than a million dollars. Its 1933 assessment was estimated at $372,000 and 1935 at $536,000.

The table shows industrial states bear the biggest share of the tax. The exclusion of agricultural labor and individual entrepreneurs, such as farmers and retail store operators, is responsible for the relatively small payments by farm states. This is shown in the contrast between Iowa, primarily an agricultural state, and Illinois, a large industrial as well as a farming state. Iowa would have paid $11,395,000 under the tax in 1929 against Illinois' $94,893,000 contribution.

G. F. Swift Paid $72,500 Salary During Last Year

Bigger Clipper Planes Hinted as Martin Doubles Plant Size

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Glenn L. Martin announced today the capacity of his airplane plant here would be doubled to give it the largest assembly floor in the world for aircraft manufacture and make possible the building of flying craft twice the size of the famous China, Hawaiian and Philippine Clippers.

The clipper flying boats, constructed by the Glenn L. Martin company, are now flying the Pacific ocean for Pan American Airways. Weighing nearly 26 tons loaded, these big planes can carry 48 passengers in addition to the crew.

Martin, who is president and chairman of the company, said approximately $2,000,000 will be spent for additions and the latest type machinery.

Largest Clear Floor Space.

"There will be constructed," the announcement said, "an assembly hall 300 feet wide by 500 feet long, with a net headroom clearance of 40 feet, which will constitute the largest unobstructed airplane factory space in the world, having the greatest unobstructed span of girders of any aircraft factory."

Martin said last year was the best in the history of the company. He announced several additions to the official staf. Among the latter was Gardner W. Carr of Seattle, recently vice president of the Boeing Aircraft company, who has become vice president and general manager of the Martin company and will put into operation the expansion program.

Also made a vice president was Joseph T. Hartson, assistant to Martin and a well known figure in the aircraft industry.

Add Five to Board.

These two were added to the board along with Howard W. Bruce, chairman of the Baltimore National bank; John W. Hanes, New York, partner of C. D. Barney & Co., and Harry F. Vollmer, Martin factory manager.

No announcement was made as to whether the company plans the immediate construction of craft doubling the size of the giant clippers. More than a year ago, however, Martin drew specifications for a plane that large, and indicated informally that he was ready to arrange production if there was a demand.

The manufacturer said last year's deliveries by his plant amounted to $6,219,986 and unfilled orders at the end of the year totaled $9,603,327. After write-off for experimental development, depreciation, interest, taxes, and the like, 1936 operating profits were approximately $700,000.

W. C. CUMMINGS MADE PRESIDENT OF CHICAGO CLEARING HOUSE ASSN.

William C. Cummings, president of the Drovers National bank and the Drovers Trust and Savings bank, yesterday was elected president of the Chicago Clearing House association, succeeding Fred A. Cuscaden, vice president of the Northern Trust company.

Herman Waldeck, executive vice president of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, was elected vice president of the association, the post that Cummings previously held.

All members of the clearing house committee, which acts as an executive committee for the association, were reëlected. They are Howard W. Fenton, president of the Harris Trust and Savings bank, chairman; Solomon A. Smith, president of the Northern Trust company, vice chairman; Edward E. Brown, president of the First National of Chicago; Walter J. Cummings, chairman of the Continental Illinois, and Philip R. Clarke, president of the City National Bank and Trust company.

Howard M. Sims was reëlected chief examiner and manager of the clearing house.

Report Newspaper 'Ads' Sell Million Tons of Coal

The Chicago Coal Merchants' association said yesterday that because of the newspaper advertising campaign during 1936 the 250 members of the organization, who supply approximately 85 per cent of the coal and coke in the Chicago area, sold 1,000,000 more tons in 1936 than in 1935. The association declared this jump was a "direct result" of the newspaper advertising.

BIDS ON LINER TO REPLACE OLD LEVIATHAN ASKED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—The maritime commission today called for bids in behalf of the United States Lines for the construction of a new liner to replace the steamship Leviathan. The bids will be received April 1.

Bids were invited on two alternative designs, one for a modernized sister ship to the liners Manhattan and Washington and one for a slightly larger and faster vessel. The ship to be built under either bid would be much smaller than the Leviathan.

Under the program to build a replacement ship the government will lend about 10 million dollars for the construction of the successor to the Leviathan, the "white elephant" of the sea which cost the federal government more than 22 million dollars in about 15 years of operation.

The commission recently announced it was seeking some way of disposing of the Leviathan. It has been offered to the war and navy departments. The vessel has been lying idle at Hoboken, N. J., since September, 1934.

The commission also announced today that it expects to sell for scrap 27 vessels which have been condemned as useless for commercial or military purposes. The vessels are tied at Staten Island, Fort Eustis, Va., and New Orleans.

Increase in Stock Is Voted by Celotex Stockholders

Stockholders of the Celotex corporation, meeting here yesterday at the company's offices at 919 North Michigan avenue, approved the management's proposal to increase the authorized common stock from 500,000 to 750,000 shares. All directors and officers were reëlected.

Important Announcement to MANUFACTURERS--WHOLESALERS

The American Credit Indemnity Co. has just issued to all its agents a new up-to-the-minute underwriting manual. Also it has revised and liberalized all of its policy forms.

These 1937 innovations are right in step with the tempo of the times. They broaden credit insurance coverage possibilities to an extent previously considered impossible to attain. They provide a means for meeting the most urgent and comprehensive needs of any credit grantor. Benefits increased — rates modified.

This new manual epitomizes the experiences and knowledge of 43 years of Credit Insurance underwriting, all of which is now available for your individual credit-granting requirements.

With these new facilities, an experienced credit insurance representative can now open new doors of protection to you. Why not have him call at once and analyze your specific needs? It will be to your immediate advantage to secure an American Credit proposal based on this new manual and these new policy forms. We suggest you phone or write this office — today.

STOCKS WEAKEN AS AUTO STRIKE CLOUDS DARKEN

Motor, Steel Groups Lead Decline.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 19.—Stock market prices weakened all along the line today as a burst of selling in the final hour put a definite end to the irregular trend that had prevailed earlier in the day. Some slight improvement took place before the gong ended the session, but not enough to wipe out losses ranging from fractions to more than a point in most groups.

Activity reached its greatest pitch during the decline, the tickers at one time in the last hour reporting transactions four minutes after their execution. Listless trading earlier in the day, however, kept the volume down to around 2,619,000 shares.

Motors and Steels Weakest.

As in the preceding sessions, motor and steel shares were again under pressure and the coppers and utilities softened. On the other hand, railroad shares staged a mild rally, the tobaccos moved up and amusements were buoyant.

In the line of news, traders could find little to improve their appetite for stocks. No improvement could be noted by observers in the General Motors strike. Opening prices for automobile shares were lower but after they had each sold off more than a point, General Motors and Chrysler stiffened and reduced their losses to fractions.

Steels Cut Early Losses.

United States Steel, off more than 2 points at one time, finished with a loss of more than a point, and Bethlehem receded a fraction. Sloss-Sheffield took a 5 point loss but Gulf States moved against the tide to register a gain of 2½ points.

Quotations for tobacco stocks mounted on the announcement of an increase in the price of cigarets. Gains of fractions to more than a point were posted by American Tobacco, Liggett & Myers, Lorillard, and R. J. Reynolds.

Utility shares spent an unprofitable day, their decline in popularity being traced to depressing news from Washington. Setbacks of a point were frequent as traders worried over the uncertainty of the government's power policy.

Buying Flurry in Rails.

A slight flurry brought higher prices in the carrier section in the early afternoon and most issues managed to retain part of the advances to the end. Atchison was a favorite and Delaware and Hudson rose more than 2 points. Improved earnings for last month and last year were given as the reason for the good demand.

Metal stocks worked lower. Coppers receded as foreign prices for the metal weakened. Cerro de Pasco, Anaconda, Miami, Inspiration, and Magma each lost more than a point.

Loews rose nearly 2 points a new high in the amusement group and Paramount issues soared on renewed bullish activity. Oils were mixed and chemicals weak.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 19.—The second day of easier quotations for treasury bonds saw high grade railroad and public utility issues falling in line with the movement yesterday.

Weakness in treasury bonds was not pronounced and there was little business done either on the stock exchange or in the more active over the counter market. Dealers were aware before the market opened that the treasury had been compelled to accept a larger discount on this week's issue of bills. The average rate was 0.345, the highest since March 7, 1934.

Several Rails Decline.

Fractionally lower prices were recorded for Santa Fe general 4s, American Telephone 3¼s of 1966, Burlington refunding 5s, both issues of Chesapeake and Ohio 3½s, Chicago Union Station 3¾s, and Illinois Bell 3½s.

Heaviness in high grade bonds was coincident with the filing of prices on the $85,000,000 of Canadian government bonds, offering of which may be made Thursday. A strong preliminary demand for these bonds is reported, particularly for the seven year series, which is popular among banks. The offering of $40,000,000 Tide Water Oil debentures today met with a good response.

Foreign Bonds Strong.

In addition to South American issues, which have been rising for weeks, there was a strong demand for European obligations, including Westphalia Electric 6s, Rhine Westphalia 6s, Lombard 7s, Berlin municipal 6s and Bavarian 6½s.

Second grade and speculative domestic bonds were irregular. Declines of a point or more were recorded in Republic Steel 4½s, Alleghany 5s of 1950, Botany Mills 6½s, Studebaker 6s, and Ontario and Western general 4s. The movement was just as pronounced in the other direction in bonds like Mercantile Marine 6s, Park Lexington 6½s, Philadelphia and Reading 6s, and Bush 5s of 1960. Central Foundry 6s soared to a new high.

Parker Rust Proof.

Investors' Guide: Kindly give me information available regarding Parker Rust Proof company.—H. J.

Answer: This company owns patents covering manufacture of rust proofing chemicals which are sold throughout the United States and Europe. It is largely dependent on the automobile and refrigerator industries. The main plant is located at Detroit, with 24 other plants in larger cities throughout the country.

Operations have been conducted at a profit continuously since 1922, and dividends in varying amounts have been paid each year since 1924.

For the first nine months of 1936 net income was $738,000, or $1.71 a share, compared with $667,000, or $1.55, in the corresponding 1935 period.

Per share figures are based on the present capitalization of 2,911 shares of 7 per cent $10 par preferred and 429,498 shares of $2.50 par common stock. This gives effect to 200 per cent stock dividend paid March 10, 1936. The company has no funded debt.

Net income for 1935 was $953,000, or $6.64 a share, on the 143,000 shares then outstanding, compared with $691,000, or $5.80 a share, on 118,049 shares outstanding during 1934. Adjusting per share figures to present capitalization, earnings would have been equal to $2.21 a share in 1935 and $1.93 in 1934. Net income was $404,000 in 1933, $265,000 in 1932, $449,000 in 1931, and $455,000 in 1930, the best figure to that time.

Financial position is good, current assets being $1,501,000, against $398,000 current liabilities at the end of 1935.

The stock is on a regular dividend basis of 37½ cents quarterly. An extra of 82½ cents was paid Dec. 1, 1936, making total dividends $3.07½ for the year, including a quarterly payment of $1.12½ when one-third as many shares were outstanding before the change in capitalization. Including extras, the company paid $4.00 a share each in 1934 and 1935, $3.50 a share in 1933, $2.00 a share in 1932, and $3.50 a share, the previous high, in 1930 and 1931.

Oil Firm Markets a Big Block of Debentures.

A banking group headed by Brown, Harriman & Co. today will offer publicly an issue of $47,000,000 electric plant revenue bonds of the department of water and power of Los Angeles, Cal. The syndicate was awarded the bonds late yesterday.

The issue consists of $23,500,000 series "A" 3½ per cent bonds due serially from 1938 to 1977, which will be priced to yield from one to 3.40 per cent, according to maturity, and $23,500,000 series "B" 3½ per cent bonds, due in 1977, which will be priced at 102 and interest.

Oil Bonds Marketed.

In a moderate increase in activity the security market yesterday received an offering of $40,000,000 of Tide Water Associated Oil company 15 year 3½ per cent sinking fund debentures, while offering was scheduled to be made today of 14,000 shares of first preferred stock $5.10 series of the Minneapolis Gas Light company and 154,757 shares of $2 par value common stock of the Diamond T Motor Car company.

In addition underwriting was announced of 500,000 shares of Tide Water preferred stock, and offering is expected early next week of $15,000,000 of Otis Steel company bonds. The Tide Water debentures, which are dated Jan. 1, 1937, and are due Jan. 1, 1952, were offered at 101 and accrued interest.

Offer Exchange of Stock.

A banking group has underwritten Tide Water's 500,000 shares of $4.50 cumulative convertible preferred stock, without par value. Tide Water is offering to holders of 6 per cent preferred stock the right to exchange each share for new $4.50 preferred stock, plus $2 in cash, the offer expiring Feb. 8. Any of the 6 per cent preferred not exchanged will be called April 1, 1937.

Holders of Tide Water's common stock of record Jan. 29 will be given the right to subscribe, subject to allotment, at 103 per share plus accrued dividends for such shares of the $4.50 preferred stock as are not issued under the exchange offer.

G. L. Ohrstrom & Co. will offer the Minneapolis Gas Light issue at 102, plus accrued interest, to yield 5 per cent. Minneapolis Gas supplies manufactured and natural gas to Minneapolis and eleven adjacent communities.

Diamond T Stock Offering.

The Diamond T shares are to be offered by a group including Hallgarten & Co., Granbery, Safford & Co., A. G. Becker & Co., and Jackson & Curtis at $20 per share.

Offering of the Otis Steel issue, which consists of 25 year first mortgage 4½ per cent sinking fund bonds, is expected to be made by a banking group headed by A. G. Becker & Co. and Kuhn, Loeb & Co.

CHICAGO MAIL ORDER PROFIT BEST SINCE 1928

General Tire Earnings Largest in 7 Years.

The annual report of the Chicago Mail Order company, issued yesterday by E. M. Schnadig, president, showed that its net earnings in the fiscal year ended Jan. 2, 1937, were the largest since 1928, and sales the heaviest in the company's history. Profit was $891,601, equivalent to $2.66 a share, compared with $806,-298, or $2.33 a share, in 1935, and $1,146,482 in 1928, the only time in recent years that profits surpassed a million dollars. Sales in 1936 totaled $27,010,895, an increase of 12.58 per cent over the $24,053,074 for the preceding year.

Bastian-Blessing Earns More.

Lewis C. Blessing, president of Bastian-Blessing company, Chicago, soda fountain supply makers, reported earnings for the year ended Nov. 30, 1936, of $390,621, or $2.04 a common share, compared with $63,-078, or 18 cents a share, in the preceding year. Net sales showed an increase of 33 per cent from $2,667,225 in 1935 to $3,556,300 last year.

Net profit of the General Tire and Rubber company in the fiscal year ended Nov. 30, 1936, was the largest since 1929 and sales were 15½ per cent above 1935, W. O'Neil, president, reported yesterday at the annual meeting in Akron, O. Net income amounted to $1,291,011, or $2.53 a share on common stock. This compares with net loss of $115,756 in the preceding year. Sales were $17,909,-886, against $15,502,000.

Consolidated net loss of the Auburn Automobile company and subsidiaries for the fiscal year ended Nov. 30, 1936, was $1,522,844. This compares with a loss of $2,697,852 for 1935. Current assets Nov. 30 were $3,598,541, of which $969,293 was in cash, and current liabilities were $1,003,471.

Owens Glass Has Record Profits.

Net earnings of the Owens-Illinois Glass company and its subsidiaries for 1936, subject to final determination by auditors, were estimated yesterday by William E. Levis, president, to be $10,020,000, compared with $7,883,496 for 1935. Profit is equal to $7.53 a share for 1936, compared with $6.57 a share for 1935, which sets a new high earnings record for the company.

Howe Sound company, mine holding company, reported net income of $2,518,984 after taxes and depreciation but before depletion for the year ended Dec. 31, equal to $5.32 a share, compared with $2,341,725, or $4.94 a share, in 1935.

The First Boston corporation, underwriter and dealer in securities, reported net earnings of $3,172,351, or $6.34 a share, for the year ended Dec. 31, 1936, compared with $3,350,965, or $6.70 a share, in 1935. Total assets on Dec. 31, 1936, were $97,784,804, including cash of $8,367,762 and government securities of $30,889,054.

COURT UPHOLDS TVA'S GEORGIA POWER PROGRAM

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Federal Judge E. Marvin Underwood ruled today the Tennessee Valley authority may proceed in Georgia with its power program, which had been halted following a temporary restraining order granted in Tennessee.

Judge Underwood granted the TVA a temporary order restraining the Georgia Power company from enforcing the previous injunction by Federal Judge John J. Gore in Tennessee. The Georgia Power company was among nineteen power companies which attacked the constitutionality of the government agency.

Unable to Find Witnesses in U. S. Suit Against Swift

New York, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Government process servers today reported they had been unable to reach several witnesses sought to testify at the government's hearing on charges that Swift & Co., Chicago packing firm, had engaged in unfair trade practices and the hearing, before an examiner of the department of agriculture, was postponed until tomorrow. Charges were filed against both Swift & Co., and Armour & Co., but the latter firm secured a severance of the hearings.

Commodities React Slightly as Traders Take Profits

Commodities declined yesterday in most leading markets on selling credited to speculators who had made purchases during the recent sharp upturn in prices. The declines were moderate, and most leading staples which have advanced recently are still selling at their highest quotations in several months.

Slackening in the aggressive foreign demand for copper was reflected in a further decline to 12.275 cents a pound in the export price in New York. At the opening export copper was quoted at 12.65, while last week it was a six year high price of 13.05. Although some resale transactions on the domestic market were reported at 12¾ cents, the official price remained at 13 cents a pound. Such transactions are frequently made by others than producers or their agents at "unofficial" prices. Leading producers, however, gave no intimation that they plan to change the 13 cent price.

Many Staples Lower.

Rubber, sugar, coffee, hides, and cocoa, all of which participated in last week's upturn, closed lower yesterday. Raw sugar was 0.5 to 0.7 cent lower in the spot market in New York. Sugar for delivery next May rose 0.1 of a cent to 2.84 cents a pound.

Principal future contracts in rubber dropped ¾ cent a pound and closed nearly 2½ cents a pound below the recent high prices. Rubber for May delivery closed at 2.07 cents. Coffee futures fell approximately ¼ cent a pound, but recovered part of the loss, closing 0.11 to 0.13 cent lower.

Cotton fell 0.08 to 0.13 cent a pound, with the May future closing at 12.32 cents a pound. Cotton has been a laggard during the recent upturn in commodity prices.

RAIL INVESTMENT CONTROL URGED IN I. C. C. REPORT

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—(AP)—An interstate commerce commission examiner proposed today after a 14 months' study of railroad bankruptcy that "so-called outside investments" of railroads should be brought under strict control. The examiner, O. L. Mohundro, suggested closer supervision in a report on the history and management of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company, which is in bankruptcy awaiting reorganization.

He said that if the interstate commerce law "is to remain as it is, permitting common carriers to form holding companies and to function through subsidiary companies not subject to the act," the subsidiaries should be brought under the act.

He called for "serious consideration of the propriety of so amending the law as to require authorization by the commission before any investment is made by a carrier for other than its own carrier purposes."

COTTON SPINNING SETS NEW RECORD DURING DECEMBER

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—(AP)—The census bureau credited the cotton spinning industry with a new activity record today as it announced cotton spindles in mills of this country were operated at 134.5 per cent of capacity last month.

The December figure eclipsed the 129.9 per cent of November, which had surpassed the previous 16 year peak of 128.9 per cent of capacity established in June, 1933.

Spinning spindles in place on Dec. 31 totaled 27,700,194, of which 24,090,-204 were active some time during the month, compared with 27,757,828 and 23,805,520 for November, and 29,253,-444 and 23,399,344 for December, 1935.

Active spindle hours for December totaled 8,679,119,464, or an average of 313 hours per spindle in place, compared with 7,997,374,464 and 288 for November, and 6,803,980,354 and 233 for December, 1935.

Illinois Electricity Sales Expand 13.2 Pct. in 1936

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 19.—(AP)—The Illinois Commerce commission today announced that 6,528,083,106 kilowatt hours were sold in 1936 to Illinois electricity consumers, compared with 5,767,425,251 in 1935, an increase of 13.2 per cent. The report was compiled by 12 companies which transact over 98 per cent of all electric business in the state.

Ruling on Auburn Pk. Bank Stock Settlement Appealed

A group of depositors of the defunct Auburn Park Trust and Savings bank yesterday filed in the Superior court a notice of appeal to the Appellate court of Illinois on an order of Judge Walter T. Stanton of the Superior court allowing settlement by stockholders of the bank at less than full liability.

COTTON CARRIED LOWER BY SCATTERED LIQUIDATION

Scattered liquidation developed in the cotton futures market yesterday, due to less aggressive buying by trade interests and relative weakness in Liverpool. Closing trades in Chicago were 5 to 14 points lower on the active futures. Other American markets declined 4 to 11 points. [A point is equal to 1-100 cent a pound or 5 cents a bale.]

Spot houses were credited with having bought March and May cotton contracts in New York early in the day, but the demand later was less aggressive. Spot cotton closed 5 points lower, with New Orleans at 13 cents; New York, 13.05 cents; Houston, 12.60 cents; Galveston at 12.50 cents per pound. Prices follow:

EGG PRICES FALL TO LOW IN YEAR; BUTTER DECLINES

Government Buying Fails to Check Slump.

New low prices for refrigerator eggs since January, 1936, were established yesterday on the Mercantile exchange, the current delivery declining 1½ cents to 17¼ cents a dozen with the close at the lowest level of the day. Other futures closed ⅛ to 1½ cents lower with fresh graded eggs for January delivery at 21¾ cents a dozen, or 4½ cents above the refrigerator variety.

The trade paid little attention to reports from New York indicating that the government had purchased nearly 100,000 dozen fresh eggs for relief distribution, bringing the total to approximately 300,000 dozen which has been taken within a few days in an effort to prevent a decline in the market. Fresh eggs in Chicago were quoted 1 to 1¼ cent lower yesterday with fresh graded firsts selling at 21¼ to 22¼ cents a dozen.

Egg Receipts Heavy.

Unusually heavy receipts of fresh eggs for this season of the year has adversely affected the demand for the refrigerator variety. At the end of last week there was a total of 450,139 cases, or over 13,500,000 dozen of eggs, reported held in cold storage at 26 leading cities, compared with 285,869 cases, or 8,500,000 dozen, a year ago.

Butter prices declined ⅛ to ½ cent a pound on futures and ¾ to 1 cent in the spot market. Butter for delivery in January closed on the Mercantile exchange at 31⅝ cents a pound. All deliveries of future contracts except January were at a new low level for the season. Stocks of butter in cold storage at 26 leading markets on Jan. 16 were reported by the bureau of agricultural economics at 34,823,000 pounds, compared with 22,712,000 pounds in 1936. In the last three weeks over 2,000,000 pounds of foreign butter have been imported at New York.

Potatoes Close Loser.

Potato futures closed 4 to 5 cents lower with the March contract calling for a delivery of U. S. extra No. 1 Idahoes closing at $3.95 per 100 pounds.

Trading in butter, egg, and potato futures yesterday on the Mercantile exchange aggregated 514 cars, including 191 cars of butter, 307 cars of eggs, and 16 cars of potatoes. Prices follow:

LARD LOWER IN SYMPATHY WITH WEAK GRAINS, HOGS

Lard futures yesterday showed a heavy undertone. The close was 7½ to 15 cents lower on selling induced by the weakness in grains and hogs and continued relatively slow demand for cash product. Commission houses and warehouse interests were on the selling side, the latter being credited with hedging cash product. There were 200,000 pounds of cash lard delivered on January contracts.

Clear bellies [salt pork] closed unchanged to 15 cents lower. Cash lard was quoted at $13.32½; loose, $12.55; leaf, $12.25, and clear bellies at $16.50 per 100 pounds. Prices follow:

SEVENTH SCHREINER, FOURTH GENERATION, JOINS BOARD OF TRADE

John J. Schreiner II. was elected to membership yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. He is 24 years old and the seventh member of his family to hold an active membership. He is associated with his father, Charles A. Schreiner, and will become a broker in the rye pit.

Other members of the family owning seats are Jacob Schreiner, president of the Schreiner Grain company, St. Louis; young Schreiner's grandfather, a brother and three uncles. The family business was organized 80 years ago by the great grandfather of the newest exchange member.

Two other new members were elected yesterday. They are Norman J. Garneau, River Forest, and John R. Dillon, partner of Hayden, Stone & Co., New York. Garneau, who is 26, has two uncles who are active members of the exchange. He will become a trader in the soy bean market.

GERMANY OFFERS GOODS FOR GRAIN TO ARGENTINES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 19.—A special delegation of six prominent Germans sailed for Argentina today to attempt to negotiate for the purchase of grain in exchange for finished German goods. Since German statisticians asserted that Germany lacked 1,000,000 tons of grain this year the German negotiators have been working overtime in the countries of eastern Europe which grow grain, but succeeded in contracting for only part of their needs.

Germany in recent weeks signed contracts for the purchase of 50,000 tons of grain in Rumania, 80,000 tons in Jugo-Slavia, 40,000 tons in Czecho-slovakia, and 50,000 tons in Hungary. This leaves Germany eager to purchase about 800,000 tons in South America, North America or in any country where grain can be paid for with German finished goods.

Most German contracts call for payment in goods. An exception is the contract with Jugo-Slavia, which agreed to "long term payments." The German delegation to Argentina will offer airplanes, installation of new airfields, aviation equipment and services of aviation engineers, as well as finished goods, in exchange for South American grain. If it fails to secure all the grain needed in Argentina the delegation will continue its trip to other American countries.

FEWER U. S. STEEL SHARES HELD BY INVESTORS DEC. 31

New York, Jan 19.—(AP)—United States Steel corporation reported today there were 8,703,252 shares of its common stock outstanding Dec. 31. Shares of preferred stock outstanding totaled 3,602,811 shares.

Roughly 24 per cent of the common was in brokers' names, the actual number being 2,082,159 shares, against 2,046,525 Sept. 30. Investors owned 6,621,093 shares, or 76.08 per cent, compared with 6,656,727, or 76.49 per cent, Sept. 30.

Brokers held 407,814 shares of the preferred, or 11.3 per cent, against 417,148, or 11.58 per cent, on Sept. 30. Investors' holdings totaled 3,194,997 shares, or 88.68 per cent, compared with 3,185,663, or 88.42 per cent on Sept. 30.

Foreign holdings of common in the respective periods were 604,587 and 592,858, while preferred holdings abroad were 74,539 and 75,385 shares.

ARGENTINA PLANS ADDITIONAL BOND REFUNDING DEAL

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Argentina plans shortly to carry out a refunding operation in New York whereby approximately $65,000,000 of its high coupon bonds would be replaced by an issue of lower yield, Dr. Roberto M. Critz, finance minister, disclosed today.

This would be in addition to the $39,600,000 in 6 per cent and 5½ per cent bonds which, it was announced yesterday in New York, would be redeemed in six months' time.

New York sources said that the $65,000,000 to be converted probably included the 6 per cent issues of that amount, normally due in 1957-'60.

LA SALLE STREET CASHIERS NAME WILLIAMS HEAD

Claud R. Williams of Paul H. Davis & Co. last night was elected president of the La Salle Street Cashiers at the annual dinner and reorganization meeting in the Medinah Athletic club, attended by 225 members. He succeeds Frank J. Rinne of Morton D. Cahn.

Other officers elected were: Vice president, Robert Anderson of Hallgarten & Co.; secretary, George W. Wilson of the Chicago Stock exchange; treasurer, William S. Barnhart of First La Salle Company, Inc. Members of the executive committee chosen were Lester Ackerson of S. B. Chapin & Co. and C. P. Rudolph of Blyth & Co., Inc.

GRAINS DECLINE AS TRADERS TRY TO SAVE PROFITS

Recent Sharp Rise Leads to Heavy Selling.

CHICAGO GRAIN PRICES

	Ys'day.	Mon.	Wk. ago.	Month ago.
Wheat	$1.30⅝	$1.32⅜	$1.34¼	$1.28½
Corn	1.10⅝	1.12¼	1.11¼	1.04¼
Oats	.52⅞	.54	.53¼	.50⅝
Rye	1.09¼	1.10¼	1.12½	1.06⅝

The downward trend in the grain market, which has been under way for nearly a week with temporary interruptions, gathered increased momentum yesterday. A wave of general selling by speculators, who were attempting to save profits which had accrued during the sharp upturn in November and December, carried prices 1 to 2½ cents a bushel lower. Wheat led the decline, with May delivery closing at $1.30⅝, the lowest price since Dec. 23.

There was little in the news to account for the general desire to liquidate holdings of grain futures other than increasing pressure to sell new wheat from the southern hemisphere in Europe. The Liverpool wheat market was affected by the lower prices asked for Argentine wheat, which is now moving in volume, and closed as much as 1⅝ cents a bushel lower.

Italy Buys Argentine Wheat.

Italy was reported to have purchased 1,000,000 to 1,500,000 bushels of Argentine wheat, with trade estimates indicating that country has now secured around 50,000,000 bushels from various countries.

Trade comment was inclined to attribute the declining tendency in the grain markets yesterday to elimination of considerable speculation which had accumulated during the recent upturn. At the recent high point May wheat showed an advance of 26¼ cents from the low level of Nov. 2. During the same period May corn advanced 23⅝ cents; oats, 14 cents, and rye, 38⅝ cents a bushel.

Uncertainty regarding President Roosevelt's inaugural address and general weakness in commodity markets added to the bearish sentiment.

Corn, Oats Resist Selling.

Corn and oats showed resistance to pressure in the early trading yesterday, with corn futures at the extreme selling within a fraction of a cent a bushel of the highest level of the season. Shipping sales of 107,000 bushels of cash corn and 100,000 bushels of oats were reported, but when wheat started to weaken there was general selling in other pits.

Considerable evening up of open contracts in the "old" style deliveries of May and July corn was under way, as it was the last day for unrestricted trading.

CHERRY BURRELL RAISES DIVIDEND TO $3 ANNUALLY

Public Service of N. J. Lifts Regular Rate.

Directors of the Cherry-Burrell corporation yesterday placed the common stock on a $3 annual basis by declaring a quarterly dividend of 75 cents. In the last quarter of 1936 a dividend of 62½ cents was declared, while in the three preceding quarters dividends of 50 cents were declared. The regular quarterly dividend of $1.25 was declared on the preferred stock.

J. L. McIntyre was elected treasurer of the corporation, succeeding E. B. Cameron, who resigned. Stanley B. Berg, controler, was elected vice president and controler.

Approve Officers' Bonus.

At the stockholders' meeting preceding the directors' meeting the plan for additional compensation for officers, as previously announced, was approved, and all directors were reelected.

The regular dividend rate of the Public Service Corporation of New Jersey was boosted yesterday when the directors declared a quarterly payment of 65 cents. The preceding payment was a quarterly dividend of 60 cents and an extra of 20 cents.

Phone Firm Lifts Payments.

The Associated Telephone and Telegraph company authorized dividends of 49 cents on the 7 per cent first preferred stock and 42 cents on the $6 first preferred stock. In December dividends of 28 cents on the 7 per cent preferred and 24 cents on the $6 preferred shares were declared.

The Lexington Utilities company declared a quarterly dividend of $1.62½ on the preferred stock and also 50 cents against accumulations.

The Ludlum Steel company declared a dividend of 25 cents on the common stock. An extra dividend of 25 cents was paid on Dec. 22, and a dividend of 25 cents was paid in November.

COMMUNISM FOUND MAKING NO HEADWAY IN U. S.

Democracy Dominant, Says Professor.

Communism in the United States is making no progress, Dr. Michael T. Florinsky, associate professor of economics at Columbia university and former Russian army officer, told the Rotary Club of Chicago at a luncheon yesterday in the Hotel Sherman. Florinsky said that the statement that the world, and especially Europe, is torn between communism and fascism is a gross exaggeration.

"The simple fact is," he asserted, "that the ideas of neither communism nor fascism have made progress in any country where the democracy has been built on a strong foundation and has behind it a tradition of success and accomplishment."

Three Great Trials Survived.

Democracy in the United States has survived three great trials, he said. These were the world war, prohibition, and the depression.

"In none of these trials have the principles of democracy suffered any real setback," he asserted. "It is clear that the machinery of government and business organization has to be overhauled and adjusted from time to time, but the essentials of the system—the rights of those who disagree with the government to say so—have not been violated.

Shoot Opponents Abroad.

"The opponents of Stalin, Mussolini, and Hitler are shot or kept in concentration camps. President Roosevelt, Gov. Landon, Norman Thomas, and Mr. Browder all dined together in Washington, and, according to the papers, had a good time."

He said that expressions of democracy prevailing in South American countries must be taken with a grain of salt.

"I noticed the other day in Albany through an editorial in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE that fifty editors in South American countries continued to remain in prisons, which is not a very good indication of democracy," he commented.

DEFENDS EDISON MERGER PLAN IN COURT HEARING

Utilities Open to Public Eye, Says Attorney.

If there is any kind of an enterprise in this country which is open to scrutiny it is a public utility, Clay Judson, attorney for the Commonwealth Edison company, asserted yesterday before Judge Grover C. Neimeyer, in the Superior court, in resisting efforts to halt a special stockholders' meeting of Commonwealth Edison called for Jan. 23. The meeting was called to ask stockholders to ratify a consolidation of Commonwealth Edison with the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois and the Western United Gas and Electric company.

Herbert Pope, attorney for stockholders owning 982 shares, last Saturday asked a temporary injunction to halt the meeting, alleging among other charges "conspiracy and fraud" on the part of the officers of Commonwealth Edison.

Plan Subject to Approval.

Denying Pope's charges, Judson said the consolidation plan of the Commonwealth Edison company must be approved by two-thirds of the stockholders, the Illinois commerce commission, and the Securities and Exchange commission.

"If there was ever a company that operates in a glass house it is a public utility," he said. "It must go before various governmental bodies before any action is taken. If there ever was a time when stockholders of a utility company could be assured of a fair deal it is today."

Affidavits of Owen D. Young, chairman of the board of the General Electric company, were introduced by Judson to refute testimony given on Monday in affidavits from Sydney Stein Jr. of the investment firm of Stein & Roe, regarding conversations Stein had with Young while the latter was acting as an umpire in the exchange of securities.

Young Explains Interviews.

Young, in the affidavit read yesterday, said that "I told them [meaning Stein and Pope] that everything I said in my interviews was confidential. It was not my final decision, however."

According to the affidavit, Young said he wanted to study the exchange plan more in detail before finally making his decision. On Dec. 14, 1936, he wrote to the Commonwealth Edison company saying that in his estimation the exchange of stock in the consolidation should be be on a basis of three shares of Edison for four shares of Public Service stock.

The hearing was adjourned until today.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

The Virginia Cure

January 19, 1937.

HAMS and bacon are again being cured old Virginia style at the Tribune's Wheaton experimental farm. This year's hams weigh an average of nearly twenty pounds. The bacon slabs average slightly more than nine and one-half pounds.

Twenty-six hams and an equal number of bacon sides are being cured in the batch at the farm. They already have been started on the first step in the curing process. It requires several weeks from the time the hams and bacon are put in curing barrels until they are smoked and ready to eat.

The True Formula.

This is the third year the Virginia style of curing hams and bacon has been followed on the Wheaton farm. The practice was started two years ago and the results were so satisfactory that it was repeated last year. The formula used at the farm is one that has been handed down from generation to generation among farmers in the hills of old Virginia. Many hundreds of readers have requested the formula since it first appeared in THE TRIBUNE. It is being reprinted for the benefit of those who may care to save it. Here it is:

A mixture of 3 pecks of salt, 1 gallon of brown sirup, 2 pounds of brown sugar, and 1½ pounds of saltpeter to each 1,000 pounds of ham is rubbed on the "meat" side of the hams. The mixture is rubbed on until no more of it will stick to the meat. The treated hams are then packed, skin side down, in a heavy barrel free from objectionable odors. Sirup barrels may be used.

The hams are transferred to other barrels after they have been in the original barrels for one week, those at the top of the original barrels being placed on the bottom of the new barrels.

The sirup mixture that settles to the bottom of the original barrels is poured on top after the hams are packed a second time. This process is repeated for five consecutive weeks. The hams are then ready to smoke.

An Extra Fancy Smoke.

The curing mixture is brushed off—not washed—before the hams are hung in the smokehouse. Immediately after the hams are hung they are smoked with a smoldering fire made from hickory chips. A small amount of slightly seasoned apple tree wood is used to lend additional flavor. The hams are smoked for three or four weeks.

Then black pepper is rubbed on the hams and they are wrapped in brown paper and put in flour sacks or similar cloth bags. The bags are tied tight at the top and dipped in thick whitewash. About a week later they are dipped a second time to make sure they are thoroughly sealed.

The bacon is cured in the same kind of mixture and handled in the same way, except that the sides are changed in the barrels over a period of only three or four weeks instead of five. Bacon slabs are thinner than hams and cure more quickly.

A Repeater

Perhaps you have read our ads before, we've promised you hard work, not hard in a physical sense, but difficult because it is probably far different than anything you have ever tried before. You've read that our work is permanent, that every man selected will be thoroughly and carefully trained to enable him to take full advantage of his own talent in presenting our electric unit. Not a lot different than hundreds of other commission deals being offered every day, is it? NO!

BUT WE SAY

THE PROOF IS in the Pay Check

And it can be YOUR pay check. We are willing to spend $25 to train any qualified man over 25 who has a little self-confidence and is willing to give all of his time and full coöperation in an effort to earn REAL MONEY.

See Mr. Callahan, Room 618, 203 N. Wabash-avenue.

SALESMEN

HAVE YOU PEP? HAVE YOU AMBITION? DO YOU WANT TO MAKE A REAL SUCCESS IN 1937? DO YOU WANT TO JOIN AN ORGANIZATION WHERE EVERYONE IS HAPPY AND MAKING MONEY?

Then call to see a new product for the kitchen that is required in every home. Entirely and startling new. No tiresome house to house canvassing. Live leads furnished. Real chance for promotion for the go-getter, as we are expanding nationally and need leaders. High cash commission paid in advance. Surety bond furnished. 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. Parlor A, Morrison Hotel.

A Salesman's Gold Mine. U. S. Social Security Act.

Forces every employer of one or more persons to file their first return for January, 1937, next month. Worthmore's 3-in-one IMPROVED pay roll record books keep accurate records as easy as A B C. Authentic, complete, indisputable; contains employee's receipts, employer's permanent records yearly summary, employee's history and law, all under one durable cover in compact form. Each book a complete year's record for each employee. Percentage as high as 300%. The time is now ripe, 10 to 20 sales per day easy. Write or call, Worthmore, Inc., Dept. C, 221 E. 20th-st., Chicago. Out of town men write.

NEW Promise-to-Pay PLAN
No Security—No Endorsers. No Wage Assignments.
Just Your Plain Note
Now you can get a loan on just your Promise-to-Pay. If you can make regular payments sign only a plain note and nothing else. It is just like borrowing from a friend on a simple I. O. U. No endorsers, no wage assignments, co-makers, furniture, real estate, stocks, bonds, diamonds, or other security required. We take you at your word and give you the money you need on just your Promise-to-Pay. Unbelievably simple. Your honesty, integrity, and ability to pay are absolutely the sole requirements for a loan on the New Promise-to-Pay Plan.
Reduced Rates
Monthly charges are 3% on balances up to $100 and only 2% on balances above $100. Also all other types of loans at the same reduced cost. For full particulars stop in, write, or telephone the office nearest you.

HOW YOU CAN BORROW.
1. If you can make monthly payments you can qualify for a loan.
2. You do not need co-makers or endorsers.
3. No inquiries made of employer or friends.
HOW YOU CAN REPAY.
1. Payments on all loans are small. For example payments on a $200 loan are $10 per month plus interest charges on a 20 month schedule.
2. Monthly rate is 2% on the balance above $100, 3% on $100 or less. This is substantially less than the lawful maximum on loans over $100.

President Roosevelt Takes Oath for Second Term Today—Nation Awaits His Inaugural Address

WHERE PRESIDENT WILL TAKE OATH TODAY FOR HIS SECOND TERM—The inauguration stand on the east plaza of the capitol in Washington, completed for today's event. The United States Marine band is rehersing its part in the political drama. On the stand Chief Justice Hughes will administer the oath about noon. (Story on page 1.)

ENDS ONE TERM AND STARTS ANOTHER—President Roosevelt, whose inaugural address today will attract world-wide interest, in his most recent portrait taken Monday at the White House. He will take oath for second term after winning smashing victory at polls last November. [Associated Press Wirephoto.] (Story on page 1.)

JACKSON HOME "TRANSPLANTED" TO CAPITAL FOR REVIEWING STAND—In this picturesque setting, lighted for the first time early yesterday, President Roosevelt will review the inaugural parade today after taking oath. It is a replica of the Hermitage. Glass encloses the booth where the President will sit. (Story on page 1.)

ROUTE TAKEN BY MILLIONAIRE AVIATOR IN RECORD BREAKING CROSS-COUNTRY FLIGHT—Here is the course and time data of the journey yesterday by Howard Hughes from Los Angeles to Newark, a distance of 2,490 miles. He flew at a speed averaging more than 5½ miles a minute, sucking oxygen through a rubber tube most of the way because of the high elevation. The previous record for the flight was 9 hours 25 minutes and 10 seconds. (Story on page 1.)
